FRAGMENTS.

THE Nephi Military company were regaling themselves at Syracuse today.

SUPERINTENDENT Ratchett of the Union Pacific was in Salt Lake on business today.

COL. DODGE, of the Rio Grande Western, is in the city, it is said, on very important business.

THE Mystic Shriners and a party of friends went to Garfield on the 2 o'clock train this afternoon.

THERE are messages at the Western Union Telegraph office for Jas. Redinger, P. H. Harris and Mrs. Edward Andrews.

THE coming excursion over the Union Pacific to Shoshone promises to be a very large one. The rate is the lowest ever made to that point and return, and the accommodations are unexcelled.

THERE was a meeting of prominent Democrats in the office of the late T. H. Dee last night at which steps were taken to organize Democratic societies in every precinct of the county, where no such organizations exist, preparatory to commencing the fall campaign.

Temperance Mass Meeting.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. are anxious to let it be known that the meeting in the Theatre on Sunday night is not sectarian to any sense, but is for all the people in this city who are in favor of temperance, and are desirous to have the laws of the Territory and of the city against drunkenness and vice strictly enforced. The various speakers will confine themselves to these points. The ladies, therefore, hope to have a large attendance at their meeting. All are cordially invited. In addition to the speeches there will be some excellent singing.

A "Liberal" Dissents.

Editor Deseret News:

Pardon me for troubling you. Just now I can hardly refrain from writing you a line. The Tribune of this morning, referring to the Liberal Territorial conference of last night, says that the conference voted without a dissenting voice. That may be true. It does not, however, prove that there were no dissenters present. I think there were many. And there is not a doubt in my mind that it will be shown by the ballot that will be cast in November next. Many dissenters kept their seats, not wishing to make any special display of themselves.

In reference to that "single voice" referred to by the Tribune, that sounded as that paper says, like that of a small boy shouting "No," I will say knowingly—"That voice was the voice of a full grown man—a man who, from the beginning of the Liberal party identified himself with that party and held on to it till within a very few days past. Becoming convinced that the time had about arrived when the Liberal party should disband, I went to the conference last night, intending too, if there seemed to be the least chance, to take the stand and, in a very few words, state my disapproval of continuing any longer the organization of the Liberal party. Finding, however, that so many of the lesser lights of the party organization (some of the greater lights of the party having just before gone out) were so very anxious to make as good a display of themselves as possible—one hour or more before the conference adjourned, the writer made up his mind to keep his seat.

If he had spoken he would have at least said to the first proposition: "I think not. It is not likely that any Liberal can be elected." A delegate to the nation's Congress is not local, but national. To the second proposition, No. Let the Republicans and Democrats of the party divide their forces and vote their respective party tickets." To the third proposition, Yes. Just as soon as the parent government is ready to give us statehood. To the fourth, Yes. Disband now, and thereby lost the political sincerity of the priesthood of the Mormon church. Come what may the past cannot possibly ever be repeated. Such fellow citizens is my judgment.

DISSENTER.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 22, 1892.

AROUND THE COURTS.

The Filing of Suits.—A Charge of Stealing a Roulette Wheel Falls Through.

There has been no session of the Third District Court today, but tomorrow Chief Justice Zane is likely to be occupied for several hours hearing motions and dealing with other matters.

Adelaide Cameron Noble Hinckley this morning brought suit in the Third District Court against Nis C. Christiansen, Gunelle Christiansen and the Burton-Gardner Co., to recover $[illegible] (with interest) on a promissory note, delivered to Lucian Noble, now deceased.

C. F. Loofbourow, as administrator of the estate of H. N. Halvorsen, deceased, brought suit today in the same court against the Niagara Mining and Smelting Company, to recover $[illegible] for certain work done under contract for the defendants by the late Mr. Halvorsen during the construction of a tunnel on their mining properties at Bingham, Utah, in 1891. The sum claimed is as balance of the account.

C. C. McKay, Frank Mott and John Richards went before Commissioner Greenman this morning to answer a charge of stealing a roulette wheel from the Wave saloon, where that place was under an attachment. Horace King, the bartender, was in charge of the saloon at the time, and he was the prosecuting witness. For the last day or so, however, he has been missing, and all the efforts of Deputy Marshal Charles Goodsell have failed to find him. As King was absent and there was no one to prove the ownership of the wheel, the defendants were discharged.

