LOCAL BRIEFS.

S. R. Taylor died at the county infirmary yesterday afternoon. He was a pioneer shot maker of this city, and was well known here. He leaves a sister in Vermont.

Bishop W. B. Preston went out to Wasatch today to look over the resort and inspect the buildings and water-works prior to the summer's opening which will likely take place early in June.

The City Council committee on streets will meet on Monday afternoon at the city hall to consider the petition of the Elks lodge for the privilege of conducting a street fair during the third week in September.

Some mischievous persons have been stealing flowers and plants from the grounds of the city and county building and tearing up the trim privet hedges. The committee on control will lose no time in appointing another night watchman.

A very delightful entertainment was given at St. Mark's church last night. It was a children's matinee, or kindergarten festival. It was in the able hands of Miss Mary of the University of Utah, who has been conducting a street fair during the third week in September.

In several of the wards this evening meetings in the interest of peace will be held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and the Female Relief Society. Interesting programs have been prepared, and a cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested in the cause of universal peace.

A very attractive program has been arranged by the young ladies of the Fifteenth ward for a concert to be given under their direction Friday, May 24, 1901, at 8 o'clock in the Young Men's hall, corner Third West and First South streets. The proceeds will help augment the fund for the erection of the Woman's building.

Samuel Hocking of Tintic died in this city yesterday afternoon of miner's consumption. He was 49 years of age, and has been a familiar figure in Utah mining camps for twenty years. He has a wife and children in Cornwall, England. The funeral will be held from Evan's undertaking parlors Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

At the meeting of the school principals yesterday afternoon it was decided to tender a farewell reception to Superintendent Cooper, before he departs for Seattle to become school superintendent there. The reception will be held on June 8, or else the following Monday, which will be on the 16th. The place where it will be held will be either at Saltair or the First Congregational church. That is to be decided by the teachers.

The weekly report of the city board of health shows 5 new cases of small-pox against 7 last week, and only 17 cases under quarantine against 32. There were 4 cases of scarlet fever against 1 with 19 quarantined to 17, one case of diphtheria and two of measles. Twelve births were recorded and 17 deaths, with three bodies shipped away and five brought here for interment. One new case of smallpox, James Walker, aged 23, at 1000 North and Eighth West streets, was reported today.

An avalanche of complaints has been pouring on the council sprinkling committee. The committee and supervisor Condie put their heads together last night to consider ways and means of meeting the demand for increased sprinkling, which all present allowed was legitimate. It seems there are not enough sprinklers to go around, and it was decided to hire some extra sprinkling carts or extra teams to run the city's sprinklers after regular hours. Acting Engineer L. G. Kelsey was required to supply the committee with a blue print to check up the streets now being sprinkled.

The funeral of John B. Rogers will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. from the Odd Fellows hall instead of the New Grand theater. The pall-bearers will be Ratterman, W. Lehman, H. Wells, E. Johnson, W. Elder, J. O. Nyström, A. E. Nicholson, Frank Coulter, Louis Kahn, Music will be furnished by Haerbach's band. The Elks will conduct the services in the hall and then they will be under the auspices of the butchers.

All soldiers are requested to appear in khaki, with leggings and fatigue hats. Elmer G. Thomas, trumpeter of battery A, in which Rogers was a corporal, will sound taps over the grave at Mt. Olivet.

Deputy Sheriff Busby early yesterday morning recovered a bicycle which was stolen on Wednesday from H. Ziegler, 312 South State street. The culprit was Oliver Shosted, a 14-year-old boy from American Fork, who is visiting his aunt at 862 South Seventh West street. The young thief was riding the wheel on State street at an early hour when Deputy Busby, who is something of a judge of wheels, halted the boy. The wheel was described as the only coaster brake Eagle wheel in town and this may have assisted the sheriff in his find. The boy did not seem to realize the extent of his wrong doing till he was taken up to the county attorney's office. After County Attorney Christensen gave him a good, sound moral lecture he seemed to be somewhat more alive to his degeneracy.

