OLD MERRY BOY'S SONG.

The lord loves his land and the miner his gold
And the hunter his horse and his hound,
The parson his port, and the warrior bold
His sword and the clarion sound;
And the sailor his lass,
And the beauty her glass,
And the reaper a bonny bright sky;
But give me a cot,
With love for my lot,
And a sparkle of mirth in my eye,
And this ditty I'll sing
With the pride of a king;
"Though the cash in my coffers be small,
The best of all wealth
Is a good stock of health,
With a heart that is thankful for all."

While the duke has his castle, the monarch his crown,
And the courtier his title and name,
And their ladies repose on their couches of down,
And the minstrel is honored with fame,
I will journey through life
Without envy or strife,
Looking out for its beautiful flowers,
And carry a light
For adversity's night,
And honey to sweeten its sours;
And I'll merrily sing
As I march with a swing,
Since honesty fareth no fall:
"The best of all wealth
Is a good stock of health,
With a heart that is thankful for all."

Let the lord have his land, and the miner his gold,
And the hunter his horse and his hound,
And the parson his port, and the warrior bold
His sword and the clarion sound;
And the sailor his lass,
And the beauty her glass,
And the reaper his bonny bright sky;
But with love for my lot,
In a sweet little cot,
And the sparkle of mirth in my eye,
I my ditty will sing,
Spite of penury's sting:
"Though the cash in my coffers be small,
The best of all wealth
Is a stock of good health,
With a heart that is thankful for all."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,
December 1st, 1879.

Editors Deseret News:

The Congressmen who have arrived for the session which opens to-day, are very free in expressing their choice for candidates of their respective parties for the Presidency. It is clear that among republicans, Grant is the first or second choice of a great majority. Next to him (doubtless) Blaine has the largest following. Both these men, but for very different reasons, are more popular among the people at large than among the prominent politicians of the country. Among democrats the list is longer, and I find also a strong disposition to attempt to unite upon some man not heretofore prominently mentioned in connection with the office.

Dakota and Washington Territories will probably ask that steps preliminary to their admission as States be taken. However, Washington and Dakota will probably find it more difficult to gain admission into the Union than it would have been years ago, when party necessity forced the radicals to admit a State where for a restaurant and a mining camp could be found.

One of the new ideas of the present session is a "National Mining Bureau," a something to give abroad and at home a measure of government endorsement to our mines and mining products. The proposed measure is specially urged now by those interested in mining property in the Southern States, but it is thought Western miners will use their influence in the same direction.

If possible, the Louisiana liars who are hard testifying to keep Kellogg in his seat in the Senate are excelling in their line of industry the pioneers who swore Tilden out and Hayes in. Those Louisiana radicals are a remarkable set of men. They must have made charming rulers for a great State.

The Governor of South Carolina has just sent something to the Governor of North Carolina, and to the people of all the States, which is very interesting. In his late annual message he gives the State expenses for the last year to have been one-third less than what they were in the most economical years of radical rule, says that more children are attending the public schools than ever before, there being as many as 45 per cent. more colored children so instructed than in any previous year, and the State has money in its treasury. This is not the condition of things northern radicals are made to believe exists in South Carolina or any other Southern State.

General Grant will be here sometime during the winter. Besides the general celebration by the public, his friends are attempting to secure for him a kind of reception by Congress when he visits the House or Senate, which will be out of the ordinary line of such affairs. The General has a great many fool friends.

RENO.

CHRIST CHURCH, New Zealand,
Nov. 3d, 1879.

Editors Deseret News:

The people of this place are mostly from the other side of the water. There are people here from every nation under heaven. They come here under the impression that they have only to ask for money and they will get it; this is in consequence of lying agents in their different countries who tell them also that there is every facility for working to advantage the small bit of capital, that by years of toil and hardships, they have succeeded in scraping together. When they come here they find themselves deceived, and then they become careless of everything, their only object being to make money, not caring what they do to obtain the coveted treasure, which some of them almost make their God. That is their first consideration; the next is comfort and ease. They do not for a moment think of their soul's salvation; if they do they do not give it a second thought.

