NEWS OF THE WEST.

The Will of Old Philip Berger Brings One More Sensation.

AN ANCIENT CANYON HAIL.

The Leader Stage Again Held Up—Beaten by Tramps—Dead Buried Twice.

On Tuesday night fire destroyed the Palace hotel at Pullman, Wash. The outlook were nearly all a total loss, insurance on the building, $7,000 on the goods, $1,500.

The fame in the vicinity of San Miguel, Cal., which has lasted two city years, is now said to be becoming thoroughly washed by the frequent rains, and there is now no doubt of a bountiful harvest.

There has been a new discovery in the north part of Lander county, and the rock rises $50 to $400 and is rich in copper. There is a tenement lead of the ore and it is reported to run exceedingly rich and uniformly assayed for working purposes.

The stage from Lander to Rawlins (Wyoming) was held up Sunday morning early near Bosler, outside five miles north of Rawlins. Marshal Jim Carey, who relieved of his watch and a few dollars. It is reported that the robbers will be arrested.

The E[illegible] Wash., Morning Times has season pretensions. An attempt was made to fix the price (silver is a competitive plan, the printers being guaranteed $3.75 a week, the regular union scale being $4.50. They succeeded but a small number of the wages guaranteed and refused to work longer.

Thomas Berry, manager of the mills at San Miguel, Cal., while driving to the Los Osipos on Saturday, between Paso Robles and Templeton, was stopped by two tramps. They demanded money, and when he refused the demand they fired five shots at him. Mr. Berry was taken in the back, inflicting but severely, and one of the horses was wounded.

Says the Lewiston (Idaho) Morning Tribune: Fourteen Paul Malinoski, a Bohemian, has quite a trying experience the other day. He had made arrangements to meet his brother at Cheyenne and Nez Perce. When he reached there the young lady failed to appear. He found a letter from her, however, stating that she had just married some fellow in Nebraska. Mr. Malinoski returned home a very much disgusted man.

The Hope (Idaho) Examiner says: For thirty years or so a present of a deer skin has been made by some boys from Antelope mountain, near the old Montana trail. The color has a vein on one side, where it had struck a rock. It is a very rosy bit of lion and must have laid for many years on the spot where it was discovered. It is surmised that the ball was fired from a small mauser by the Lewis-Clark exploring party 27 years ago, or perhaps by some of the Hudson Bay company's employes.

Crazed with the belief that some one was alienating the affections of his spouse, says the Boise (Idaho) Statesman, Dui Yuen, a Chinese merchant, whose place of business is in the neighborhood of the city hall, Sunday afternoon entered a room in his house where several Mongolians were sighting the pipe, and pointing a gun concealed about his clothes, fired three shots in rapid succession, with the result that he is now languishing in the county jail, while his victim lies in a critical condition, suffering the effects of two bullet wounds.

The Hailey (Idaho) Times reports that the bondsmen of J. A. Slavin, late receiver of the Hailey land office, have received notice from Washington that the accounts of that officer are short $2,754.48. Slavin's bondsmen claim that he has had no credit for two certificates of deposit, and for some money which he paid to his Register W. T. Riley. If these items be credited, he will only be behind $114. Receiver Horne said a statement was being prepared for the bondsmen, at the request of one of them. The evidence will show just how much money was missing. They repeatedly asked Slavin to make the defalcation or embezzlement good, but he had not done so. Horne, after four months' vain effort, his bondsmen had to be called on.

The Montenegro tragedy, which occurred on Oklahoma soil in the eastern end of Apache county, near Huntington, promises to develop some unusual features. New evidence has been obtained and indications show a premeditated murder. So state the Denver Times. It will be remembered that when Montenegro was shot it was generally held that the killing grew out of a quarrel between Montenegro and Mrs. Horrogin, in which Mrs. Horrogin was beaten, and that the assault on the woman moved the husband to shoot Montenegro. This was the version that was presented to the coroner's jury, and received in the sympathy of Horrogin. It now transpires that Montenegro was shot in the back, that he was unarmed and that he was at the time at the home of Mr. Hinson, a neighbor, after medicine for a child that was sick with the croup.

After considerable difficulty the will of old Philip Berger, of San Francisco, who was recently murdered by Michael Collins, has been secured by the executors, and will now be presented to the court. There is a little mystery connected with the document, for the old man he made a problem to have his widow present for inspection. Just before he died he confessed that he did not trust his relatives-law for his sake, because he believed that he had been angry to commit the deed by his daughter. The testament, with a number of codicils, was found in a box in the safe in the vault department of the Central Bank of Savings. Mrs. Berger, the widow, has anticipated any move on the part of her enemies and has provided to give them a lively time of it. She has retained several attorneys to look out for her interests. Under the terms of her husband's will, Mrs. Berger has been confined to her house and has been very ill. She declares that she is a young-minded woman and will prove the truth of her statements when the matter comes up in court. There is no question but that she will enter a vigorous contest to the will of her husband. Both she and her attorneys have always maintained that Berger was murdered twice.
