SUNDAY SERVICES.

Religious services were held in the Tabernacle, Salt Lake City, Sunday Feburary 19th, 1893, Elder Angus M. Cannon, President of the Stake, presiding.

The choir sang the hymn commencing:

God moves in a mysterious way,
His wonders to perform.

Prayer by Elder George H. Wallace.

The choir next sang the hymn commencing:

Come, thou glorious day of promise,
Come and speed thy chariots on.

The Priesthood of the Sixth Ward officiated in the administration of the Sacrament.

ELDER ABRAHAM H. CANNON was the speaker. He expressed the hope that the Spirit of the Lord might be present in the meeting to guide his utterances and prompt us to diligence in the work of God. It is a source of joy to the Saints to reflect on the goodness of God; that He in this age has again spoken to the children of men, proving Himself to be a Being not far off but near unto those who call upon Him. It is also gratifying that His favor is not bestowed only upon a few, but that among all nations those who love righteousness may have inspiration. God is the same today, yesterday and forever. As in former ages He revealed Himself, so we believe He does in this age. We believe that God spoke through His Son in the beginning of our era, and that the promises given at that time were fulfilled; but we do not believe that God's word was confined to the small country which Jesus traversed. There were people in other countries equally entitled to be taught by our heavenly Father, and we have, in fact, a record proving that also the inhabitants of this hemisphere were visited by the Son of God. This record, the Book of Mormon, as it is called, contains nothing contrary to the Bible. It tells us, if possible, more plainly that faith is necessary for salvation, that baptism is an essential ordinance of the Gospel and that the reception of the Holy Ghost follows. We are taught that Jesus is the Redeemer of the world; that as through Adam all die so all shall through Christ live. Without the atonement of Christ, mankind must have remained in death.

But we do not believe that those two books contain all that God has revealed. We hold that the descendants of the ten tribes have also received the word of God and that their records will some time be brought to light as a testimony that God lives. These records, it will then be found, also agree fully with the records that have been given to us. The principles will be the same, as there is no other way by which men can be saved than by Jesus and His Gospel. This is a glorious thought. The Lord does not confine His revelations to one time or to one people. The spirit of prophecy is one of the gifts to follow the believers, and it has been the experience of this people that this gift is given in this age as anciently. Visions of the future have been opened to us; the Lord has given us dreams, etc., and still greater manifestations will be seen among us in time to come, as those who are born under the covenant grow up and the work is laid on their shoulders. They will approach nearer their Father in some respects than their parents have done because of their greater opportunities.

The speaker said it was wonderful to reflect on the fact that our missionaries who go out to the nations of the earth are guided by the Spirit, who sustains them in whatever circumstances they may come. He was thankful for this divine gift by which new principles are brought to light and so much good is being accomplished in this age. For we hold that it is through God that everything good comes and we hail with delight all that is calculated to do good to men. We desire everything that is good and ennobling, and if any among the world have greater wisdom than we have, we desire them to come and teach us, that we may benefit through their wisdom.

We expect that even greater things will be accomplished in our age than ever before. The Gospel will be preached to all nations. The Church will be built up in this country and we expect, through the Gospel, to be of benefit to all men. It is therefore for us to open our hearts and make room for all who will do right. In the latter days many will come here, not for the sake of the Gospel, but because there is peace in our valleys and because they desire to escape the turmoil of the world. We should not loose our faith by mingling with those who do not believe as we do, but we should do them good by the Gospel. If we cannot resist temptations because these exist, we have not learned the Gospel lessons right. A Latter-day Saint should be so pure that in the midst of the impure he will be holy, exemplifying the teachings of Jesus in the midst of wickedness.

The choir sang an anthem and

announced that Mr. David Tatum, minister of the Friends' Church, Chicago, who has devoted twenty years of his life to the cause of temperance, would give a lecture.

MR. DAVID TATUM

then spoke for about half an hour, advocating earnestly and eloquently the cause of temperance. He emphasized the importance of combating the liquor traffic and all its associate evils, so that temptation might be removed out of the way of the young. This is a work in which all good men and women, notwithstanding creed, should unite.

The choir sang the anthem

Love of Israel, hear our prayer.

Benediction by Elder John Smith.

GRESHAM AND JACKSON.

Hawaiian Annexation.—Eight Hours for Department Clerks.—Interest at the Capital.

Special Correspondence of The News.

Several important subjects were engaged public mind at our capital city during the last few days. The Hawaiian revolution, the nomination of Judge Jackson—a Democrat—by President Harrison to the Supreme bench, the tender of the Cabinet leadership to Judge Gresham—an independent ex-Republican—by President-elect Cleveland, and last but not least, the passage by the House of the eight-hour bill for government clerks. These topics have vied with each other like excited bees, in buzzing around the hive of Congress, and members have been buttonholed "in season and out of season," in the interest of the respective shades of public opinion, by reporters and influential people from different parts of the country. Even far-off Utah has sent in her request as to annexation for the Sandwich Island!

And while on this subject, let me say that this "Cinderella of the territories" appears to be gaining influence and favor of late. With her present standing, statehood is evidently not very far off. Whether the Republicans take part in this act of national justice or not, certainly the Democrats cannot ignore their handsome majority in the Territory, and promise for retaining the chance so offered for a Democratic state. But the Republicans also see that their number is increasing, and with a courteous and I may say, political move made while they have still the power to prevent statehood they could without doubt gain many votes in the new state.

It is considered impossible to complete such an important treaty as the annexation of Hawaii during the present administration. The time is too short, and President Harrison would hardly wish to commence a matter that could in no event be completed in his term. Besides there are such conflicting opinions on the subject among leading minds in both parties, that the situation must be well canvassed before the policy of the government can be really determined upon. There is no doubt that the situation is rendered more intricate by the action of Minister Stevens in hoisting the American flag as he did.

The nomination of Judge Jackson to the Supreme bench is causing a great many Republicans to say unkind things of the President, but as yet there has been no condemnation of the nominee. His politics—which, by the by, have really "nothing to do with the case," seem to be the only objection to this distinguished statesman's nomination.

The tender of the cabinet position of secretary of state to Judge Gresham by Mr. Cleveland, has created more comment if anything than the former episode. Particularly do the Republicans see danger to the party in this move, as it seems like rewarding desertion from their ranks, and an invitation to others to join the hosts of the enemy.

But the matter which has caused the greatest clatter in Washington is the Dockery measure to get if possible eight hours work out of the department clerks. There seems to be no end of politicians who are ready to make some one else do something that shall redound to their personal advantage; but in this instance, if such was the congressman's intention, who presented this bill, as some affirm, he certainly missed it badly. If he was honest in his patriotism, as others maintain, he is a veritable martyr. He has been raised to the dignity of "a man with enemies," and he bids fair to become the most cordially hated man in the capital. Twenty-three thousand clerks—a full quarter being ladies—are aroused at the bill. So you may fancy the character of the wave that breaks over its advocates. But it has only passed the House. The Senate is looked upon as the power whose mighty arm will be raised to defend our already "overworked public servants" from such an infliction, as an extra hour in office each working day.

We have had a very severe winter all through the country. This city has not suffered from such cold weather for over ten years.

WE CLOTHE THE WORLD!

That is, we're willing to, and have the materials to do it with. It's the world's misfortune if we don't supply its outfits, and you're a loser if you're clothed elsewhere.

Those who do it come to us, pay higher prices for inferior goods. It's a little late to be filling out for a tussle with winter, but better late than never, summer is a long way off, and you'll be decidedly "off" if you attempt to drift across the interval of time without clothing upon us to figure out for that voyage.
