DEATH OF JESSE W. FOX.

An Old, Respected and Useful Citizen Passes to His Rest.

A Brief Biographical Sketch of the Deceased Veteran.—To be Buried on Wednesday Next.

Jesse W. Fox, one of the Territory's pioneer citizens, passed peacefully from mortality at Bloomfield pottery (Sunday) morning at 7:15, while on a visit to that place. Elder Fox was 75 years of age on Saturday last and in the afternoon of that day he went to Bloomfield. His illness was very brief and the immediate cause of death was congestion of the lungs. His body was brought to Salt Lake yesterday and interred will be held in the Assembly Hall on Wednesday afternoon next, beginning at 1 o'clock.

Jesse William Fox, son of Samuel and Lucy Williams Fox, was born on March 31st, 1818, near Adams Centre, Jefferson County, New York. He was a South child of a family of ten sons and three daughters. He had an excellent education and fought school in Jefferson County, New York, and at other places. He was the companion of John's Knox in their boyhood. The latter being bound out, was opposed, when young Fox's aspirations and bade him to go to Canada, which was the stepping stone to the renowned Knox's financial power.

He embraced the Gospel early in the forties and resided Nauvoo, Illinois, only a time to see the remains of the martyred Prophet and Patriarch, Joseph and Hyrum Smith, their having previously closed their eyes in death. Fox took sides as he followed his parents emigration, and settling, with the emigration of the Church, he met Nancy was came to Winter Quarters, remaining there until the spring of 1847, when he was sent by President Young to his old home in New York on a mission in hope that the change of climate and scenes would revive his health. It is not to be wondered that Brother Fox's health had failed, when we realize the cause of want and suffering through which the people of the Church passed from the hour of the martyrdom to the spring of '47—when we behold the strong constitution of Brother Fox. The lads are although young, resorted to simple means for his own comfort and support, he shared with the afflicted people every thing he possessed and would have died had not the Lord prompted His servant to send him on a mission to New York. As it was, he did a good work, and baptized a number of his kindred and other prominent people into the Church.

In the spring of 1849 he again joined the Saints, tarrying westward, at Council Bluffs, where on the 2nd of June of that year he was married to Eliza J. Goddy by the late Apostle Geo. A. Smith. He was stationed in the company of Captain Jedediah M. Grant and William Miller's 52d. When the train reached the Long Fork they were attacked by the certain savages of Pawnee, which followed in the wake of the California gold seekers, many of whom died on the trail on the Missouri river and on the Plains. A number of the Saints became victims of the tomahawk, among the red Capitals (Bill), who was buried on the east side of the river. The company was delayed several days at this point on account of high water, and was only delivered from their peril by the hand of a kind Providence. They had no means of ferrying, while the dread disease was continuing their ravages, but they set to gave themselves to fasting and prayer, when, to use Brother Fox's own language, the power of God was so manifest in their deliverance as was that wherein ancient Israel was led with safety through their perils in the Red Sea, for a contrary wind threw up during the night, formed of the shifting sands, which gave them safe passage on their way. It was remarkable how the sick were cured in answer to their prayers.

On reaching the valley Brother Fox added to the corners of the city and surrounding settlements, and located for one year at Mount Sanpete County, where he taught school, officiating in the city on business in connection of surveyor and it was he who surveyed the site and set the stakes for the Salt Lake Temple, as well as for others, afterwards built. He enrolled in the Utah militia and became captain of a company of infantry, mounted men, being promoted, on other several occasions, finally he had being a position on the staff of the late Lieutenant General D. H. Wells. He was elected by the Legislative Assembly Territorial surveyor general of Utah, which office he held for many years until it was discontinued, and he distributed the papers to the several counties. He lobbied and surveyed the principal canals of this county and Territory and was appointed and confirmed by the Legislative Council and Southern railroads.

Brother Fox has been an active member in the Church and of late years filled the office of High Counselor of the Salt Lake Stake and always possessed the love of his acquaintances. The unfortunate who knew him always found sympathy and the deserved and obtained aid if it was in the power to bestow them. Among those whom he aided in the school room he was called upon with the great name all-divine. As an illustration, the brilliant Black River child who made war upon our settlements in the southern part of Utah Territory in the sixties—Brother Fox, in his travels, had occasion to pass through his camp and was recognized by the chief, who had been a pupil of his when a lad in Manti. Instead of overpowering him, he was led to the hall of holding where while man that ventured within its gates, he secured that he and brother he not only permitted to continue his journey unhindered, but gave him escort to a place of safety.

In the death of Elder Jesse Williams Fox our people have sustained a serious loss, and the poor and the afflicted of our county are bereaved of a friend who will feel the loss in his absence as keenly as his nearest kindred. He is to be congratulated upon his release from a life of sorrowful toil and suffering of want and affliction—he having been ordained to sanctified and ministering the lonely and afflicted—in the life he has now been permitted to enjoy from the paternal of God and joyful his loved wife Eliza and their children and friends who have gone before, awaited, if any one is to be favored on account of a wholesome life, he will be one that will partake of God's eternal love.

Disappointed Sports.

The usual Sunday prize fight was to have come off yesterday in a secluded spot some distance west of the Jordan river, but enforcement of the law in this instance prevented any such demonstration, and as a result a large number of sports were sorely disappointed, as a good many of them had actually made their way out of the city for the purpose of witnessing the mill.

To Sheriff McQuarrie is due the credit of preventing the fight. The officer had spent quite roundings for a time, and had not the slightest idea of where the fight was to take place. At the appointed time instead of appearing on the battle ground, he quietly approached all assembled. The disappointed little sinners, and the officer was one of the principals, and his opponent was Joe Kane, who is sent to hail from Seattle.

Four men are the promoters, but a company is to be organized and may strengthen of simple capital.

Will Protest.

There seems to be a little friction between the Wellsville city council and some of the citizens, because the council refused to assume control of the water running through the city, something that the owners of canals and ditches refuse to do. It is said that a mass meeting will be held to protest against the proposed action.

Miscellaneous.

Hon. T. G. Webber, of Z. C. M. I., spent a portion of last week here on business in the interests of the Logan branch.

There is considerable disappointment in some quarters over the fact that Congressman Hoke Smith has not yet filed his bond. It was expected that in view of the scarcity of money the case would be taken, and that he would have sworn to it yesterday, which he gave when there are complaints filed.

The addition to the Eccles's building is now complete, and there is scarcely room for an in the separators.
