THE MISCHIEF-MAKER.

BY JOSEPHINE POLLARD.

"This is dull enough work," said a dear little breeze,
With the fragrance of June in her breath,
"Of living on rose-leaves and taking my ease,
I'm just about tired to death!
Dear me.
I'm just about tired to death.

"I can't raise the wind in this poky old place,"
Said the breeze with a dolorous sigh,
"So my quarters I'll change, if it brings me disgrace;
I must have a 'blow out,' or die.
"Dear me!"
Said the breeze, with a dolorous sigh.

So the Zephyr quite out of her latitude falls,
And in search of adventures goes forth,
Receiving some hints as to tempests and squalls,
From her friends at the east and north,
Who say—
"You'd better keep northeast by north."

She found a small spark with the tiniest glow,
And declared it would be a great shame
To let it die out just for want of a blow;
So she fanned it up into a flame.
Ah, me!
Such a beautiful, terrible flame!

It leaped and it crackled, and still the breeze blew,
And thought it was capital fun
To see the black smoke, as it gathered and grew,
And put out the light of the sun.
"Just see,"
She exclaimed, "what fun!"

But she wearied at last of her frolicsome rout,
And the joy of her turbulent reign;
"How I wish that this wretched old fire was out,
And I in my quarters again!
Oh, yes,
In my nice cosy quarters again."

But the flame she had kindled with vigorous breath,
To her bidding refused to give heed,
But went hurrying on in its dance of death,
And mockingly laughed at her deed!
"Aha!"
How it mocked at her ignorant deed.

"Dear me," said the zephyr, "now where shall I go
To hide my disgrace and my shame?
Ah! little I thought that such ruin would grow
From the spark that I fanned to a flame!
Dear me!
And nobody else to blame.

"This caution I give to all breezes that blow,
And to people who gossip about,
Be careful of sparks, lest you kindle a glow
That you'd find very hard to put out.
Just see
What came of my little 'blow out?'"
—N. Y. Independent.

WESTERN NOTES.

Linforth, Kellogg & Co., San Francisco, have sued James McMechan, et al., to recover $4,494 for goods sold and delivered.

The Albany (Oregon) Register says, "The coming season bids fair to become the busiest since the first settlement for mechanics, of which there are a scarcity."

Placerville, El Dorado county, Cal. has a water-power sausage machine, capable of grinding out these conundrums at the rate of 56 pounds in twenty minutes.

The Governor of California offers a reward of $3,000 for the capture and delivery of Vasquez alive to the Sheriff of Monterey county, or $2,000 for his dead body.

Near Sutter creek, California, lately, Willie McGee, a young boy, lost a hand by pulling a gun through a brush fence by the muzzle.

The people of Pleasanton, Alameda county, Cal., are on short allowance of bread, high water in the creeks and bad roads cutting them off from communication with the outside world.

Stalks of wheat, measuring three feet high, nicely headed out, and almost ready for harvest, were brought into the San Bernardino Argus office lately. It was raised in the valley.

The proprietor of the Los Angeles Herald was interviewed, Jan 21, by a Dr. Griffin. The doctor struck him with a cane and next drew a pistol, at which the proprietor wisely took "leg-bail."

One hundred and twenty-nine citizens of Eugene, Oregon, were off drinking ardent spirits on New Year's Day. One hundred and eighteen have gone back to their cups, and the other eleven are hanging on the verge and around the saloons.

The largest assemblage of the business men of Santa Clara, Cal., ever convened, met January 21, to take action on the proposed establishment of a jute factory. After the usual speech-making, committees were appointed and the meeting adjourned until Wednesday last.

The San Francisco Alta of Jan. 23d has the following: "The meanest coward knows that he must die, but to walk bravely to marriage, my Lord, needs the courage of a lion!' A young man went to be married in a church on Geary street yesterday, and evidently became impressed with the above quoted words of Adrian de Mauprat, in 'Richelieu,' as he fainted away in the church."

Professor James Allen, the aeronaut, has arrived in San Francisco with his two balloons—one of 65,000 feet capacity, and held to carry six or seven persons. Allen is the greatest and most practical balloonist in the country, having made hundreds of ascensions, and was employed by the government during the war for army observation; also by the Brazilian government for the same purpose.

The amount required to carry out the plans which James Lick of San Francisco has matured, cannot be certainly ascertained. But they represent from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. The Observatory, the Academy of Sciences, the School of Technology, the Asylum for Aged Women, the Orphan Asylums—these are some of the noble uses to which a wealthy citizen proposes to devote his means in his declining days.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Sacramento Valley Beet Sugar Company, held recently at the office of Julius Wetzlar, the following were elected Trustees for the coming year: Julius Wetzlar, W. E. Brown, H. G. Smith, Samuel Levensen and Philip Scheld. The prospects of the company, as reported at the meeting, are gratifyingly promising. Eighteen hundred acres of land will be sown in beets this season, to supply the factory.

A compositor in this office has invented what promises to be a very powerful auxiliary in farming operations. It is denominated a spading machine, and consists of a hollow iron cylinder, in which are inserted at intervals a series of knives or spades, which scoop up and pulverize the ground operated upon with marvelous rapidity. By an ingenious device the knives, when not in contact with the ground, retire within the cylinder. The machine resembles a roller and can be used as such in leveling the ground, and can be drawn easily by two horses, without any handling.

A boy who can drive a span of horses can fill the place of a man. The model shown us is a beautiful piece of mechanism, and was manufactured at the foundry of Pyrrell and Cummings, on the Divide.—Gold Hill News, Jan. 29.
