Narrow Escape From Drowning.—Accident to Miners.—Collapse of a Bridge.

Young Warren Funk of Aspen, Colo., has been released on a $5000 bond to await the action of the grand jury.

Grasshoppers are reported to have greatly injured the peach and plum crops at Horseshoe Bend and Jerusalem, Idaho.

The school board at Brighton, Colo., has held a meeting and decided to go on with the establishment of a kindergarten school, notwithstanding the hard times.

There is a decided lull in the affairs of the Pacific coast, at San Francisco, says the Chronicle, just now. The crisis is in sight, and it is now a struggle as to who shall control, the assignee or creditors. There is no longer any doubt that the bank will be wound up.

The remains of L. H. Pierce, who was shot dead by the 17-year-old son last Saturday at Aspen, Colo., were interred on Monday. Young Funk is still in the county jail. Several bouquets have been sent and taken to him in the jail. Sympathy is strong for the boy. He appears perfectly cool.

Attorney P. M. Lindy, E. E. Vaughn, P. S. Brown and Morley B. Morse of Cripple Creek, Colo., have been arrested upon warrants. Lindy is the attorney for the Cripple Creek Dry Goods and Clothing company, the other defendants being members of the company. All are charged with fraud in connection with the recent failure of the company.

The little son of D. n Shullinger was missed from home in Buena Vista, Colorado, Wednesday evening, and the people en masse turned out to search for him. He was found at 10 o'clock several miles from town coming home on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad track. The boy claims to have been stolen by a Mexican, who escaped from him near Bloomfield. A force of deputy sheriffs are now looking for the would-be kidnapper.

The Palouse country, Idaho, is reported to be flooded with men who are anxious to work in the harvest fields at the prevailing rate of $1.50 per day and board. In many cases they will be compelled to wait till the grain is sold before they can collect their wages, as the majority of Palouse farmers are utterly without money and find difficulty impossible to secure any during the present financial stringency.

Luther C. Brown and father quarreled with William Murray at El Modena, near Santa Ana, Cal., on Wednesday afternoon over a couple of joints of water pipe. Murray struck young Brown's father, knocking him down, when young Brown struck Murray on the head with a spade, fracturing his skull and cutting a very ugly gash. It is feared that Murray will die. Brown gave himself up, stating that the act was done in self-defense.

Two miners named James Craig and Thomas Bell, who were at work in the Ajax mine at Leadville, Colo., had a narrow escape Wednesday afternoon. They were at work in the shaft, and failing to a fair stream a place on which they were standing gave way and both were precipitated to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of nearly 200 feet, striking in the water. Both were badly bruised by the fall and by a large piece of timber falling on them, but neither was seriously injured.

The sentiment in favor of receiving city employes' warrants in payment of city taxes and licenses has found great favor, says the Helena (Mont.) Independent, and the council will without doubt take steps looking to that end on Tuesday. Employes who could stand the waiting generally hold on to their warrants yesterday and refused to cash the warrants at shave created by the money brokers. With city warrants in the same position as cash for paying taxes and licenses the merchants who receive them or goods will get the benefit of the interest up to the day they are turned in to the treasurer.

James Orem met with an accident last week that and bids fair to life, says the Ephraim Enterprise. While hauling a load of logs in the canyon he attempted to cross an unsafe bridge and was thrown from the wagon striking the back of his neck on a tender block. He was dragged along by the wagon for some distance before the team could be stopped. He was brought home and suffered untold agony next Sunday morning, when death ended his sufferings. During the last days of his life he was sensible with periods of the left side of his body entirely helpless. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his loss. Mr. Orem was one of our best citizens and his death will be mourned by the whole people.

The large iron bridge spanning the Humboldt river between Hopeland and the old town of Unionville, Cal., collapsed on Wednesday morning. A freshet flood of Upper Lake, a resorter between Lakeport and Hopland, was driven on the bridge with a construction team and wagon loaded with freight for Lakeport. The collapse occurred when the team was in the middle, carrying everything to the bottom of the river, a depth of twenty-five feet.

The driver was not seriously hurt. One horse was killed and the others badly injured. The wagon was smashed and the merchandise was all broken to wreck. The bridge was built only a few years ago, but has been condemned usable for a long time.