Rabbi Reynolds entertained a large audience at the Synagogue last evening in the third of his series of lectures on "Literature of the Prophets." In the course of his lecture he said that he regretted that so many of the younger Jewish people had accepted Shakespeare's Shylock as a type of the Jewish race and considered him for demanding a pound of flesh. He said that if the children were properly taught they would know that no such character as Shylock ever existed; that neither Shylock nor Jessica is a Jewish name, and the speaker thought that the Jewish people should not feel so grieved over the imaginary pound of flesh that Shylock wanted to take.

AS TO THE FERRY ESTATE.

Attorney Richards Declines to Discuss It at This Time.

Messrs. W. Mont Perry, Edward S. Perry and Joseph T. Richards returned from Chicago yesterday afternoon. When asked in regard to the correctness of the conflicting newspaper reports concerning the settlement of the insolvent and somewhat sensational suit brought by W. Mont Perry and Edward S. Perry, as guardians, against David D. Erwin, for an accounting of certain trust property, which is stated that the defendant Erwin has received and is to account for, all though demands have been made upon him so to do, Mr. Richards stated that he had nothing whatever to say in regard to the matter; that the business referred to and any affairs on which he may have been engaged during his brief trip were purely of a professional and private nature, and, as such, he considered it improper and entirely unnecessary to discuss them with the public.

SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT

University Fourth Year Normals Give a Kirrmess.

In the laboratory of the physical building at the University of Utah last night the fourth-year normal graduates gave a very enjoyable entertainment in the shape of a kirrmess. In the tastefully-decorated halls and rooms an informal program was given and considerable time was spent in dancing. There were also booths for candy, ice-cream, momentos and a telegraph office. Refreshments were also served from a decorated room, where an amusing fortune teller held forth. Young ladies of grace and beauty presided at the booths and daintily served refreshments to the guests, among whom were members of the faculty and many of the instructors. The evening passed all too fast to suit those enjoying the fun and the affair ended as a splendid success.

JASON TINGEY'S TRAGIC DEATH.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Carried to His Death by an Excited Horse, Which Dashed in Front of a Locomotive.

(Special to the "News.")

Centerville, May 18.—The people of this town have been cast into a heavy gloom by the tragic death of Jason Tingey, the 9-year-old son of Thomas and Thirza Tingey, which occurred here at about 5 o'clock this morning. Jason and three companions had driven some cows to the pasture on the west side of the railroad track, and were returning home, all of them being on horseback. It is believed that they were running races, when within about 200 yards of the track the boys discovered that a train was coming. The three older boys checked their horses but the animal that Jason rode was excited over the run that it had been put through and kept on at full speed towards the track. The boys yelled and screamed, and Jason tugged at the bit, but the animal was wild with excitement and kept right on, carrying the boy to his frightful death. Fate seemed to have been drawing the boy and the train together, and they met disastrously on the crossing in the lane. Jason has hurried forward about five rods, and when found the back of his head had been torn open, and one of his legs was mangled. He must have been killed instantly. The horse was caught on the spot of the engine and carried about 500 yards. It was also killed.

The boys that were with Jason were transfixed with horror, and were unable to tell a very connected story of the boy's awful fate. The entire town is in mourning, and the mother is distracted. Jason was her only child, and her grief is such as is only felt by mothers similarly bereaved.

The funeral will be held probably on Monday from the meeting house.

NIGHTWATCHMAN DIES WHILE ON DUTY.

George Sheppard, an Employee of the Dinwoodey Furniture Company, Succumbs to Heart Disease—Found Dead in the Store This Morning.

Nightwatchman George Sheppard, aged 73 years, of the Dinwoodey furniture store, was found dead at his post about 7:20 this morning. He had been employed at Dinwoodey's for over thirty years, and resided at 87 Plum street, in the Nineteenth ward.

His lifeless body was first discovered by Rupelph Pruhs, an upholsterer. When Mr. Pruhs went to the store this morning he was surprised to find the front and rear doors locked. He hammered on the rear door for about ten minutes thinking that perhaps the old watchman was attending to some duty in another part of the building. Finally he became alarmed, and climbing up the fire escape gained entrance to the building on the second floor. He called for the watchman several times but received no answer then went down to the first floor.

