A STORMY TIME.

The Reading of the Journal in the House of Ill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21. — In the House this morning there was a stormy time over the approval of the journal. Pillman and Springer insisted on having it read in full.

Several Southern democrats protested vigorously against the action of the Speaker in counting them to make a quorum yesterday. Turner (Ga.) said he had voted for the yeas and nays and then left the House in as dignified a manner as possible.

McKinley got the floor and would not yield to any of the democrats and a tremendous uproar ensued, in the midst of which Reed, placing a strip of paper on his shoulder, threteningly intimed that shoulder toward the republican side until the Speaker pro tem (Payson) called him to order.

Finally the journal was approved and the Senate bill, fixing the salaries of United States District Judges at $3000, was taken up. McKinley's amendment to reduce the salaries to $2000, and D. J. Taylor's amendment, that the present salaries be increased $500, were both defeated and the bill passed.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the Postoffice Appropriation bill, after voting down a motion by Holman to adjourn.

After considerable discussion the bill was laid aside, with favorable recommendation.

Cannon called up the deficiency appropriation bill, but after a long discussion as to the limitation of debate, the committee rose and the House adjourned, without disposing of the postoffice appropriation bill.

IN THE SENATE.

In the Senate the sundry civil appropriation bill was reported.

The Nicaragua Canal bill was taken up; Morgan addressed the Senate in defense of the bill.

Edmunds, referring to a misunderstanding as to the amount of capital stock subscribed for by the Construction Company (it appearing in the committee report as $100,000,000), said he had a telegram from the president of the company saying that was a misprint for $1,000,000.

Morgan, commenting on Vest's reference to the Claytonbulwer treaty, asked whether the senators were to take off their hats to Queen Victoria and say "By leave of your Majesty?" That, he said, was not the American view of the question. It had not been so since the days of President Monroe, and never would be. No move had ever been made in the Senate in the direction which the bill aimed at that had not been met by somebody with the threat of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. He was tired of it. The sole argument was totally irrelevant, because the United States would never have to pay a dollar of it. The bill did not infringe on any of the conditions of the treaty. He repudiated that treaty as having been a fraud at the time it was made and having been ruthlessly and audaciously violated by the British government since that time.

Vest said there could not be a more unfavorable time for such a bill, when the Farmers' Alliance were demanding legislation considering visionary. It would never do to refuse that legislation and at the same time guarantee $100,000,000 of bonds of a company organized in New York, to be spent on a foreign territory, and in the employment of Jamaica negroes, "Dagos," Indians and Chinamen.

Turple spoke against the bill, declaring himself against any subsidy scheme.

Stewart's amendment, providing that the chief of engineers of the army shall have supervision and control of the canal, was disagreed to—25 to 25. The bill then went over without action.

The conference report on the navy appropriation bill was agreed to. Adjourned.

THE PROGRAMME OF CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Only eight working days remain to the Fifty-first Congress, and from now until the 4th of March the proceedings of both branches will be marked by haste. The chief effort in both houses will be to secure early and complete action on the Appropriation bills, of which but two, the Army and Fortification, have yet become laws. The status of the remaining Appropriation bills is as follows:

The Naval bill awaits the approval of the conference report by the House.

The Pension, District of Columbia and Military Academy bills are in conference.

The Diplomatic and Consular bill is awaiting an order for conference by the House.

The Sundry Civil bill has been reported by the Senate Committee and is on the Senate calendar.

The Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bills and the Indian Appropriation bill are in the Senate Committee.

The Postoffice, Agricultural and General Deficiency bills await the action of the House.

It is expected the Senate will devote its time during the week mainly to the Appropriation bills, beginning with the Sundry Civil bill tomorrow and following with the Legislative and Indian Appropriation bills. These unpopularable measures will doubtless leave but little time for other subjects provisionally provided for in the order of business arranged by the Republican caucus.

The Nicaragua Canal bill is unfinished business in this category; following it are the Pure Food bill and the Cooper Land bill, the Army Reorganization bill, the Interstate Commerce bill, Bankruptcy bill, Land Court bill, the bill to transfer the Revenue Marine service to the Navy and the Pacific Railroad Funding bill.

The House adjourned

and is sound on reassembling will have considerable effect on the course of legislation during the week.

The postoffice appropriation bill is not yet out of the committee of the whole, and the consideration of the agricultural and deficiency bills has not begun.

Conference reports on other appropriation bills will also consume part of the time during the week.

In addition to these measures there are the copyright, appellate court and Indian depredation bills, which have passed both houses, but need to be advanced through the conference stage of legislation before they can go upon the statute books.

The report on the Ruum investigation and the recommendation of impeachment in the case of Judge Boarman are matters of the highest privilege, on which the action of the House is desired. It will thus been seen that the House has a large amount of work to accomplish.

THE SILVER BILL.

is not included in the schedule of business arranged by the majority. The silver men expect to make one more effort to secure a vote on the silver bill, although in order to do so it will be necessary to make some motion commonly regarded as not within the purview of the rules of parliamentary practice.

