A MAN

WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R.R.

IS THE GREAT CONNECTING LINK BETWEEN THE EAST AND THE WEST!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs and Omaha, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, and Des Moines, (the capital of Iowa) with branches from Bureau Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Belknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton, Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth and Atchison; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independence, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Audubon and Avoca to Harlan. This is positively the only Railroad which owns, controls and operates a through line between Chicago and Kansas.

This Company have control of their Sleeping Cars, which are inferior to none, and give you a double berth between Chicago and Council Bluffs, Leavenworth, or Atchison for Two Dollars and Fifty Cents; and a section for Five Dollars, while all other lines charge for a single berth, or demand Six Dollars for a double berth, and Six Dollars for a section.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining and Restaurant Cars that accompany our Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for Twenty-five cents; or you can order what you like, and pay for what you order.

Bearing in mind the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes, and the extreme popularity of this line (as our patrons will testify) we are pleased to announce that this Company runs its PALACE SLEEPING CARS for Sleeping purposes only, and its PALACE DINING CARS for Eating purposes. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Leavenworth and Atchison, connections being made in Union depots.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE For CATARRH

A purely vegetable distillation entirely unlike all other remedies.

IN the preparation of this remedy every herb, plant and berb is subjected to distillation, whereby the essential medical principle is obtained in vapor, condensed and bottled. What remains is the still is inert, valueless, and totally unfit for use in an organism so delicate as the nasal passages. Yet all ingredients insoluble in composition of woody fibre—all impurities, extracted solutions.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE

Is a local and constitutional remedy, and is applied to the nasal passages by insufflation, thus allaying inflammation and pain at once, cleansing, cleansing, and purifying the secretions. Internally administered, it acts upon the organs of circulation, keeps the skin moist, and bowels active, acid poison that has found its way into the stomach and thence into the blood. Thus a cure progresses in both directions, and in most cases a week suffices for human ingenuity to devise a more rational treatment.

SURPRISING CURE.

Gentlemen.—About twelve years ago, while travelling with Father Kemp's Old Folks Concert Troupe as a tenor singer, I took a severe cold and was laid up at Newark, N. J. This cold brought on a severe attack of Catarrh, which I battled with every known remedy for four weeks without avail, and was finally forced to give up a most desirable position and return home, unable to sing a note. For three years afterwards I was unable to sing at all. The first attack of Catarrh had left my nasal organs and throat so sensitive that the slightest cold would bring on a fresh attack, leaving me prostrated. This way I continued to suffer. The last attack, the severest I ever had, was terrible. I suffered the most excruciating pain in my head, was so hoarse as to scarcely be able to speak, and coughed incessantly. I thought it was ripening into quick consumption, and I firmly believe that had these symptoms continued without relief they would have rendered me a raving victim. When in this distressing condition, I commenced the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE, from a sample, very reluctantly, I confess, as I had tried all the advertised remedies without benefit. The first dose of this wonderful medicine gave me the greatest relief. It is hardly possible for one whose head aches, eyes ache, who can scarcely articulate distinctly on account of the choking accumulations in his throat, to realize how much relief I obtained from the first application of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. Under its influence, both inherent and acute, I speedily recovered, and by an occasional use of the remedy since, have been entirely free from Catarrh, for the first time in twelve years.

Respectfully yours, GEO. W. HOLBROOK.

WALTHAM, MASS., Jan. 8, 1878.

FORTY-SIXTH CONGRESS.

EXTRA SESSION.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 23.—Wallace reported the House concurrent resolution fixing the date of final adjournment with an amendment substituting Wednesday, the 25th of June at 5 p. m. instead of Tuesday the 17th.

Windom objected to its present consideration and it went over until to-morrow. After passing a few unanimous bills, executive session was held.

Logan introduced a bill to provide for the speedy payment of workingmen of the District of Columbia; laid on the table.

The resolution submitted by McDonald directing the Secretary of the Treasury to furnish information as to the action of the National Board of Health under the act authorizing a contract for the purchase and construction of refrigerating ships, etc., was taken up and adopted.

On motion of Garland, the House bill concerning the apportionment for members of the Legislative Assembly of the Territory of Montana was taken up. An amendment in the nature of a substitute, reported by the committee on judiciary extending the provisions of the bill to all Territories, was concurred in and the bill passed.

