ON THEIR RESERVATION.

As stated in Agent Day's report to Washington, the Indians from Colorado are again on the Southern Ute reservation. The agent reaffirms his statements regarding the whole proceeding, which were to the effect that few Indians were away from the reservation and no demons had been committed. He also adds that the "expense of returning Governor West's mammoth invasion has been $31,70." Tires he telegraphs for a thousand dollars to supply Indians "in a deplorable condition and 110 miles from the agency." He seeks to make a play upon the alleged fact that only thirteen lodges of Utes were off the reservation, whereas the complaint of the San Juan settlers was against Utes, Wemminuches and all others unlawfully in Utah. Then the agent says he hunted only eleven Utes, but in his report he names eleven chiefs who were at the Montezuma conference, to say nothing of their following.

These statements and numerous other inaccuracies and contradictions in the agent's reports go to indicate that the Salt Lake papers may have done Mr. Day an injustice unwittingly. They looked on him as a person possessing an ordinary amount of brains and as fairly shrewd, but somewhat overburdened by a stock of conceit and impertinence. Recent developments, however, lead to the conclusion that he has not a modicum of common sense. Taking his proceedings from the opening to the closing of this business, they carry a conviction of the mental incompetency of the agent, for which he is to be pitied rather than berated. But just the same, the Southern Ute reservation needs a new agent, for it is even more dangerous to hold white men and Indians to have the office filled by a crank than by a knave.

Were the dispatch referred to the only authority for believing that the Indians have returned to their reserve, there might be some doubt as to the fact. News of a similar nature, however, comes from San Juan county, and is also confirmed by Colonel Lawton, in the following, which appears in the Denver News of December 25th:

A telegram was received yesterday at army headquarters from Colonel Lawton, inspector general of the department of the Colorado, in which the colonel states that Ignacio and his band of Utes have broken the dust of Utah from their garments and are again within the friendly shelter of Colorado. The Utes were divided into two parties for the journey. Colonel Lawton states that he had been six days and three nights in the saddle, under trying conditions. He is expected to reach Denver from Durango on Friday or Saturday of this week.

ANTI-TOXIN.

Considerable interest is taken everywhere in the newly discovered remedy against diphtheria. Experiments have now been made in different parts of the United States as well as in some of the principal cities abroad, and reports continue all the almost miraculous cures effected.

Thus, a dispatch from Milwaukee says that anti-toxin has saved a number of lives in that city during the last ten days. One case mentioned is particularly striking. A child, aged 4 years, whose parents reside on Fond du Lac avenue, was stricken with diphtheria in bed from about two weeks ago. The family physician treated the patient for four days without being able to stay the progress of the insidious disease. On the fifth day the father of the child requested the doctor to try the anti-toxin, and accordingly Dr. A. J. Scott, who was the first physician to recommend use the new remedy in Milwaukee, was called in for consultation. Dr. Scott injected the usual amount of the anti-toxin into Saturday. At that time the child was unconscious, its pulse was 150, and its temperature 105.5, and the urine contained a large percentage of albumen. The case was so bad that four tracheotomy were necessary. The anti-toxin attacked the disease from the first injection, and took the child was playing around the house and crying for permission to go out.

The discovery of this remedy is the result of scientific experiments in Germany and France, and Dr. Roux, of the Pasteur institute in Paris, is said to be the first one to put it into practical use. As soon as it had been established that the deadly effect of diphtheria is due to a poison secreted by the microbes and entering the blood of the patient, the doctors commenced to search for a substance to counteract the power of the bacilli to kill the little animals that emit it. The investigation resulted in the discovery of the remedy now known as anti-toxin.

It is a long and tedious process to obtain it. A collection of microbes from a very bad case of diphtheria is first secured. These are carefully placed on some solidified serum, where they grow very rapidly. After a few hours they are transferred to a liquid for further nourishment. In this broth of veal and peptone, there is, in a month or six weeks, enough poison secreted to kill a guinea pig. If twenty-five of a gramme is injected into its veins. The liquid is now filtered and the colorless substance, no longer containing any microbes but charged with diphtheria poison, is injected into the vein of a horse. On the first day about one gramme is given. The operation is repeated daily and the dose increased until an ounce is reached. The animal at first shows symptoms of fever, but after a while these pass away.

After six weeks, blood is drawn from the horse, and the serum separated. This is now anti-toxin. By continuing the treatment of the horse for longer periods, the strength of the remedy is said to increase, and the animal can be used for years, its general health apparently not being impaired.

The injection of the anti-toxin is made under the skin above the thigh and the quantity must vary according to the virulence of the case. Twenty grammes is the usual amount. The remedy works as a tonic as well as antidote. Patients under treatment get ruddy faces and present an altogether striking appearance to those who have not the benefit of the new discovery.