Superintendent Porter of the census bureau has prepared an introduction to a series of special reports on the Indians of the United States. In it Porter says: The agents of the census office have overhauled the room in every State and Territory, and we now have on file in Washington as the result of their labors about 1000 million mortgages. Taxes in Iowa and Alabama show the receipts for the year ended at the aggregate of 98 to 97 per cent; was to purchase mortgaged and other real estate, and for improvements in the business.

Boss on the Speaker.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—In the House today, Wyke (Ill.) introduced for reference a lengthy preamble and resolution calling attention to the "frequent falsification of the journal" by the arbitrary action of the speaker in counting a quorum of members not present," etc. Special reference is made to the trouble of last Friday and Saturday, when Wyke says: "Unauthorized, unlawful and unconstitutional acts were done in pursuance of a plan concocted by the leaders of the party just overthrown by an overwhelming majority of the people at the polls, and in the closing hour of their power, to install for life into the new Federal judicial offices then and there created for that purpose, a number of repudiated and defeated candidates of the party at that election, in defiance of and against the will of a large majority of the voters of the country." The resolution says these acts make it apparent that injury is threatened to the liberties of the people, and inasmuch as no remedy exists now, except in the power of the majority, which usually is in political sympathy with the presiding officer, the judiciary committee is directed to submit a joint resolution submitting for ratification an amendment to the Constitution providing for the impeachment and removal from office, with suitable penalties, of a Speaker of the House or presiding officer of the Senate guilty of such practices.

Senator Blair reported today from the committee on agriculture, with amendments, a bill providing for the establishment of divisions of silk culture in the Agricultural Department for the development and encouragement of the silk worm in the country. It directs the establishment of experimental stations in various States and promotes the silk worm industry by a free distribution of silk worm eggs to farmers. A nominate strike out the bonus to be paid to producers of cocoons.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Order Developing out of Apparent Chaos.

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Order is rapidly being developed out of chaos in World's Fair matters, and what has heretofore appeared confusion, has now assumed definite form and purpose. The managers of the affair have observed with apparent satisfaction that the abandonment of the Lake Front site came in the nature of a total surprise to people generally, and as it was for many months, it would appear, has the placing of any buildings on the Lake Front Park site been contemplated. Instructions given the board of architects at the time of its formation did not provide for any of the buildings being placed there, but contemplated the grouping of all the named buildings south of Midway Plaisance in Jackson Park, the land north of the Plaisance being reserved for miscellaneous structures such as State buildings. Mr. Olmstead of Boston has already outlined his scheme for landscape effects. A valuable land lagoon, surrounded with artificial hills, woodlands, meadows and gracefully winding canals, the latter planned not only for picturesque effects but also as a means of communication between the different buildings and a source of material for filling low grounds. The buildings will be constructed of iron, glass and stones. The general plan contemplates a floor space one-third greater than that of the Paris exposition.

The contractors set a number of men at work this morning, grading, etc. A large crowd of Hiers soon assembled and resented the tactics which caused the stoppage of work last week. On the appearance of a large force of police, however, the hiers dispersed.

The National Board of control was to have met here today to pass upon the work thus far done, but there was no quorum present, owing to the failure of several members to arrive, and no action was taken. It has been practically decided that there will be only one more session of the entire National Commission prior to the month of closing the Fair in 1893. This course is necessary, as there will be no money to defray the expenses of sessions.

The World's Fair directors hold an informal conference today. Plans for the buildings are ready, but will not be made public until they have been approved by the board of control.

A Thousand People Homeless in Salt River Valley.

GILA RIVER, Ariz., Feb. 23.—Salt river, near Phoenix, now less feet in ashes, over a thousand people are homeless. A thousand people in the valley of Salt River are homeless. Railroads in the vicinity are badly washed out.

Colorado River at Yuma threatens that place. A large force of men is engaged in building dikes to save them. A special dispatch from Yuma, Ariz., says Yuma is entirely under water. The levee broke this evening. One hundred and fifty thousand dollars damage has already been done. Cop Lee is drowned, and a large amount of live stock perished. The river is still rising and if it continues will entirely destroy the town.

CLIFTON, Ariz., Feb. 23.—Advices from Solomonville state that the Gila valley flood is unprecedented. Great destruction of property is reported and travel suspended.

Disastrous Flood.

HOLBROOK, Ariz., Feb. 22.—A disastrous flood is prevailing here. The Little Colorado is overflowing its banks, and changing its channel. Railroads are badly washed out. The streams south of here are unfordable, and the mails are accumulating here for points south. The Gila river is higher than it was ever known to be. The flood at Globe City destroyed several dwelling houses and William Middleton was drowned.

A FARMER IN NAME ONLY.

Had Never Seen a Plow Nor Milked a Cow, but He Was an Agriculturist.

A musical story is in quiet circulation among the members of the board of supervisors mind some of the appointments made at the Industrial school.

The central figure in the tale is the individual installed in the position of "farmer" at the institution in question.

