WORLDS' FAIR NOTES.

Chauncey M. Depew has been elected president of New York's World's Fair board. Commissioner Gorton W. Allen is vice-president.

A monster panorama, 4[illegible] feet long and 51 feet high, representing the Bernese Alps, with the Jungfrau in the background, has been painted for exhibition at the fair. A private exhibition of the work was recently given to the press in Berlin.

An effort is being made to collect $[illegible] with which to build at the Exposition a headquarters for the Sunday schools of the United States. The scheme contemplates asking each school to contribute an amount equal to ten cents for each officer and teacher and one cent for each pupil.

It is reported that one hundred tons of exhibits for the Exposition have already been collected and are awaiting shipment at Lima and Callao.

The big stone monolith, which Wisconsin will exhibit at the Fair, will remain at Jackson Park permanently, the park commissioners having given their consent. The monolith is 10[illegible] feet high and cut from a solid block of stone. The contract for its erection has already been let.

Baron de Jeune's valuable collection of [illegible] relics, it is believed, will be secured for exhibition at the Fair. It comprises many rare specimens from caves in France. DeMaret, who made the collection, spent twenty-five years in the work.

President Diaz has recommended to the Mexican congress that October 12th of this year be made a national holiday in commemoration of the landing of Columbus in the new world. He says in his message that the work of collecting the Mexican exhibit is progressing rapidly, and that a display of Mexican troops will be made at the dedicatory exercises.

A company from the national military institute of Columbus, South America, wants to attend the Exposition and camp on the World's Fair grounds. The proposition to give the company camping space in Washington Park, close by the grounds, is now under consideration.

Mr. Robert S. McCormick, resident commissioner for the World's Fair, at London, has received word that an influential committee in Geneva is actively promoting the formation of a creditable Swiss section at the Fair, and is meeting with gratifying success. Watchmaking will be one of the chief features of the display. It is considered possible that Switzerland will yet appoint a government commission to the Fair.

W. H. H. Llewellyn, executive commissioner for New Mexico, has been in Chicago securing space in the various buildings for exhibits from the territories. "We expect to show people who visit the World's Fair," he said, "that Mexico can raise something else besides cactus and sagebrush. On exhibit will be one hundred watermelons, the minimum weight of each of which will be one hundred pounds. We shall have specially fine displays in the agricultural and horticultural departments—also in the mines department."

Executive Commissioner Ryan, of the Ohio World's Fair board, has arranged with Freeman Thorpe, an Ohio artist, to paint portraits of the state officers and Ohio congressmen of 1893, to be displayed in the Ohio building at the World's Fair. Mr. Ryan proposes also to have an exhibit in that building showing the progress of Ohio journalism, and to have upon the walls portraits of prominent Ohioans who have been connected with journalism.

Leigh S. Lynch, World's Fair commissioner at the South Sea Islands, has cabled that he has completed arrangements for an exhibit from the Philippine islands, and is now devoting his attention to Java. There is every prospect that the exhibit will be one of great interest.

Mr. McCormick, the London agent of the Columbian Exposition, has forwarded to Chicago an application from Mrs. M. L. Mullinger, who wishes to establish a gypsy encampment within the grounds of the exposition, probably upon the Midway Plaisance. Mrs. Mullinger is alluded to as being remarkably well versed in gypsy lore, and proficient in gypsy learning. She manages a gypsy encampment near Liverpool, England.

Costa Rica has one of the largest and finest archaeological collections in the world, showing many Columbian relics and historic data relating to the discovery of America. This collection goes to Madrid this year for the Spanish exposition and will afterwards go to Chicago.

A circular has been issued by the Exposition authorities to all the railway passenger associations of the United States and individual roads, asking that a materially reduced rate be made to and from Chicago on the occasion of the dedicatory ceremonies next October. It is believed that [illegible] visitors will be present.

Karl Hagenbeck, famous for his ability in taming wild animals, is [illegible] his time in Hamburg to a group of lions, tigers, jaguars and hyenas that he expects to bring to the Fair. This group consists of fifty animals, all to be kept in one big cage. Hagenbeck has already spent a fortune on the group.

The construction of the Exposition buildings is progressing in the most satisfactory manner, and there is no longer any doubt that all will be completed in time for dedication. [illegible]

The woolen manufacturers have resolved to make a special exhibit at the Fair.

The women of North Carolina are organizing throughout the State for the purpose of raising $[illegible] with which to erect that State's building at the Exposition. The building will be a reproduction of the "Tryon Palace," a residence-like structure which was the home of the governors in colonial days. The women also contemplate placing in the Woman's building a memorial of Virginia Dare, claimed to be the first white child of English birth in America, thus emphasizing the fact that the first American woman was born on North Carolina soil.

A Racine, Wis., firm is planning to have a complete tannery plant in operation at the Exposition.

Visitors to the Exposition will avail themselves of a bureau of public comfort, managed by the Exposition authorities. This will have headquarters on the grounds, and will provide for visitors means of information and almost every facility for [illegible]. The bureau will be managed by W. M. Rosson, who had charge of a similar service at the Philadelphia Centennial, though on a much smaller scale than is now planned. [illegible]

One of the marvels of the recent electrical exposition at Frankfort was a search light of [illegible] candle power. [illegible] It will be seen at least sixty miles away. [illegible]

≪INTERESTING FACTS FOR≫ # ≪CLOTHING BUYERS.≫

THE WOOLEN MILLS OF THIS COUNTRY ARE now making better fabrics, made of finer wool, and selling them at Lower Prices than at any time in the last twenty-five years. How can they do this? For the simple reason that in 1890 and 1891 the production of fine Australian and Cape of Good Hope wool was enormous, and these fine foreign wools have been selling in this country cheaper than ever.

To meet competition in the American market, foreign woolen manufacturers have also had to reduce their prices. All large buyers of woolens understand these facts. It therefore goes without saying that we are able to offer to the public this season SPRING CLOTHING of finer and better fabrics, at lower prices, than ever before.