As he approached the office he was horrified to find the watchman lying with his face on the floor and his feet and legs on the edge of the chair in which he had been sitting. His head was caught in the desk which prevented him from falling at full length. On the desk was the old man's handkerchief, a tin box half full of composition powder and a tin cup containing water. The electric light was burning and the ledger had been placed upright to shade the glare of the light.

At the first glance Mr. Pruhs saw that the faithful old man was dead and he at once gave the alarm to the other workmen who by that time had arrived and were knocking for admittance.

The watchman's key was found in the rear door. A telephone message was at once sent to the police station and Officers Andrew Smith and Johnston hastened to the scene. When Manager H. M. Dinwoodey arrived he dispatched messenger to Sheppard's home to inform the family of the sad affair.

Acting Coroner Morris Sommer was sent for and arrived about 8:30. After a brief investigation he decided that an inquest was unnecessary, and gave orders to have the dead man removed to his home. The body had not been changed from the cramped position in which it had fallen until Justice Sommer viewed it. The dead man's arms and hands were cramped under the chest, and a small knife had fallen from a pocket into the left hand. Above the left eye was a bruise caused by coming in contact with the floor.

From all the circumstances in the case it is quite evident that Mr. Sheppard was sick during the night and fell from the chair dead sometime after 5:20 this morning. The watchman is supposed to make his rounds of the entire building every hour and register at the main office by pushing an electric button on each floor. The annunciator showed that Sheppard had registered but twice up to 5:10 this morning. The last was made from the basement, where it is supposed to be for some reason. It is evident that he did not take the medicine, from the fact that the box had not been opened. It is the theory that he took a mouthful of water when seized by pain and fell to the floor, the water running out of his mouth. His lantern was on the desk, but was burned out when Pruhs discovered the body. It is believed that his death was caused by heart disease, from which he suffered for a long time. His death was a great shock to his wife and family and the employees at the store.

It is said that during all the years he had been employed at Dinwoodey's, he has missed hardly a night, and was one of the most faithful and trusted employees of the institution.

Funeral services will be held at his late home, 87 Plum street, on Monday, at 3 p. m.

OGDEN HONEYMOON BROUGHT TROUBLE.

Police in Omaha and Denver interfered with a very interesting honeymoon and caused a great deal of annoyance to a youthful married couple on what should have been the happiest journey of their lives.

Harry Quinn and his wife Clara Quinn, aged respectively 19 and 16 years, were married in Chicago a week ago yesterday. Already they have had time to taste the trials and tribulations of matrimony. They have been mixed up with the police in two cities and the police believe says she "will hate the horrible policemen as long as she lives."

After their marriage the couple decided to visit Mr. Quinn's sister, Mrs. J. A. Leonard, who resides in Ogden, Utah. They started on their journey with happy hearts, with no thought of the trouble that was in store for them. Their parents were with them at the Chicago station so they had no trouble there, but it began shortly after they got on the train. The couple look even younger than their years, and the Pullman conductor thought it very strange that two "kids" should be traveling together so intimately. He called the train conductor and together they questioned Mr. and Mrs. Quinn. They explained that they were married, and after much talk succeeded in convincing the trainmen that they were telling the truth.

When Omaha was reached, however, they went out on the depot platform and met a burly knight of the brass buttons, who was not so easily convinced. He held the couple in the depot's quarters while he telegraphed back to Chicago. He received a favorable answer and the couple were released with the "coppers' best wishes. The Quinns did not think to secure the telegram to avoid further trouble, so when they reached Denver on this morning's Rock Island train they encountered Depot Policeman Clark.

Clark said that they looked so young that he could not believe they were married. He telegraphed the Leonards in Ogden and the happy couple were again released with a note from Clark that they were from further embarrassment.

Mr. Quinn's father is L. A. Quinn, a printer and bookbinder. Mrs. Quinn's father is John Grove, an employee of her father-in-law. Both the young people are good looking, but very youthful.
