RESULT AT CARLOW.

It is a Disastrous Defeat For the Parnellites.

DUBLIN, July 8.—The result of the election yesterday at Carlow for a successor in parliament to the late O'Gorman Mahons, resulted in a crushing defeat for the Parnellite candidate in the district which Parnell admitted was his stronghold, and where, he said, if he was defeated he would admit there was nothing in political life for him to fall back upon.

Speaking at Carlow after the result of the election was known, Parnellites he was not disheartened and that he would continue to consolidate the independent men in every Irish county and city and put heart to be upheld before the country at every election.

SEATTLE, Washington, July 8.—The attempt to bring about a voluntary settlement of the mines has proved a failure, as each party suspects the other of not acting in good faith. The consequence is very few mines are being worked. Work is proceeding at Roslyn, New Castle and Franklin, but nothing is being done at Black Diamond.

Wheat Crops in Danger.

TACOMA, Washington, July 8.—Washington's wheat crop is in danger of destruction by grasshoppers and spiders. BALTIMORE, July 8.—At the council of the Union American Hebrew Congregation yesterday, a resolution was introduced requesting that the executive committee be instructed to cooperate with the trustees of the Hirsh fund and other organization that have undertaken to aid Russian Israelites who have immigrated to this country. It was referred to the committee on civil and religious rights. It was also ordered that all matters relating on the same subject shall go to that committee. There were in all thirty of the "Servia's" passengers on board the "City of New York," and five who sailed on the "Servia" made a second start this morning on the White Star liner "Britannic." A large number of Americans who sailed on the "Servia" for a summer tour in Europe abandoned their purpose and will return home.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Arthur Shayner, of Salt Lake City, Utah, who represents E. H. Dyer & Co., pioneers in the beet sugar industry of the United States, has completed arrangements with Chicago and eastern capitalists for the establishment of several new beet sugar factories in the west.

"It has been demonstrated," said Mr. Shayner, "that factories in Alvarado, California, and at Grand Island, Nebraska, that sugar can be made in this country much cheaper than it can abroad, and with the great impetus to the business which the two per cent bounty gives, the industry can be made to become one of the most leading ones of the country. At the factory in Utah, one-half the amount of sugar consumed in the Territory will be produced. This fall at Manhattan, Iowa, another large factory will be started and simultaneously six more similar institutions will be put in operation in Nebraska, Kansas and Western Iowa."

FROM ARIZONA.

A Visit to St. John, Snowflake, Taylor, Concho, Etc.

While journeying from Winslow to Snowflake on the 20th, I met a detachment of eighty colored troops on their way from Fort Apache to Kearn's canyon to quell the threatened revolt among the Moquis. I was informed that the trouble arose from the Moquis—who have very strict ideas in regard to chastity—objecting to their girls going to the mission school established among them, because of white men tampering with them while away from the protection which their homes afforded. To compel submission to his demand in the matter, the Indian agent was said to have fastened a lariat around the wrist of an old chief, and, wrapping the other end around the horn of his saddle, ran his horse and dragged the Indian a considerable distance, which so exasperated the tribe who were witnesses to the brutal scene that they could scarcely restrain themselves from wreaking vengeance upon the agent and his companions.

I attended a very spirited High Priests' meeting at Taylor on the 27th inst., at which arrangements were made to send men and teams from that place and Snowflake to furnish gratuitous assistance to the people of St. Joseph in finishing their dam. In the evening I spent a few hours most pleasantly in company with a large assembly of friends at the house of Brother Joseph Fish, celebrating the fifty-first anniversary of that gentleman's birth.

On the 28th, in company with Stake Counselor L. H. Hatch, I drove to Showlow, a distance of eighteen miles and attended a ward conference, holding three meetings with the people of that ward who assembled in such surprising numbers, and with such a large proportion of young children, that I first marveled and then inquired. In view of the fact that there were only a very few homes in sight, whether the little folks grew upon the trees of the extensive pine forest in which the ward is located. Whether this proceeded or not there was no denying that a finer looking and healthier lot of children could scarcely be found anywhere.

That forest region is one of the most interesting I ever visited. It is a series of hills and hollows, some quite rocky and others covered with a sandy soil which is susceptible of being profitably "dry farmed," and all covered by a rather sparse growth of long-leafed pine, much of the timber being good sized sawlogs. The horses were generally found widely scattered, in the hollows, where water could be obtained during a good part of the year by digging wells. The crops principally cultivated are corn and rye, the corn yielding best when planted late enough to just escape from the ground before the rainy season commences, which is generally about the middle of July. That this region was at some time in the far distant past extensively populated is shown by the numerous ruins of houses which are found on the hills in all directions, and that it will yet be found susceptible of sustaining many thousands of inhabitants and be the most desirable place that I have yet visited in Arizona for homes is my firm opinion.

I have found the Saints in Snowflake, Taylor, Concho and St. Johns [illegible] with the prospect of a good harvest and a cheerful feeling generally [illegible]

[illegible] Trevan Chapman, a [illegible] City, died [illegible] which [illegible] fall which he received [illegible] the 7th [illegible] early morning. He was 28 years of age. The Fourth at Sandy.

Editor Deseret News.

