A Young Man Crushed to Death Near Golden, Colorado.

IMMENSE CHLORIDATION PLANT.

A Clash Between Municipal and Federal Authorities—Idaho's Hop Industry.

Rock Springs (Wyo.) Rocket: Big Hollow basin prospects looks encouraging. The first crop of marble last week, which in spite of the fact that it had no rain of any account, and was entirely dependent on irrigation for its growth, is magnificent—in some localities it is "simply immense."

The Portland Gold Mining company of Cripple Creek, Colo., on Wednesday declared a dividend of 1 cent a share on its 500,000 shares, or a total of $5,000. On April 1st there was not a foot in the memory of the company and since then much work has been done on developing the mine, while the treasury still has to be good something more than $50,000.

The Denver News of July 10th says: Upward of $50,000 will be paid the miners of Cripple Creek today, which fact is indicative of the general resumption of mining operations in that camp. As the era of good feeling returns and work is more generally resumed the payroll will be seen from month to month, and a constantly growing output of the yellow metal secured from Cripple Creek.

The erection of an immense chloridization plant at Florence, Colorado, says the Durango Herald, of a capacity of 500 tons of ore per day, speaks volumes for the Cripple Creek district. It is claimed for the process that $5 ore can be treated with profit. If soon proves to be the case the possibilities of the La Plata mountains are beyond all comprehension, as the equally as low grade ore is almost inexhaustible.

The DeLamar (Idaho) Anglo-Saxon says: Some very clever work is said to have been done at the drifting contract at Silver City on the Fourth. The next time we have a gala day in De Lamar the winners will be invited down here and given a chance to carry away a nice little sack of twenties if they are clever enough to get away with the loose selected from the De Lamar mine, and no War Eagle or Florida miner will be carred.

Frank B. Myers, a young man, well known and popular in the town of Colfax, Colo., met with a sudden and distressing death on Wednesday morning in a mine eight miles west of Golden. Myers was working with his father in a shaft and was operating a hoist belonging to a mine. When a piece of timber and earth fell upon him and crushed him. His father and younger brother managed to extricate him before he died, but he lived only ten minutes afterwards.

According to the Idaho City World the Rev. Joseph Wynn, superintendent of the Bible Mission company, holds services at the Edna Mine every Sunday, which is a rest day for the miners. The hand mill of the employes of the company in Boiseys is used by the company. The working-men get a rest on the Sabbath and their board on that day is free. There are but few superintendents like Mr. Wilers. It is needless to say that he has the respect and good will of every man in the employ of the company.

On Wednesday morning there was a clash between the municipal and Federal authorities at Raton, N. M., which came near resulting in bloodshed. The city marshal asked one of the deputy United States marshals, who was walking around the street heavily armed, his authority for doing so. He made an insolent answer and attempted to draw his gun. The city marshal was too quick and got the drop on the deputy, when another deputy came up with a Winchester and the city marshal was taken into custody to answer a charge of contempt.

The Boise (Idaho) Statesman says that the hop industry is a new one in Idaho, but that it has already attained respectable proportions to attested by the fact that growers cannot secure sufficient pickers to harvest their crops. The yield is reported to be very large and the quality excellent. There is no longer any doubt that the western valleys of this state are especially adapted to the production of this important crop. The future of the business would have been assured had not Congress determined to cut down the hop duty. Owing to the cost of labor, particularly for picking, this reduction may prove a very serious drawback, but its full effect can be determined only after a practical trial. In the meantime the hop growers are assured that the profits yield will enable the business to be developed under the adverse conditions imposed upon it.

J. A. Wand says that he studies strategy in the refuse from a corn cobbing factory in this way: He puts posts in the ground eight feet apart, as high as he can reach comfortably to fill in the space inside, boarding it up with common sheap boards. Inside the space inclosed by the posts he puts the cobbing refuse. The posts are placed on the outside to keep them from giving way. After all has been put in he uses the fodder with the same sheap lumber and throws about six inches of dirt on top. This, after a fashion, serves the purpose of a silo. Mr. Wand throws out the cobs, as they are no good. He says the silos of a hundred acres of corn used for cobbing will winter 25 cattle. Part of the stuff spoils, but this is very little. It costs of course to throw out.

SUPPORT HOME INDUSTRY.

THESE ARE THE PEOPLE WHO SELL HOME MADE GOODS.

THEY BUILD UP UTAH and are entitled to the support of the people. In dealing with the merchants who give preference to the sale of Home Made goods, you help the Home Industry cause. You help to give employment to worthy people; you help to keep money at home, which circulates in our midst and you get back a part of the money again in your business or profession. Keep this in mind; every dollar expended for Utah made goods, means more employment for home people; every dollar expended for goods manufactured elsewhere, means employment for somebody living elsewhere, and whose interests are generally not with us. "Charity begins at home." This is a time for home industry and patriotism.