I write these things from experience, being now 24 years in the Australasian colonies, over a good deal of which I have traveled. The natives of New Zealand are called Maori (mowry), they claim to come from the Friendly Islands, and they are a very superstitious race, but are industrious, engaging themselves in farming pursuits and wool growing; but as is usual with the colored race, some rogues of white men get in among them and take advantage of their simplicity and get land from them for a lot of gaudy things that attract the eye of the poor native. Now they see their mistake and they are causing disturbances over it and the government is taking it up.

This is a very poor country at the present time; it is in a very deplorable condition. There have been two very bad harvests here, but this year there is every prospect of a good harvest. If we do not have one I do not know what we shall do, for the country depends almost entirely upon the growth of grain and wool. It is true there is a little gold and coal, but these sink into insignificance when compared with the other colonies. The natives here have their interests looked after as they have elections the same as the white people, and they send their own representatives to Parliament who are very eloquent men, and not to be bought over at any price, but will hold fast to their principles, and there are some of their young sent to England to receive a college education.

The mission is going on well. The elders are in excellent health except Brother Pierce. I am afraid that the climate is not agreeing with him. We would rather keep him among us but we do not want to see him working so hard; he has borne the burden and heat of the day, and now he should be gathered home, to have a little rest; he is untiring in his efforts to bring the gospel before the people of New Zealand.

Your brother in the holy covenant,

W. C. BAILEY.

Romance of a Ring.

A princess of Prussia at one time received a small and antique ring from her governess for a present. About a year after the occurrence the court received a visit from the Grand Duke Nicholas, the brother of the Emperor Alexander, and who, at the time, was not the heir expectant of the crown. The Grand Duke saw the princess, and with the quick resolve native to his disposition immediately determined to ask her in marriage. One day, as he was seated by her side at the royal dinner table, he spoke to her of his forthcoming departure, adding that it depended upon her whether or not his stay in Berlin should be prolonged.

"What shall I do, then, to influence your intentions?" was the reply of the smiling princess.

"You must not refuse to receive my addresses," immediately returned the outspoken Nicholas.

"You ask much."

"I ask even more. You ought to give me some encouragement in my endeavors to please you."

"That is still more difficult. Besides, the moment is not well chosen for a favor."

"I beg your royal highness to give me a sign that I am not totally indifferent to you. You have a little ring on your finger, the possession of which would render me happy. I beseech you to give me the ring."

"What, give the ring at the dinner table, and in the presence of all these people?"

"Let me see—press it into this piece of bread and give it to me."

And press the ring into a piece of bread she did, and gave it to the future Emperor. Nicholas took an early opportunity to leave the hall, and on exhuming the treasure from its wheaten tomb discovered an inscription on the inner side in French, and running to the following effect: "L'Imperatrice de la Russie."

He is said to have worn the keepsake for the rest of his days, attached to a chain round his neck, the ring being too small of course for any of his colossal fingers. The future Empress, it seems, had been unconsciously wearing for some time the emblem of her future greatness.

HENLEY'S COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPOPHOSPHITES

The Promoter and Perfector of Assimilation.

The Reformer and Vitalizer of the Blood.

The Producer and Invigorator of Nerve and Muscle.

The Builder and Supporter of Brain Power.

Fellows' Compound Syrup is composed of Ingredients identical with those which constitute Healthy Blood, Muscle and Nerve and Brain Substance, while life itself is directly dependent upon some of them.

By its union with the blood and its effect upon the muscles, reestablishing the one and toning the other, it is capable of effecting the following results:

It will displace or wash out tuberculous matter, and thus cure Consumption.

By increasing Nervous and Muscular Vigor, it will cure Dyspepsia, feeble or interrupted action of the Heart and Palpitation, Weakness of Intellect caused by grief, worry, overtax or irregular habits, Bronchitis, Acute or Chronic, Congestion of the Lungs, even in the most alarming stages.

It cures Asthma, Loss of Voice, Neuralgia, St. Vitus Dance, Epileptic Fits, Whooping Cough, Nervousness, and is a most wonderful adjunct to other remedies in sustaining life during the process of Diphtheria.

Do not be deceived by remedies bearing a similar name, no other preparation is a substitute for this under any circumstances.

Look out for the name and address J. I. FELLOWS', St. John, N. B. on the yellow wrapper in water mark, which is seen by holding the paper before the light.

Price, $1.50 per Bottle, six for $7.50.
