WHAT IS YOUR SON TO BE

A FIELD OFFERED BY THE GROWING ELECTRIC BUSINESS.

The Advance in Electricity Has Been So Rapid That It Has Progressed Faster Than the Intelligence Necessary to Handle It—Good Wages Paid.

Two men were sitting face to face between the car tracks on Park row the other day. It seemed to be a dangerous position, for they could not follow their work and at the same time keep their eyes on the rattling teams on either hand. They had to keep their elbows in, too, or the cars would bump them. They were seated at a manhole, testing cables of wire which were in the subway beneath. Each had the end of a cable in hand and a portable galvanometer—a square box about the size of a cigar box—in front of him.

But a few years ago the man engaged in connecting wires in this way touched the tip of each wire in turn to the tip of his tongue. If there was a current running through the wire he felt a little pricking and a sour taste. He did this the whole day through, and was none the worse for receiving so many slight electric shocks and tasting so much copper.

It was a very primitive test, but a very good one, and old wire testers still use it when in a hurry. But soon a galvanometer was made, which not only finds the current but gives some idea of its strength. The rapid way in which invention has been piled upon invention in the electrical world is marvelous, and it seems surprising that a sufficient number of workmen of sufficient intelligence should be found in such a hurry to practically put these inventions into use.

A question upon this very point was put to a well known electrician who happened to saunter by the two men at work.

BAD WORK.

"It is only surprising in a measure," he said. "As a matter of fact, the business has grown much faster than the intelligence necessary to handle it, and many accidents are due to that fact. The electric light people at first had to rely very largely on the workmen engaged by the telegraph companies, and both had [illegible]

Asthma. "I have been a great sufferer from Asthma and severe Colds every Winter, and last Fall my friends as well as myself thought because of my feeble condition, and great distress from constant coughing, and inability to raise any of the accumulated matter from my lungs, that my time was close at hand. When nearly worn out for want of sleep and rest, a friend recommended me to try thy valuable medicine, Boschee's German Syrup.

FALL CLOTHING! FALL OPENING!

OUR STOCK OF FALL CLOTHING FOR MEN'S, BOYS' and Children's wear is now on our counters. To us it means an immense outlay of money, as well as weeks—yes, months—of work; yet as we look carefully through the separate departments we feel well repaid for our time and work. The question now is to turn the money over from your pocket to our bank account, and at the same time see that you are well pleased and get full value for every dollar you leave with us. If by chance you get an article that does not prove satisfactory—(such things will happen)—come back and show us the fault; we're only too glad of the opportunity to make it right.