Clerk Bache, of the Supreme court of the Territory, has gone away for his summer vacation. He is now somewhere around Yellowstone Park.

ARRESTED FOR FORGERY.

P. J. Mahoney, An Ex-Convict, Again in Trouble.

RECENTLY PARDONED FROM THE "PEN."

A Petit Larcenist Sentenced to Thirty Days' Imprisonment.—Other Offenders.

Patrick J. Mahoney is the name of an individual who was on the 15th of December last held in the police court to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of forgery. In the upper court he confessed his guilt, which consisted of passing a check on a restaurant keeper named Moore, purporting to be signed by E. J. Smith, of the Irrigation Age Printing company. He was sentenced to one year in the Penitentiary, but through the intercession of friends was recently pardoned by the governor. It now appears that he has returned to his old tricks. He was arrested by Officer Ford last night on a charge of passing a T. H. Jones & Company's bank check for $25 on the proprietor of the Boston Chop House, made payable to L. W. N. Scanlan. When he was searched at police headquarters a check for the same amount and general tenor was found in his possession, as was also a certificate of deposit from the Utah National Bank, in favor of John Samuelsen for $[illegible].

The checks are numbered 47 and 48 and have the appearance of having been torn from a regular perforated check book.

When arraigned in the Police court this morning the prisoner entered a plea of not guilty and was remanded to jail awaiting a hearing before Justice Kesler.

Wm. [illegible], the lap robe thief, was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment.

Lizzie Woolnahan left $10 on deposit to secure her attendance in court to answer to assault and battery.

Richard Sebastian forfeited $5 for leaving his team untied.

The following suspicious characters are in jail charged with vagrancy: Dan Coleman, John Harris, Joseph Shields, Charles McArty and Jennie Rogers.

THE HOPKINS' BANQUET.

Fifty Prominent Business Men Attended It Last Night.

The Colonel Hopkins' reception at the Knutsford last night was an extremely enjoyable and successful affair. Salt Lake's most prominent business and professional men were present at the banquet. At eight o'clock promptly the guests commenced to arrive and sauntered leisurely about the spacious corridors of the magnificent hotel, where they were introduced to Colonel Hopkins, who recently arrived in this city from New York, with the intention of taking up his residence here. Colonel Hopkins has already identified himself with extensive business interests in Salt Lake, and is largely interested in the Wilkes-Hopkins addition near Garfield, and which it is said will be greatly improved in the near future.

The Knutsford orchestra rendered several choice selections, and at 9:30 the assemblage repaired to the dining hall and partook of a splendid repast which had been prepared for the occasion. Manager Hall occupied a seat at the head of the table. On his right hand sat President Woodruff, while President Cannon occupied a position to the left. On either side of the table next to the persons named were Colonel Lett, Judge Judd, Mayor Baskin, ex-Mayor Scott and other prominent citizens.

When the meal had been eaten Mr. Holmes made a speech of welcome to Colonel Hopkins and appointed Judge Judd as toastmaster.

The Judge said in accepting: None would welcome more heartily than he men who came to this Territory for the purpose of developing its resources; but in our feast we should not forget the memory of those hardy pioneers who made it possible for us to enjoy the pleasures of tonight. We have here this evening one of those early settlers, from whom no doubt each and every one of us would be glad to hear.

He introduced President Woodruff, who said:

"I came to Utah July 24, 1847, with Brigham Young. I helped to lay out this city, and have ever since worked for its progress and prosperity. I am glad that I live to see the animosities of recent years vanish before the advancing light of the present. None endorse more heartily than I the feelings of goodfellowship which are the object of this gathering. Old as I am, I hope to live to see this city become the commercial centre of this intermountain region." (Applause.)

Mayor Baskin was the next speaker, and in the course of his remarks said: "I came to Utah in '[illegible] and am a pioneer in a certain sense of the word. I devoted myself to mining, and have as much respect for the rough old prospector as I have for those who first crossed the plains.

"During my public career here I have acted as I thought was the best for the community. I took a bold and aggressive stand, but my worst enemies will concede that my motives, whether right or wrong, were always honest.

"I hope to make this city, by the end of my administration, as good, if not the best regulated town, on the coast. I welcome heartily the guest of the evening." (Applause.)

Hon. George Q. Cannon said: "I cannot express my pleasure at being present at this assembly. I am glad to see men coming into this Territory, extending, and having extended in return, the open hand of fellowship.

