DEATH OF A VETERAN SOLDIER.

Morning Accident at a Nevada Flouring Mill.—Sugar Beet Culture in Platte Valley, etc.

The Caldwell Tribune is authority for the statement that a movement is on foot to organize a military company in Caldwell (Idaho) and thus swell the ranks of the Idaho guards.

William C. Bradley of Willow valley, Nev. (Dak.), a miner, aged 70 years, was found dead a few days ago in the woods, where he had fallen when going home. Heart disease caused his death. He was a veteran of the Mexican and Pute wars and was distinguished honors for bravery. He served a term as postmaster in this city in the early sixties. He went to California from Tennessee in 1849.

William Parry McCoy was taken suddenly and violently ill in the Globe lodging house, at Denver, and before medical aid could be summoned, died. McCoy was a man of 50 to straightened circumstances. He went to Denver three weeks ago and had been going under the name of James Brown. He was from Watsonville, Santa Cruz county, California, where at one time he was well-to-do and a Knight Templar of high standing.

During the Democratic meeting at Deweys, Monk, the silver nickel, Eli Burgin, Utah Northern agent at Oxville, got into a row with a Chandler man whose friends started in to help him. Burgin has only one leg and was compelled to defend himself with his pocket-knife. He stabbed the Chandler man seven or eight times, then made good his escape, and is now on duty at his office. The Chandler man is said to be still awaiting the arrival of the doctor.—Dillon (Montana) Tribune.

The farmers of Platte Valley have become very much interested in the sugar beet culture, and have a proposition from the officers of the beet sugar factory of Grand Island, Neb., to locate a plant at Brighton, inviting the farmers will induce themselves to raise the required number of acres of beets. A large meeting was held Saturday adopting in the town hall, and enthusiastic speeches made and strong resolutions appointed a committee of 10 urge every farmer to pledge himself for as many acres as possible. Nearly enough are already been pledged.

Says the Winnemucca (Nevada) Silver State: Day before yesterday an old Canemah was brought up from Jack Creek where he was found lying near his track, having evidently fallen or been thrown from the train. The Oldtimer died yesterday from pneumonia, caused by exposure. He left the placer diggings near Unionville a few days ago with over $600 in gold dust. When picked up the gold was not on his person, and it is supposed he had either been robbed or passed the treasure. The matter should be fully investigated, as it is not impossible that a crime has been committed.

Mr. Harry I. Jones, a mining expert and mineralogist from Colorado, has been looking over the mining field here during the week, and while inspecting some abandoned workings on the southeast slope of Leonard mountain, two miles east of town, he discovered a vein of argentiferous galena, the gray streak of which is over six inches wide. This mineral, besides possessing a real commercial value, is also valuable because of its cleaving parity, being found only in small quantities in both this county and Lander. Mr. Jones is visiting Fallon in the interests of Mt. Tom and Colorado capitalists.—Fallon (Nev.) Herald.

Little Antone Wunde, the 11-year-old murderer of Joseph Smith, spent the day yesterday apparently happy, under Matron Havens' care at the county jail. His first appearance produced the impression that he had been brought up like a little animal. His parents at least share the moral responsibility of his crime. The only other case in the history of Colorado in which a boy of tender years has used a weapon with such deadly effect is when Adolph Gulp, a boy of 12, shot and killed E. S. Bartle, a deaf mute, for beating his mother. This occurred on June 21, 1890, at 610 Holladay street. Public sentiment acquitted the boy.—Denver News.

A few days ago, says the Reno (Nevada) Gazette, the flooring of the storage room in the Riverside flouring mill gave way and precipitated between 18,000 and 20,000 bushels of wheat to the ground. It appears that the timber support was not sufficient for the weight upon the flooring, hence the accident. The pile of grain so suddenly dumped is as large as a small haystack, and a considerable portion rolled into the ditch thirty yards from the building, and was carried away. The scene at the mill on this day was one of unusual bustle and activity. Sixty men were employed shoveling the grain into sacks and carrying them into the mill. Excepting the flooring the building is not injured. The loss in grain, drainage to the building, etc., is estimated at from $4,000 to $5,000.

An unusual amount of interest has been created in Western Colorado during the past two months over the mining outlook in this vicinity, says the Denver News. Many new discoveries have been made which are of such a character in richness that many prospectors and speculators have come in from other camps. The output is greater than ever, and here, as well as in the Pitkin district, shipments will be continued all winter. At the latter camp the outlook is even better than here. The Jim Blaine has just uncovered on the second contact an immense body of ore which runs 47 ounces in silver and 50 per cent in lead. The Cheapahn and Little Tycoon have bodies of ore which promise with further developments to show ore worth hundreds of dollars. The Hidden, in the same locality, is making extensive developments and has thousands of tons in sight, which is valued at $140 per ton, while some ore from this property runs up to over $1,000 per ton. These mines are mostly owned by Leiter of Halifax, N. S., and Hudson, who have the greatest faith in their future.

"Are you ever sorry?" Which I am tired and nervous I think I have cause to be. Indeed, with a mortgage over me, and what good of a nervous headache in this worried and uncertain sleep."