When the people of Sandy undertake to do a thing, they always make a success of it, and the celebration of the glorious Fourth at this thriving, soon to be a city, was no exception. Long before dawn on the morning of the Fourth the report of anvils, bombs and crackers gave notice to the people that the reporting had already commenced. From early morn until ten o'clock, people were coming from the neighboring towns, and together with the residents of Sandy, they formed a gathering such as Sandy has never before seen. As the hour of ten approached, those who were to take part in the parade began to appear, and were soon formed in line by the marshal of the day and aids. Promptly at the time appointed the long procession began to move, headed by the marshal and followed by the brass band, floral carriages and gentlemen on horseback, dressed in character and the star of state with the stars and stripes of our country, the Goddess of Liberty surrounded by young ladies representing the States and Territories. Then came a large platform on which were a host of happy little boys and girls, the school children, representing "Young America" and "Our Country's Hope." Following this were carriages containing the businessmen of the town with appropriate mottoes representing progress. Then came the Sandy Glee Club and a concourse of wagons and carriages with seats set work representing the different trades and industries, which came a train of donkeys ridden by clowns and other laughable characters, followed by an old covered wagon drawn by oxen, representing pioneers crossing the plains and a couple of old gentlemen with handcarts as they crossed the plains in 1847. The last of the spectacles was a hobby horse, one of the most prominent features, and some of the spectators have hardly stopped laughing yet. Another laughable feature was an old cow and horse hitched together to a wagon gear loaded with about ten darkies singing their old plantation songs, which was followed by the "band from Dakytown," and others too numerous to particularize. Last, but not least was a long file of horsemen representing the home and sinew of the country, the majority being all young farmers living in the vicinity. After the parade dismounted it was almost impossible to move on the streets, and the business men reaped a harvest. The people then repaired to the bowery, where a select programme of song, speechmaking, and amusements, with a free an interval for lunch the balance of the afternoon was spent in the usual games and recreations, including a baseball match between Sandy and Draper nines, resulting in a victory for Draper. Then there was a fine display of fireworks, winding up with a huge bonfire, after which was a grand ball.

A Brot Harte Story From Real Life.

San Francisco Report. It was a tender-hearted American who saved the unknown hero Bret Harte from burial in a pauper's grave. When he visited the undertaker's where lay the bodies of toughness and murdered he was peculiarly moved the influence of liquor.

"Say, pard," said he to Carl Schussel, "that gal died alone she wanted to, didn't she?"

"Yes, sir."

"And that feller there murdered her?"

"So it is said."

"And you're giving him a big burial?"

"His friends are."

"Yes, say the [illegible] go to go the Potter's field?"

"I am afraid."

"Where's he, [illegible] has gone.

"Well, the [illegible] gal, she wasn't and she's got to [illegible] and we've buried right. There's a, to get her something to wear, what's fit to be plunked in. I've kept to get a better coffin with, and here's 50 for a broken wheel of Heaven. Let's not have it said that only Chinese gives the [illegible] a big per send-off than this poor girl that he killed. Good-by, old card."

"What is your name, please?" This is an act of late generosity."

"Have a drink, pard, but my name's my own biz."

WHY THE DESERET NEWS SHOULD BE SUBSCRIBED FOR IN PREFERENCE TO ANY OTHER PAPER.

1. It is the Organ of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the authorized medium through which the revelations of God, the decisions of the Church Authorities are expressed, and given to the Saints.

2. It may always be relied upon as advocating or defending the right side of every question proper for public journals to treat upon.

3. It is devoted to the interests of the Latter-day Saints and has, from its inception, valiantly defended their rights and advocated the principles in which they believe, and every Latter-day Saint should contribute for under obligations as he has part in helping to sustain it.

4. It is not published for speculation, and never has been, but for the good which it is capable of accomplishing; the profits, if any, have be derived from it being devoted to extending its sphere of usefulness, and benefiting the community.

5. It is doing its utmost to establish home industries, among which are paper making and type-founding, stereotyping and electrotyping—branches necessary to the development and independence of the community, but which, during their infancy (which is this Territory they have not yet passed), can only be carried on at a pecuniary loss.

6. There is no danger of any subscriber to the News failing to get what he subscribes for through fanaticism of the business and a suspension of the publication—a result in the case of hundreds of newspaper ventures every year.

7. It is now printed throughout in new and readable type, so that even the aged can peruse it without difficulty or danger to their eye-sight.

8. It is free from objectionable advertisements, so that its patronized for that his children will have their minds corrupted from having access to it, in fact, it refuses thousands of dollars worth of the best paying advertisements annually, because it is decided to be the moral and spiritual interests of its readers instead of to getting gain in their expense.

9. Its tone is not regulated by public opinion nor the hope of gaining subscribers or advertisements. It advocates that which is right and condemns that which is wrong, regardless of results, financial or otherwise.

10. It never measures its readers by gauging of calumny of self-praise for mere items.

11. The News practices no deception and resorts to no subterfuge to induce people to subscribe, but on the contrary, prefers to stand on its own merits as the people's newspaper, with a promise only to do its utmost to give its patrons the full value of their money—a promise which it has endeavored to faithfully keep in the past.

12. In conclusion, if a Latter-day Saint can afford to subscribe for only one newspaper, that paper should be the Deseret News; and it more than one, the News should invariably be the first.