To this person, as the story goes, came the superintendent, himself a new appointee, a day or two after they had both taken their places.

"Let's see, you are the farmer, are you not?" he inquired.

"That's what," replied the one addressed, taking his feet down from the pocke mantel.

"All right, then. What I wanted to tell you was that the field below the house is in good condition for plowing now, and the sooner you tackle it the sooner it will be done. Better hitch up and go at it right away."

A dazed expression came over the "farmer's" face, and he seemed for a moment lost for a reply. At last he said something in the tone of a man recovering from a fainting fit:

"Do you mean I'm to plow that field myself?"

"Why, of course. Aren't you the farmer?"

"Yes, that's all right. All the same I never touched a pair of plow handles in my life, and as for plowing that field—why, I simply can't do it."

"Then you'd better learn very quick. It's your work, and it's got to be done."

"Well, I'll not do it. I can't, and I won't."

And he didn't.

It is said to have been the next day late in the afternoon when the superintendent again encountered his "farmer."

This time the latter official was reading a newspaper, from which he looked up with anything but a pleased expression when interrupted.

"You don't seem to be doing anything," remarked the superintendent. "Better take a horse, ride over to the field yonder and drive up those cows. You'll have to milk them, too."

The farmer staggered to his feet, fairly gasping.

"I never in my life milked a cow," he exclaimed, as soon as he could speak.

"How do you think I can do it now? More than that, I was never on a horse. Yet you ask me to get on one, will beat's back and go and drive them up. You must think I'm a sort of living miracle!"

"Well," said the superintendent, with perceptible impatience, "I should like to know how you came to be appointed 'farmer' to the institution. That's all."

"Well, all I can say," he answered, according to the accepted version of the story, "is that I got my appointment probably pretty much as you got yours. Suppose we drop the subject."

The subject is said to have been dropped.—San Francisco Examiner.

Uses Both Hands in Writing.

When Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, puts his hand on his heart and declares in strident tones that the rights and privileges of the people must and shall be maintained, he can do it with either hand, and gracefully too. He signs committee reports with his left hand, and attaches his signature to letters with his right. The difference in the chirography is easily detected. The senator has his "left handed week" and his "right handed week"—that is, he will use the pen for six days with one hand, and for another six days with the other. He holds the lymn sheet with his left hand, and beats time the leaves of his Bible with his right. In debate he gesticulates ambidextrously.—New York World.

A Ton of Powder Worn Off in a Day.

An amusing calculation has been made that the powdered shoe leather worn from off the soles of foot passengers on streets and pavements in London alone would amount to about a ton of shoemaking materials per day. It is not so absurd to imagine that some day these waste particles may be utilized, when we hear that vast quantities of old shoes are ground by mills into fine dust, which is mixed with india rubber, subjected to a great pressure, colored and sold sheep as natural leather, for which it probably makes a very substitute.—Chambers' Journal.

He Didn't Know the Sex.

Officer J. A. Hussey, of the supreme judicial court, has an ingenious 5-year-old youngster. The boy came running to his father the other day with the information that the family next door had got a baby. "Is that so?" said Officer Hussey. "Who told you?"

"Willie told me."

"Well, has he got a little brother or a little sister?"

"How do you 'spose I know?" expounded the young hopeful. "It ain't christened yet, is it?"—Boston Record.

A Fair Show.

Under a date late made in Egypt the man who marries need not keep his own name, but take that of the woman if he so desires. It is said that this law was rendered necessary by so many American and English Smiths taking up their residence in that country. The girls wanted to marry, but they didn't want the name.—Detroit Free Press.

A Sensible Girl.

Johnson—When I do marry I intend to marry a sensible girl, if I can find one.

Tomson—Now there's Miss Sharpe. She jilted me.

Johnson—Just the girl I want. Won't you introduce me?—Epoch.

Kept Whole for Thirty-three Years.

An Auburn man claims to have the second kerosene lamp sold in Lewiston. He bought it thirty-three years ago, and at a time when the popular sentiment was very much opposed to the adoption of the lamps. Five times and upwards have changed within the past few years.—Lewiston Journal.

Catarrh

Is a constitutional and not a local disease, and therefore it cannot be cured by local applications. It requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, working through the blood, eradicates the impurity which causes and promotes the disease, and effects a permanent cure. Thousands of people testify to the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh when other preparations had failed.

Stuffed-Up Feeling.

"I will say I have been troubled for several years with that terribly disagreeable disease, catarrh. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla with the very best results. Myself and one of our customers stopping in my shop, and stuffed up feeling. It was also helped my brother, who has taken it for one down state of health and taken Hood's."—Mrs. J. D. THE CRY OF MILLIONS

OH, MY BACK!

STOP IT NOW, SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.

I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have used many different remedies and have sought out from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very severe attack that almost prostrated me to such a degree that I was laid over. When I was down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to rise in my clothes, when kind Providence sent Dr. Sanders with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my bed. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the people who saw me, in a few days I am happy to state, that I was a sore man. I have continued the tea to all appearances I have been.
