SWEDEN.

A railroad will be built between Vandtro and Engelsberg.

Up to the first of October, 35,[illegible] people had emigrated to America from Sweden during the present year.

While temporarily insane, Mrs. H. M. Olsson, of Lommer near Linköping, drowned her two little children in a well.

J. Wadin, a farmer of [illegible], the parish of Hietra, died the other day. Only a few hours after his death his wife expired also.

P. Jansson, of [illegible], and his daughter-in-law were drowned near Fellingsbro. J. was [illegible] years old and leaves eleven children.

The American [illegible] system has been introduced at the post office Sundsvall, and will probably soon be adopted by all the post offices in Sweden.

Carl Hellgren, a farmer of [illegible] in Alfingby, [illegible] while digging the other day nearly [illegible] coins, some of which were between [illegible] and 400 years old.

The [illegible] of Jenny Lind, the famous Swedish songstress, which is being placed in "the poets' corner" in Westminster Abbey in London will soon be unveiled.

The wholesale merchant Noodling of Sundsvall, has sold his large forests in Medelpad, Jemtland and Herjeadalen to the Tunadal Stock company. The price paid was [illegible].

Swedish files are generally more carefully made than the foreign article and are consequently paid for by a somewhat higher price. They are usually cut by hand. In Sweden there are at present [illegible] file factories.

The smallest printing press in the world is probably one in Lund, which was recently constructed and manufactured by a compositor named J. [illegible]. The press is not larger than it will find room in a person's vest pocket.

It is said here that King Oscar has decided to appoint John R. Lindgren, the Swedish banker of Chicago, Swedish-Norwegian consul in that city. The public announcement of the appointment will probably be made some of the first days of next year.

A patent is granted in Sweden for a period of fifteen years. On giving in the application for a patent, a sum of [illegible] crowns ($13.40) is paid, which sum, however, during from 1894, will be reduced to 20 crowns ($5.36). The number of patents granted during 1892 was [illegible], and during 1891, [illegible]. All authority concerning patents in Sweden is held by the Royal Patent Office, consisting of a head chief engineer, besides other officials and assistant engineers. It devolves on the patent office to register trade marks.

NORWAY.

A board of trade will soon be organized in the city of Christiansund.

Franz Rummel is the name of a Norwegian pianist who is rapidly coming to the front.

Bjornson's "Maria Stuart" is being played at the Christiania theater to crowded houses.

Norwegian marble from the Anker grinding factory is said to very favorably compete with foreign marble.

The defense societies of Norway have now collected 600,000 crowns which will be used for the building of a torpedo cruiser.

Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People" was performed at a Paris theater the other night, and scored a succes pyramidal.

Ex-Minister Aimar Sorensen, one of the former members of the Sverdrup cabinet, has separated from Steen and the Radicals.

Jacob Dybwad, the publisher, has donated several hundred books to the Norwegian Seamen's Homes in Newcastle, Cardiff and Antwerp.

The proposed commercial treaty between Norway and Switzerland will probably not go through, the Norwegian government having refused to give protection to Swiss drummers.

DENMARK.

Mrs. M. C. Mortensen, of Silkeborg, died at the age of 96 years.

Small-pox is reported to rage epidemically in northern Jylland.

The Duchess of Chartres and her daughter are visiting in Copenhagen.

The Crown Prince and Crown Princess are paying a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland, in Gmunden.

Their golden wedding was celebrated by Niels Nielsen and his wife, of Nygaard. The old couple is in the best of health.

A direct steamship line between Copenhagen-Bahia, Rio de Janeiro, Santos and Pernambuco will be opened next March.

The householders' store's movement will perhaps be continued on a somewhat different plan. A number of [illegible] farmers have [illegible] to discuss the practicability of organizing a co-operative union for the sale of farm products in Copenhagen.

The opening of the new free harbor at Copenhagen took place the other day, and was accompanied by imposing ceremonies. [illegible]

A number of [illegible] who have made a contract with the French government to furnish [illegible] quantities of provisions for a period of two years, recently bought [illegible] sheep in Denmark, and if the [illegible] the same parties may [illegible] sheep from Denmark every month.