When the doors re-opened, adjourned.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, 23.—Under the call of States for bills for reference, many were introduced, mainly of a private character.

The President's secretary delivered a message in writing, veteing the supplementary judicial bill, also announcing he had signed the army bill.

Bills were introduced and referred by Herbert to remove the duty on quinine and all materials for its manufacture.

By Dibrell—To prevent the payment of per diem to members of Congress when they are absent from their duties except in case of sickness.

At the conclusion of the reading of the veto message, which was received with slight demonstrations of applause on the republican side, the House proceeded to vote on the question whether the bill should be passed notwithstanding the objections of the President, and it was decided in the negative, yeas 104, nays 78—not the necessary two-thirds in the affirmative. Adjourned.

EASTERN.

Caucus.—What Will be Done Now.

WASHINGTON, 23.—The democratic members of the Senate assembled in caucus this afternoon and remained in consultation about three hours. The purpose of the conference was to decide upon a line of policy concerning to-day's veto of the judicial expenses appropriation, and the collateral question of adjournment. Vest took the ground that the issue presented by the last veto message could properly be met by the democratic majority in only one way, namely, by a prompt adjournment of both Houses. The dominant party had done their best to provide for the needs of the public service; they had offered the President all the necessary appropriations for judicial expenses upon fair terms, and were under no obligation to do anything more.

Wallace subsequently delivered an earnest speech, taking the same view as Vest, and supporting the resolution offered by the latter, in favor of an immediate termination of the present session without making any further attempt to provide for court expenses, before the regular session next winter.

McDonald, Bayard, Thurman and Hill opposed the proposition with great emphasis, and in the course of their speeches, all of which were at considerable length, insisted that such a course would be alike unwise and unwarranted. They agreed with the speakers on the other side, that the President's veto of the bill was based on a strained objection to the existing law which prohibits contracts in advance of appropriations, being in substance a prohibition against incurring liabilities for purposes not provided for by the bill; but they pointed out that for this very reason the democrats should not strenuously adhere to a clause which the President declared obnoxious to his convictions of duty, while they themselves did not consider it material. They also argued that it would be highly unwise to throw away the substantial benefits which would inure to the country from the final enactment of those sections of this bill which provide for important amendments of the jury laws and for the total abolition of the juror's test oath.

To these sections the President had made no objections, although the republicans in both houses had solidly opposed them, and it was also to be borne in mind, said these senators, that the President, while vetoing the present bill on account only of one of its provisions, had at the same time taken a position at variance with the arguments of an influential portion of his own party by approving the army bill.

Butler, Maxey, Morgan, Pendleton, Beck and Hampton all made brief remarks in opposition to the idea of adjournment without further efforts to provide the necessary appropriations.

Several speakers, including Bayard, Thurman, Hill, Butler and Hampton took the ground, in the broadest possible language, that an adjournment of Congress, without providing for the support of every branch of the public service, would be utterly unjustifiable and indefensible. It was, however, agreed on all hands that no money should be appropriated for the payment of deputy marshals at elections.

At the close of the discussion, Vest's resolution, in favor of the adjournment of Congress without passing another appropriation bill, was rejected by an overwhelming majority, having received only three or four votes. A resolution was then adopted by a vote of 20 against 7, directing the caucus advisory committee, in conjunction with the advisory committee of the House caucus, to prepare a bill for passage through Congress before adjournment in such terms as will obviate the objections of the President and secure its enactment into a law.

The foregoing is not given as an outline of the resolution, but embodies its more important features.

A canvass of the House of Representatives, to-day, immediately after reading the President's message vetoing the bill making appropriations for judicial expenses for the government, developed the fact that there were three distinct propositions entertained by the majority as most practicable to be pursued. One, having apparently the most supporters, contemplated a resolution fixing for adjournment sine die, and that another bill, identical in its provisions with the vetoed measure, be passed and sent to the President, and if he should again return it, adjourn and permit the bill to fail.

The second proposition was to pass a joint resolution extending until next January the appropriations, on the basis of the present act, providing for judicial expenses, with a proviso that no portion of the money thus appropriated shall be used for the payment of deputy marshals or supervisors of elections; and in the event of the non-approval of the President, to adjourn sine die. And if he should issue a proclamation reconvening Congress, to repeat this action.