"I wish to take this occasion to correct a false impression that is quite prevalent among Utah citizens of today.

"The Mormon leaders are criticised for not having encouraged the industry of mining from [illegible].

"Let me say that in the fifties, before the railroad came, our people were fighting starvation. We had to produce except that which we raised ourselves, and it was not public policy to encourage going such in an enterprise which did not have a direct bearing to [illegible] our grievances. If such meetings as these had been more frequent heretofore, we would have become better acquainted, and many of the animosities of the past would have long been dead and buried." (Applause.)

Dr. [illegible], Major Gestapoel, Judge Zane and Col. Hopkins, all addressed the gathering and were applauded to their efforts.

KILLED AT SOLDIER'S SUMMIT.

Thomas Wing Crushed to Death in a Wreck on the R. G. W.

The badly mangled remains of Brakeman Thomas Wing, of the Rio Grande Western, were brought to this city at 11 o'clock today and conveyed to the undertaking establishment of Joseph William Taylor, on West Temple street. The deceased's death was a most horrible one and happened in a wreck near Soldier's Summit on the Rio Grande Western yesterday afternoon. It seems that as the train was nearing the top of the ridge the rear portion of it on which Wing was riding at the time, became detached from the engine and started backward at a terrific rate of speed. Striking an obstruction it was thrown from the rails and was ditched. Wing was caught beneath the cars and instantly killed. When his body was released it was discovered that his left hip and thigh and right arm were broken, his entrails forced out and his scalp torn from his head. In fact, nearly every bone in his body was crushed, while the surface of the same was covered with cuts and bruises and presented a shocking spectacle. Wing was formerly an engineer in the employ of the Rio Grande Western company. He was about 40 or 45 years of age, and lived at Pueblo, where, it is said, he has a sixteen-year-old daughter residing.

Coroner Harris will hold an inquest as soon as he can get the witnesses together.

Another employe of the company who was badly injured in the same smash-up was also brought in on the 11 o'clock train and conveyed to the Sisters' Hospital, where his wounds are receiving proper attention.

A Brigham City Divorce Suit.

In the District Court at Ogden yesterday, Clannis Wilson filed a suit for divorce from her husband, Peter Wilson, a saloon and mining man of Brigham City. Plaintiff alleges that the defendant has for more than a year past wilfully neglected to provide her with the common necessaries of life and compelled her to live upon the charity of friends, notwithstanding the fact that he is abundantly able to support her and worth more than the sum of $9,000, besides being in receipt of good wages and revenue derived from partnership business carried on in Brigham City. Since her marriage he has treated her in a cruel and inhuman manner and on numberless occasions used insulting and abusive language toward her, falsely charging her with unfaithfulness.

She also alleges that the defendant is at present engaged in several love affairs, and has lately received from one woman alone several amorous epistles. She asks that, pending the action, she be allowed $[illegible] attorney's fees, $75 as costs and $[illegible] per month temporary alimony; likewise that the defendant be restrained from disposing of his property.

In accordance with the prayer of the complainant the court has granted a restraining order.

New England Pagans.

The New England states are in a bad way, if we are to credit the word of President William Dewitt Hyde, of Bowdoin college, in The Forum. There is actual danger that New England will fall away from Christianity and go back to heathendom. This is not, either, as one might suppose, the result of Boston culture; it is simply that the rural population is dropping out of the church. In Maine, for instance, which may be taken as a sample state, in fifteen counties only half the families attend church at all. The church seems to make little if any impression on the community at large. President Hyde thinks he knows the reasons for it too. The first one he gives as follows: "Puritan emphasis on the transcendence as distinct from the immanence of God." This is sad indeed. It would be enough, one would think, to turn any common person into a heathen.

But Mr. Hyde mentions as well a good working reason which a common person can lay hold of with his mind. It is the prevalence of [illegible] in the New England states. The [illegible] of the [illegible] New Englanders is to [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Hyde's opinion. [illegible] [illegible] "supported [illegible]" The only remedy is for the large hearted citizens of a community to [illegible] [illegible] and found a town church, regardless of what sort the pastor is—except he should only that he is an earnest, live Christian.

What he believes to be a typical New England rural community Mr. Hyde describes below:

In the place I have selected [illegible] there are [illegible] and 150 people. The [illegible]