If anti-toxin really does all that medical authorities claim for it—and there seems to be very little room for doubt—it may safely be called the most important medical discovery of later years. It it can snatch from the embrace of death the little children who are generally the victims of the dread disease, it marks a victory of science over one of the most bitter enemies of mankind. Discoverer of this nature are generally far-reaching. By indicating the true road, they lead to new discoveries, which again may open the doors to others still more startling. And thus science goes on step by step toward infinite perfection.

BETTER THAN 1893.

As an illustration of the improvement of business in 1894 over the preceding year, the record of the Chicago stock yards furnishes some encouraging figures. The Inter Ocean has statistics for all except the last ten days of this year, with which to make a comparison with 1893. In considering these it should be remembered that the "terminal charges" turned many southern shipments from Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis and other points, and the great strike also exercised a vast influence in reducing the volume of business.

Notwithstanding these drawbacks, however, with the exception of the receipts of cattle and calves, the Chicago record up to Dec. 23 exceeds that of 1893 in receipts, while the shipments of 1894 of cattle, hogs, and horses is beyond that of 1893. The cars received and sent out in 1894 are far in excess of the number used in 1893. The receipts are as follows for 1894: Cattle, 2,950,317; calves, 101,574; hogs, 7,352,103; sheep, 3,046,599; horses, 93,973; cars, 282,498. Shipments, 1894—Cattle, 935,009; calves, 11,490; hogs, 5,010,111; sheep, 321,033; horses, 88,835; cars, 83,122. The receipts for 1893 were: Cattle, 3,125,403; calves, 110,557; hogs, 6,097,272; sheep, 3,051,174; horses, 82,402; cars, 279,012. The shipments for 1893 were: Cattle, 903,183; calves, 15,832; hogs, 3,749,610; sheep, 442,865; horses, 76,011; cars, 79,283.

The valuation of the stock for 1894 is figured at $252,690,005, as against $248,542,573 for 1893. The total valuation for twenty-eight years, up to 1893, is $9,860,795,102. For twenty-eight years, and up to December 22 of 1894, the receipts of stock of all kinds were as follows: Cattle, 46,882,608; calves, 1,504,307; hogs, 144,703,082; sheep, 192,887,088; sheep, 29,801,103; horses, 973,080; total, 292,851,903. Shipments: Cattle, 21,008,441; calves, 880,040; hogs, 87,246,332; sheep, 6,459,189; horses, 700,749; total, 76,253,825; grand total, 368,605,728.

LENIENCY TO THIEVES.

The chronicling of instances where bank cashiers, clerks, etc., have robbed their employers of large sums of money is becoming such a frequent occurrence that but little attention is given by the public to this class of crimes. In this way a severely adverse sentiment is being reduced to a minimum, and in very few cases do the offenders receive ample legal punishment. From present indications this tendency is likely to prevail for some time at least, since the means which produce it be intimately associated with the disregard of moral laws that is overshadowing generally prevalent throughout the nation. In the case relative official fraud is on the increase, and rarely meets with exposure and deserved censure.

Among the most cases of official corruption are those recently unearthed at Sioux City, Dakota. It is not because of the large amount of peculations involved, but for the incomprehensible nature of those, that public indignation has been aroused. It was known for some time that there was a leaking in Wolff's Fairgrounds just arrived, at 211 State St.

TAMMANY,

Hall and the Tuscaroras Defeated in Their own Strongholds.

Grover has Gone to His Onward Road

Wilson and Breckenridge are Gone to England.

(And so are the Queen.)

In the presidential election of two years ago and this one just passed, should teach the men who are chosen to represent the people in their national affairs, that the people are keeping tabs on them very closely, and will stand no more monkeying.

In times of general prosperity, people become very lax in keeping themselves posted on what their public representatives are doing; but when it becomes hard for them to make both financial ends meet a pretty thorough investigation is sure to follow, and the unfaithful servants are pretty effectually weeded out, and the process continues until an honest administration is obtained and general prosperity again assumed.

We are now of the opinion that the radical changes in the congress will preclude any further radical tariff legislation, which has will alone restore confidence in the manufacturing, commercial and financial circles and a in great measure restore prosperity and value to the hard earned dollar.

Almost all commodities will advance in price. Wages will advance, work will be more plentiful and the advanced prices will not be so much noticed.

We shall, however, continue for a time at least our hard times prices and continue to make clothing at twenty five per cent lower than most of our competitors but how long we shall be able to give the splendid suits we are now offering for the price is a question not answerable at the present time. But anyone who will call and examine the quality of our $15.75, $16.50 and $18.00 suits, will be convinced that such bargains can't continue long. Our Overcoats at $16.00 are beauties, though we have some even lower priced.

Yours truly,
