Governor McConnell of Idaho has issued a proclamation offering on the part of the state a reward of $250 for the capture of Gideon Lewis, who, on December 25, 1893, at DeLamar, stabbed and killed John Harris.

If recent reports and assays prove to be true and correct, there bids fair to be a great gold mine excitement in the mid vicinity of Evanston just as soon as the snow leaves the hills, says the Uinta (Wyo.) Herald.

The great outfall sewer at Los Angeles, Cal., was formally opened on Friday afternoon. The sewer is business mile in length, with 8,000 feet of tunneling, and cost nearly $600,000, and it is said to be the largest sewer in the state.

Chaffee county, Col., has 15,022 acres under cultivation, 52,594 acres of pasture, raises 2,800 tons of alfalfa, 40,000 bushels of potatoes, 4,000 head of cattle, 1,000 horses, 17,924 bushels of wheat and 22,000 bushels of oats, and a large variety of other products.

A Pioneer county, Cal., rancheman, living near the west line of the county, reports to the Sparks that a few days ago he saw a pack of six coyotes pursued by two eagles, which repeatedly attacked the animals and finally succeeded in dispatching one of them.

The mystery surrounding the death of Miss Cora Edith McDonald, of East Oakland, Cal., says an exchange, will probably be cleared. At the inquest the jury concluded the same via verdict of temporary insanity. The secret before the whole case was not divulged.

The sudden death late occurred at Tucson, A. T., of J. S. Mansfield, one of the most prominent citizens of that place and of the Territory. He was the pioneer newspaper and postmaster of Arizona, having established his Tombs there twenty-four years ago. Though without a capital at the outset, he soon acquired a substantial fortune.

Mrs. Peter Jacobson, the wife of a Tyler island farmer, has left the town of Lodi, near Stockton, Cal., with Ed Hamilton, a blacksmith and horseshoer. The citizens of the town have very good reasons to believe that they have eloped. The deserted husband is particularly positive on the point, and has taken steps to care for the three boys who have been left behind.

Snake river, in the vicinity of the Warm Springs ferry and Pomeroy's about fifteen miles from Caldwell, Idaho, is said to be alive with placer miners on both sides the stream. Every available bank has been staked out for miles. So far all the mining has been done with the old fashioned and somewhat primitive rocker and the results have been one to five dollars per day for each man.

At a recent meeting of Larimer county, Colo., potato growers at the agricultural college at Fort Collins, Mr. Hansen Stratton read a paper giving his experience last season in cultivating four acres of the tuber. The cost of planting was $7.75, of irrigation and cultivation one dollar, of digging $21.32, of sacking and marketing $37, a total of $64.82. He harvested 84,000 pounds, which sold at 30 cents per 100, leaving a net profit of $196.58, or $49.20 per acre.

The Congress mine near Prescott, A. T., has been sold, the purchaser being H. H. Hoge and associates. The purchase price was not given, but it is generally understood to be $1,500,000. The mine has produced over $10,000,000 in gold. It has been closed down for two years awaiting the completion of Bee Prescott and Phoenix railroad. The mill is now completed within a few miles of the mine, and the new purchasers will start it at once.

State Engineer Head of Wyoming says that California's irrigation laws do not compare with those of Wyoming or Colorado. Water rights and rates are extraordinarily high, especially in southern California, where it has occasion a perpetual right to one cubic foot per sec-ond for $10,000. In Kansas recently the rate was equivalent to $35 per acre. In northern California the prices are lower, but are there, as a rule, much higher than with us. The rates of a private company for water are $250 an acre annual rates; for small grain, $2 an acre; potatoes, $3 an acre.

B. B. Russell, a well known engineer of Grand Forks, Idaho, has invented a new boiler for steam vessels which if it proves successful, will save the enormous waste of fuel. The inventor, Mr. Ranger, which is mainly constructed of tubing, which is capable of easy repairs, and is very simple. Mr. Russell's invention, which cost only $50, is placed right in the boiler, replacing the tubes and can be operated by a boy in the engineer's cabin. It is said to make the low water theory a reality in the market. The Ruby Times says Mr. Brown recently made a successful trip with his Ranger over the Wood River branch.

Philip Brown, a carpenter, at a ranch near Yreka, Cal., committed suicide on Saturday by cutting his throat in the barn with a shingle. The previous night Brown showed signs of insanity. He tore up the furniture in his room, and he was with difficulty kept in bed. He was apparently sane in the morning, and said, "Good morning, gentlemen," and a few hours after he was dead. Death was instantaneous.