Dick Humphrey, a Calico City, Cal., miner, thirteen miles, and a friend named Mockway came near drowning in a pool half a mile west of Pioneer on Wednesday. The men were driving, in a cart, and when approaching Oak Creek, heavily a dry stream, it was flowing from a heavy rain which had fallen early in the evening up in the mountains. The men put Dignies on wet, but they drove into the current, which swept them, cart and team over like a feather. The portion men got out of the cart, leaving it and the pitching of the Rio Grande railroad bridge, but the horse was drowned. The cart was washed down the stream a mile and landed against the Santa Fe railroad bridge.

Not long ago there was dug up in Ashland, Oregon, a curious stone with some dim and crude inscription upon it. It being shown to an old Oregon pioneer he pronounced it a tomahawk stone, such as a tomahawk by the ancient Indian priests. It has holes in the upper edge by which it may be hung upon the priest's neck. It carries upon its picture of the sacred wigwam, and at one end of the wigwam stands the totem pole, on the top of which a little flag was hung that warned the evil spirits of white the priest performed his divine functions in the sacred house in wigwam. The tomahawk may contrast with the breastplate of the Kohen, worn by the ancient Jewish priests, so that the picture of the wigwam on the stone may represent the country founded at all the world's discovered in the world, and all flags and liberty poles of all ages and countries are possibly to the lineal descendants of the original totem represented on the stone. Following the Ashland stone is the cart ruse of the Kiowa Wichitaker.—Selected (Ore.) Tidings.

Harry Cudahy, the eight-year-old son of Henry Cudahy of Highlands, Denver, was run over and instantly killed by a trainway car on Wednesday afternoon. The little boy was playing at the corner of Bismarck and Agate, a block and a half from his home. He started to cross the street just as the car was coming from opposite direction toward the corners. The boy did not saw the car coming, and in attempting the car running up stepped in front of it to be coming down, the motorman saw it in time wide over to avoid a spent. Usually the people between the car throw the motorman to stop. The little boy ran away from the wagon without looking behind, and it was only a few seconds that it had been struck on in two in the middle, while the motorman was with a big fan been thrown and other serious injuries were inflicted.

WHY THE DESERET NEWS SHOULD BE SUBSCRIBED FOR IN PREFERENCE TO ANY OTHER PAPER.

1.—It is the organ of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the authorized medium through which the views, wishes and instructions of the Church Authorities are expressed and given to the Saints.

2.—It may always be relied upon as advocating or defending the right side of every question proper for public journals to treat upon.

3.—It is devoted to the interests of the Latter-day Saints, and has, from its inception, valiantly defended their rights and advocated the principles in which they believe and every Latter-day Saint should therefore feel under obligations to do his part in helping to sustain it.

4.—It is not published for speculation, and never has been, but for the good which it is capable of accomplishing; the profits, if any there be derived from it, being devoted to extending its spheres of usefulness and benefiting the community.

5.—It is doing its utmost to establish home industries, among which are paper making and type-founding, stereotyping and electroplating—branches necessary to the development and independence of the community, but which, during their infancy (which is this Territory they have not yet passed), can only be carried on at a pecuniary loss.

6.—There is no danger of any subscriber to the News failing to get what he subscribes for through failure of the business and a suspension of the publication—a result in the case of hundreds of newspaper ventures every year.

7.—It is printed in readable type, so that even the aged can peruse it without difficulty or danger to their eyesight.

8.—It is free from objectionable advertisements, so that no parent need fear that his children will have their minds corrupted from reading across its 8 in fact, it contains thousands of dollars worth of the best paying advertisements scattered, because it is devoted to the moral and spiritual interests of its readers instead of to getting gain at their expense.

9.—Its news is not regulated by public opinion nor the hope of gaining subscribers or advertisements. It advocates that which is right and condemns that which is wrong, regardless of results, financial or otherwise.

10.—It never caresses its readers by printing columns of self-praise for news items.

11.—The News practices no deception and resorts to no subterfuge to induce people to subscribe; but on the contrary, prefers to stand on its own merits, as the people's newspaper, with a promise only to do its utmost to give its patrons the full value of their money—a promise which it has endeavored to faithfully keep in the past.

12.—In conclusion, if a Latter-day Saint can afford to subscribe for only one newspaper, that paper should be the Deseret News, and if more than one, the News should inevitably be the first.
