Elder Stevenson's Health.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Saturday, Oct. 17, 1896.

To the Editor:

I have numerous friends who would be pleased to know of my present condition, the cause of my affliction and results. For many years I have looked for this day for by nature I knew it must come. It is the fate of old age. My affliction is the enlargement of the prostate gland. At Walla Walla, Washington, prevent proper and natural channel when suffering began, which increased each hour until intense anxiety and pain must find relief. Two expert doctors after many experiments and much pain on my part, pronounced my case one of a severe type but finally an instrument was found to give the desired relief. After three days I was removed by train to Baker City, Oregon.

There a new physician, Dr. Shaw, nearly exhausted his skill. On the 23rd Doctor Wilson arrived, and by the blessings of faith, and administrations of President J. F. Smith and Elder Heber J. Grant, with promises I arrived safely home on the 24th of September. On the second night of Conference I received a manifestation at midnight. With a very interesting course of instruments. Now, without aid of instruments natural relief is found. My case is now very favorable, for which I give praise to the Lord.

EDWARD STEVENSON.

FROM SON TO FATHER.

A Young Elder Writes a Letter Upon Arriving in the Missionary Field.

Below is a letter from a son to his father written by a young man who left his home in this city, about two weeks ago on a mission to the Southern States.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 12, 1896.—Dear Father—We arrived here this morning from St. Louis. We met sixteen of the boys at Kansas City and all traveled together from there; we are all at the Southern Soldiers' Home of us. We met the presiding brethren of the mission this morning and they have been with us all day speaking words of encouragement to us; we are all well and happy; we all went down to the banks of the Tennessee river this afternoon where Bro. Gilpinsen baptized a man named John Alvin Dodd, who was a Methodist and he was confirmed by Brother Musser; we will all leave for our fields of labor tomorrow.

Chattanooga is quite a pretty place of about 30,000 people, half of them negroes who seem to almost run the town. We can stand at our home door and see the famous mountain where the battle of Missionary Ridge was fought. The latter cost us go the street car twice run and the longer they are to stay in.

Do not write to me until I write again and give you my address. We have had to buy a new things today and it took about $10 to get them. I gave my brass book to a lady today as she asked for it so I will have to get another before going into the field. I also had to get a Bible which cost $3, a Testament and some cards with my name and address on them. I will send you one of them in the next letter. It is now a quarter after 8, the time here is one hour later than in Salt Lake. Since I write last we have passed through Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee. We have crossed rivers some of which are the Pine of Utah, Grand at Colorado, Eagle of Colorado, Cottonwood and Kansas of Kansas, the Missouri, Mississippi, Ohio, Cumberland and Tennessee. We passed through about ten tunnels. One was three miles long and another about two. It either rained or snowed all the time we were coming here but it is much brighter today. Chattanooga is only 680 feet above the sea level. Don't write until you hear from me again.

I remain your loving son,
GEORGE F. TAYLOR.

Funeral Services.

A PLEASING SESSION.

Professor Done Lectures to the students of the L. D. S. College.

The Students' Society of the Latter-day Saints' College held a pleasing session last evening. The first number on the program was a violin solo, which was ably rendered by Mr. Scheller. Mr. Chester Allen then entertained the members of the society by rendering a piano selection.

The main feature of the program was an address by Professor Willard Done. The title of the subject being "Life's Balance." The speaker very ably pointed out that life was not an end but a means for an end. He clearly showed how men are miserable by living for life alone and not knowing that all things we do are but means for an end. It was plainly shown how religion was in advance of others, giving the statements from the Ten Commandments and other religious laws. The speaker concluded by showing how infidelity leads to sin, and sin to death, while religion leads to righteousness and righteousness to life. He proved this by comparing the character of Washington with that of Napoleon.

The society then adjourned, benediction being pronounced by Brother Ashton.

The Students' Society of the Latter-day Saints' College holds its regular meetings every Friday evening at 7:30 in the Seventeenth Ward assembly rooms, between West Temple and First West streets on First North. The best lectures and special talent throughout the State are provided. All are invited.