The third proposition favors an adjournment without any further attempt to meet the views of the Executive. This line of action was favorably entertained by a few democrats. Part of the House, however, appear to stand as a unit against supporting any bill which will permit the continuance of deputy marshals and supervisors of elections.

A cabinet officer, to-day, in discussing the situation with a member of the House, said if the majority should again pass a bill similar to the one just vetoed by the President, he would return it without his signature, and if Congress should adjourn he would call them together again the next day. But if they should a third time send him the bill and adjourn he would not reconvene them and thus throw the responsibility of closing the courts on the democratic party.

A conference of leading republicans was held during the session of the House, to-day, for the purpose of discussion, with a view of harmonizing the action of the minority in case a resolution providing for adjournment sine die should be introduced before the judicial appropriation bill is finally disposed of. The conference was very brief, and it was decided that the republican members should oppose any such resolution by voting against it, and that they should pursue the same course if an attempt to extend the appropriation for judicial expenses should be made; but in neither case to resort to parliamentary tactics to defeat the plans of the majority.

Confirmations.

The Senate confirmed the following nominations: Oscar Hatfield, New York, consul of the United States at Batavia; Wm. J. J. Galbraith, associate justice of the supreme court of the Territory of Montana; Josiah Dent, commissioner of the District of Columbia. A large number of army appointments were confirmed. The nomination of D. T. Corbin, South Carolina, as chief justice of the supreme court of Utah Territory was reported from the judiciary committee adversely. Placed on the calendar for consideration hereafter.

Burned to Death.

ATLANTA, 23.—The dwelling of J. F. Reynolds, near Jonesboro, burned last night. His daughter and sister-in-law, young girls of 13 and 16 years, perished in the flames. The fire originated in their room which was locked on the inside. They were so blinded or bewildered that they could not open the door, although Reynolds, who had been awakened by the roaring flames called to them and tried to break in the door, he then went to save his wife and barely succeeded in getting her out. He was very badly burned and it is feared fatally.

Cattle Disease.

DENVER, 23.—A few days since exciting rumors of a cattle disease on the divide, 30 miles south of Denver were current. Investigation has proved that there was needless alarm, no new cases being reported for ten days. Timely precautions have been taken and the president of the Colorado Cattle Growers' Association states that the infection was confined to a few small herds and had not extended to the plains. The "round ups" are nearly through. The cattle are reported in good condition generally, with less losses than formerly, and with a greater increase in calves than in average years.

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

Another Scull.

NEWCASTLE ON-TYNE, 23.—The private sculling trial between Frederick A. Plaisted, of New York, and Wm. Nicholson, of Stockton, England, took place on the Tyne this morning, and ended in Plaisted's easy defeat by Nicholson. The contest was viewed by a comparatively small number of people. The champion Hanlon, who is an old friend of Plaisted's, remained in Newcastle to witness the race. The course over which the men agreed to row was from Dunstan to Scotswood Suspension Bridge, a distance of two miles. The tide was good and the weather fine. When the men took their place, Plaisted made the pace, leading his English adversary for half a mile, which distance he led by two lengths. Meanwhile Nicholson put on a grand spurt, showing his staying powers to be vastly superior to Plaisted's, and overhauled his American competitor. The men fouled twice. Nicholson, however, cleared away and shot ahead, winning the race by over a hundred yards. It was reported directly after the close of the contest that Elliott will probably accept Courtenay's challenge to row for £400 at Saratoga within the next few months.

The Way Vanderbilt Succeeded.

When Commodore Vanderbilt was running steamboats, he beat all rivals by crowding on steam to the utmost, and even running down his enemy if necessary, to accomplish a triumph. When he went into railroading he adopted a much shrewder and more successful way, by uniting vast lines and their tributaries under his own management, thus capturing all rivals by sharing with them the immense pool of profits that were made by his skillful manipulation. Messrs. Lawrence & Co., Bankers, N. Y., accomplish a much greater success in stock operations by their new Combination method of dealing. By this system the orders of thousands of customers are pooled into one vast sum and co-operated under the most experienced management, thus giving to each shareholder all the benefits of large capital and best skill. Profits divided monthly. Any amount from $5 to $25,000 can be used with great success. $15 will make $75 profit. $80 would return $720 or 9 per cent. on the stock during the month, according to the market. The new circular (mailed free) has "two unerring rules for success" and full explanations, so that any one can operate profitably. Stocks and bonds wanted. Government bonds supplied.
