BUSINESS DULL ON 'CHANGE

The Brokers' Meet Results in the Sale of But 550 Shares—Bids and Spurs.

The stock brokers are not complaining much on 'change these days, the hot waves of summer apparently having a very depressing effect on both the members and the organization itself. The brokers met today, and parting with only a record of sales aggregating the stupendous—a mere bagatelle, when the quality and high values of the stocks which they have to deal with are taken into consideration. Two of each class of stocks were sold in—Geyser and Mammoth of the listed properties and Swansea and Rogers of the unlisted. Two hundred shares of the former changed hands at 80 cents, at which figure some of the stock could have found takers. The Mammoth made a transfer of 100 shares, which brought $3.15 per share and gave the stock a very clumsy position. Ontario quotations were but 65 cents apart today, and while that is quite a wide difference it is too often that the figures on that property get so close. One hundred shares of Swansea sold at $2.12½ and the Rogers met a sale at 35 cents.

The closing figures were as follows:

A GOOD ONE FIND.

One Piece of Rock Runs Over $100 on the Ton.

There was a good bit of talk in town yesterday, says Sunday's Reno Gazette, over a sensational gold assay from the Clark mine, owned by S. A. Heather and Matty Dunmore. The claim is located in the canyon on the Idaho City road, just three miles from town. A piece of rock taken out of the face of an open cut that was being run assayed $288.40 gold.

The vein is eight feet wide. None of the rock has the appearance of being valuable. This piece was taken at random and the assay was a great surprise. They located four other claims, and found another ledge of the same kind of material 55 feet in width. Yesterday they carefully sampled the 55-foot ledge and found the average value to be $6.30 in gold. This is considered very good, and the fact of such a rich piece having been found indicates that there may be a body of high grade ore in the property. It would seem as though the ore could be easily treated and that it would pay well if it goes as high as the average sample. Since all the ledges in this district improve with depth, there is reason to hope that these properties will develop very satisfactorily. The claims are being surveyed and work will be commenced on them at once.

Bids and Spurs.

Since March 25th the Daly mine has produced silver to the amount of 53,530 ounces while the Ontario has yielded 19,229 ounces.

Frank A. Bird, who has long held the position of chief sampler for the Anchor company, has opened a custom office in Park City.

At a recent meeting of the board of directors of the May Day Mining company held at Park City, it was decided to commence active development work on the property immediately.

Evanston, Wyo., Herald: Mr. Geoghegan came in about a week ago from the divide between Evanston and Logan. He says that beauty is one of the finest mineral belts to be found anywhere, and that it has been prospected but very little. Immense bodies of copper and silver, with some gold, are to be seen on all sides.

Ex-Patrolman Michael Delaney and Leon Crow explored the hills in search of Palmyrites on Monday and made three locations, one in which shows a three-foot vein running up the surface carrying fair values of high-grade galena ore and running fairly well in silver.

Negotiations are said to be pending for the purchase of the Dr. Lamar mine at De Lamar, Nev., by a British syndicate. The property, which is owned by Captain J. H. De Lamar, was purchased by that gentleman a few years ago at a price of something like $50,000 and it has continued so in value that it is reported the Britishers will pay as high as $2,500,000 for it.

Richfield Observer: Tom Ferguson is busy getting samples from George M. Scott's mine, the Crystal, and is examining the ledge at its end doing some things needed preparatory to a purchase of the mine for a Chicago company..... Work is not starting up in Marysvale as soon as expected. It may be fall before things will fairly boom. Some miners are going away to other camps to work for the summer and will return late fall.

The latest discoveries in British Columbia are a ten-foot vein of galena carrying ore near Vancouver, a ledge in the Lillooet district on the Fraser, of free milling ore running $1,000 to the ton in an average, and said to be the richest vein yet discovered in the province, and a ledge on Bentley Island, near Victoria, thirty feet wide and with millions of dollars in sight.

CARNIVAL MATTERS.

Effort to Have Fast Stepping for the Musical Exercises—The Tuting Contest.

The hope is indulged in by the executive committee that Professor Evan Stephens will consent to act as musical director of the carnival. If he does accept, the caring of one of the most important and pleasing features of the festival will be in good hands and the success of that portion of the entertainment program will be assured. There are to be many evening concerts, etc., and in selecting Professor Stephens the committee, while recognizing the pre-eminent abilities of many other musicians, conceded one and all, that he of all men in Utah was the most musical representative, and that as an organizer and director he is without a peer in the West.

THE TUTING CONTEST.

The tuting contest is getting exciting. The friends of the ladies are coming forward thus if they were engaged in a political campaign and the fire of the ardent damsels upon their constituents. Before entering the tutter set will be at fever pitch, for on that day the pole will place for all but the five highest candidates. Last evening the tuts stood:

Shooting Scrapes.

