NEUTRALITY OF WATERWAY

Senate Committee on the Nicaraguan Canal Will Add to Bill.

Provision Intended to Bring About a Treaty with Great Britain Regarding the Big Ditch.

New York, Dec. 7.—A dispatch to the Herald from Washington says:

The Senate committee on the Nicaraguan canal will add to the canal bill now pending a provision intended to bring about a treaty with Great Britain for a joint guaranty of the neutrality of the canal. This provision is embodied in an amendment which has been prepared by Senator Harris of Kansas, who is one of the closest students of the problems relating to the construction of the canal, as well as one of the most earnest supporters of the canal project in Congress. The Harris amendment will authorize the President to negotiate a treaty agreement with Great Britain for a joint guaranty for the permanent neutrality of the canal. [illegible] the Clayton-Bulwer treaty. [illegible]

The American contention has been, of course, that Great Britain's violations of the terms of that treaty have been such as to practically abrogate it, and certainly such as would give this government full warrant in going ahead with the construction of the canal without any reference to its provisions.

It is Senator Harris's idea and Senator Morgan agrees with him, that the simplest way to prevent any misunderstanding is to authorize the President to make an agreement of the kind contemplated by the amendment.

CALIFORNIA'S DESERTED CITY.

Meadow Lake Now Has Just One Inhabitant Left—Once a Prosperous Village.

From the New York Herald.

In Nevada county, Cal., repose the remains of one of the strangest towns on this continent. Meadow Lake is the American Pompeii, whose entombing [illegible] sometimes bury it 25 feet deep on a level, and whose annual exhuming is brought about by the summer sun.

It was in the summer of 1865 that the name Meadow Lake was formally given to the town, previously called [illegible] City. Until 1858 nothing had been done in the way of prospecting that particular locality.

Henry Hartley, an Englishman, who visited the vicinity in June, 1862, in search of game and chanced to discover fragments of gold, imparted his discovery to his friends. A company was formed, and soon after other companies and the building of a city was started.

With the close of the fall of 1865 the new city contained about 150 houses completed and a number of others in course of construction. Then all hopes were blasted. The adventurers awoke to the sad reality that, though there was plenty of gold in Meadow Lake, it was effectually locked from the hand of man.