Waves on the Great Salt Lake.

A strong gale of wind was blowing over the lake [illegible] [illegible] of equal extent, that wind would [illegible] have produced such an agitation of its surface that navigation by small boats would have been difficult if not highly perilous.

But the waters of the Great Salt lake, although driven into ridges as just remarked, showed a curious resistance to the wind, and the waves, rising heavily a slight elevation, moved along with an appearance of lethargy that the eye could not but notice. [illegible]

An Onion Sociable.

The fashionable circles of Fort Scott, Kas., have devised a decided novelty in the line of entertainments. They are called "onion sociables," and this is how they are conducted: Six young ladies stand in a row, and one bites a chunk out of an onion; then the onion is turned over to the young man for inspection. The one who guesses which one of the young ladies bit the onion kisses the other five ladies. If he fails to guess, he is allowed only to kiss the girl who bit the onion.

A Great Invention.

"I have here," began the energetic man as he bundled into the young lawyer's office, "the greatest invention of the age."

It was seen that the lawyer wouldn't, not inventions, and he said something rather rude, but the energetic man proved to be a philosopher and merely smiled.

"I call it," pursued the visitor, "the eternal kiss, because there is simply no end to the kisses it features. It is this." He handed out a spray of mistletoe covered with white berries. This interested the young lawyer, who raised his eyebrows inquiringly.

"Mistletoe," proclaimed the agent, "is very scarce this year, and a bunch containing a score of leaves would bankrupt a poor man. Now, this great invention brings happiness within reach of all. Tradition permits you a kiss for each and every berry, you know. You hold this spray above your beloved's head—so. You bend—so—and kiss her. Then you grab a berry—so—and pull it—presto, it flies back again in place. The leaves and berries are india rubber, sir, and—two did you say? Fifty cents. Thank you, sir. Good day."—Harper's Magazine.

[illegible] Burials.

Formerly it was a general custom to [illegible] at the junction of four [illegible] [illegible] with the notion of indignity, but in a spirit of charity that, being excluded from holy rites, they by being buried at crossroads might be in places next in sanctity to ground actually consecrated.

Rebuked.

A Texas clergyman who ran as the Democratic congressional candidate in that state two years ago was once interrupted in the midst of a public prayer by a man who shouted, "Louder!" He stopped short, looked at the interrupter and said coolly: "I wasn't addressing you, sir. I was addressing the Almighty." Then he went on with his prayer.—Texas Siftings.

Poisonous and Harmless Snakes.

There is a certain physiological difference between the poisonous and harmless snakes, which varies very plainly in their manner of [illegible]. All snakes are [illegible] and dread to mankind, so much so that to be bitten by a snake has at times been so fearful to the victim as to have produced death, although the snake was harmless. Such is the instinctive dread with which these reptiles are thought of that it may be desirable to have some easy mode of distinguishing the one kind from the other. [illegible]—New York Times.

WESTERN SOAP FOR WESTERN PEOPLE.

The East will gobble, gobble, gobble, all the money West; now why use Eastern Soap when Beehive is the best?

We sent our wash to Sister Lou, which took three one pound bars of Eastern Soap to do, but Beehive only two.

REASONS

WHY WE SHOULD FOSTER AND HELP BUILD UP HOME INDUSTRIES. . . .

Say the merchant pays $3.50 for a box of imported soap. When this is paid for he sends $3.50 out of the Territory, and we are, consequently, $3.50 poorer. One box of BEE HIVE SOAP costs $3.50. The Grant Soap Co. pays city taxes, pays local firms for material to manufacture this soap, the box factory for boxes, paper mills for paper, the printers for printing soap wrappers, men to manufacture the soap, girls and boys to wrap and box same, home papers for advertising, local coal firms for coal, and the above firms in turn pay their help, and their help pays the merchant for his goods. The merchant has made his profit on the goods sold, and still has the $3.50 in his cash drawer. Now, can you impose on your conscience to use imported soap when such a superior article as the BEE HIVE is manufactured at home, and leaves the money paid for it in the Territory? The BEE HIVE is manufactured only by the GRANT SOAP COMPANY.