Reports of two shooting affrays were circulated about town last night, one to the effect that such an occurrence had taken place at Willie Hicks's resort while the other was said to have emanated from a barber shop in the western part of the city. The officers were on a still hunt for the transgressors but found that there was virtually nothing in the reports, as none so blood was shed.

Stole a Horse.

The police are on the lookout for horse thief and the animal he appropriated without permission of the owner. The theft took place at Murray on Sunday morning about 7 o'clock. The animal weighs about 900 pounds, is a slight gray in color, has a combination all round on his shoe which with a farmer unacquainted of a wart on one eye. J. H. Rimmer, the owner, wires to Chief Pomeroy to be on the lookout in heading for Salt Lake, via Garfield. The suspected man, he says, wore a brown duck coat and a scanty moustache. He is about five feet in height and weighs about 150 pounds.

A LIVELY RUNAWAY.

Mr. George A. Lowe Has a Dangerous and Thrilling Experience.

George A. Lowe, the well-known implement dealer, had an experience this morning which he will not soon forget, and from which he very fortunately and miraculously escaped without serious injury.

It was about 7:30 a. m. when Mr. E. E. Ryan, manager of the People's Paint company, was standing in front of his establishment on East Temple street, near door south of the D. C. M. I., that his attention was suddenly directed to the south from whence a team attached to a light buggy was coming pell-mell up the street. In the buggy was seated a gentleman, for such it was Mr. Ryan was unable to perceive, he could see, however, that the occupant evidently had lost his hold on the reins, preparing for the worst, while the shafts of the buggy were furiously thumped were working up and down the side of the horses, which he took to be six feet and comprise flight.

Mr. Ryan's team was standing in front of his store, and as the runaway horses was making straight for it, in addition with it, which no doubt would have resulted disastrously for his carriage, Mr. Ryan directed his man, who was standing by the team, to attempt to check the animals in its wild career. The young man did as directed which his runaway team took a sudden turn and ran down Second South across the street in front of Schneider's dancing house, where it took itself from the vehicle which continued its journey onward, while the buggy was badly wrecked, and Mr. Lowe, whom it carried to be, unscathed. Indeed, as it were, although his thrilling experience had had the effect of completely dazing him. It was a close call for the gentleman and was very exciting while it lasted.

Excursion to Mercur.

On Saturday next the Union Pacific will inaugurate a series of summer excursions to Mercur, the mines at that great mining camp of the Intermountain region. The fare for the round trip will be $2.25. The excursion party will leave at the usual hour of the departure of the train for that point—10:40 a.m.—and return the last evening, Sunday. In the event that some persons should desire to return the same day, Saturday, they of course have that privilege also.

Canal Case Injunction.

Late yesterday afternoon Judge Hirst delivered an opinion in the case of the North Point Irrigation company vs Salt Lake City et al, which was tried some time ago and submitted.

The plaintiff's claim for judgment was $50,000 and also asked that the defendants be enjoined from taking more water from Jordan river than they are entitled to, and that they be enjoined to conduct the water of Dorker lake into the Jordan river. His honor granted a temporary injunction.

Ten days stay was granted the defendants, to prepare statement on appeal.

THE MONGOLIAN PHEASANT.

A Newcomer Among the Game Birds of New England.

"We have so far watched these pheasants very carefully, and the statement of Judge Denny of Oregon that they are of advantage to a farmer and horticulturist in destroying injurious insects without fruit to the crops appears to be fully sustained. They are certainly most persistent in their search for all kinds of insects and their larvæ. They scratch for birds, eating their bills, which are well adapted to the purpose, to turn over the ground in search of food that does not seem to be worth while. Of the different kinds of caterpillar which have been introduced on the premises it is evident that few if any have been allowed to live long enough to change to the chrysalis or cocoon. On this ground, which is partly covered with young trees, the gypsy moth is found, and about 400 of the trees have been barkgirdled.

"Many of these trees are inside the inclosure where the young birds were hatched. The hen birds were turned out twice a week, but the young ones never were found except two large of the gypsy moth. The chicks were often seen throwing aside other, one having a caterpillar or insect in its bill. In two instances it proved to be the larva of the gypsy moth. The large, dusky, mottled worms, from 1 to 2 inches long, which infest walnut trees were eaten with great avidity. The only thing we have known the chicks to refuse is the larva of the potato bug. The full grown birds were not so fastidious, and it largely would eat them."

This speaks well for the bird, and the opportunity which such just for appreciation for bird and game are very much limited. The Mongolian pheasant is very tender, as well as the jungle cock, a quick, hard flier, and its meat is sweet. When the sportsman Americans first tolled of introducing them there was a great rush for the cockers who begrudge a cent for sport's interest. They contended that the pheasants would furnish native birds, but this has been proved to be a mistake. The old birds fight for their young but otherwise the pair mate according to their preference. After three weeks from the day the young birds are hatched they are able to fly. At that age many of them fly into the high wire fence in showing the Mongolian pheasants at Wi-
