C. E. Mayne Said to Be Dying of Hemorrhage of the Lungs.

SHOT HIS WIFE IN A JEALOUS FIT.

Northwest Fruit Growers' Association —Double Murder in Nevada— Eaten Out by Rabbits.

The Union Pacific is getting its snowplows in order not with us the Wyoming division of the road, in anticipation of a heavy snowfall.

The annual meeting of the Northwest Fruitgrowers' association of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and the province of British Columbia will meet in Walla Walla December 10th. The meeting will continue four days.

Thomas McDonough, aged 18 years, while in the employ of the Sta. Francisco traveries, on August 19th last fell into a vat of boiling water and was terribly burned. He brought suit against the corporation Friday to recover $50,000 damages.

A rancher who was summoned to court at Albion, Idaho, a couple of weeks ago, was gone three days. When he returned his oat bin had been eaten out clean by rabbits, and his household were at his potatoes and onions.

Dan Haskins was quite badly injured early this morning at Medicine Bow. The train he was braking on arrived at that station and Haskins was engaged in coupling the engine to the head car, a Pennsylvania car, and as they came together his wrist was caught by the ceiling on the engine and the bumper of the car. The bones of the wrist were broken and the tendons of the arm badly bruised and lacerated. He was brought in on the first train.—Rawlins Daily.

Word reaches us, says the Headlight, from Mexico that a Mexican was found recently shot through the head, a few days ago, about ten miles southeast of Dog Springs, at a watering place for stock called Salt Lake. The bullet had entered the top of his head, passing out at the neck showing that the murdered man had been killed while lying down. A band of horse thieves who had been selling Mexican stock were recently arrested at Ascensión, a few months ago, but one had succeeded in escaping and the murdered man had been identified as the escaped prisoner.

A dispatch from Cardon, Wyoming, says: On Thursday morning William Hutchinson was seriously injured in the company coal mine at Carbon. He was crossing the track in the slope when he stumbled over the rope and was caught by a train of cars being hauled at the time. Hutchinson was dragged along the slope for some distance before the cars were stopped. His injuries were so severe that it was thought necessary to send him to the state hospital at Rock Springs. On Friday Ever Christiansen was injured in the mine by having a large lump of coal fall upon him from the roof, crushing one of his feet in a severe manner.

Word reached Reno, Nev., Wednesday morning of what would seem a most cold-blooded murder. Frank Moser, better known as Spanish Frank, and an Indian, known as Big Jake, were working together on the "Old Gimmel" ranch, north of Pyramid Indian reservation. Wednesday last they went into the mountains, and not returning to the ranch, another employe, named Ewing, went in search of them. Both men were found lying in the road dead, with bullet holes in their bodies. Manuel Echiverra, who had been on bad terms with Moser, has been arrested on suspicion of having committed the murder.

John Wilson met a shocking death in San Francisco Friday morning. He was what is known as a "spicer," and it was his duty to watch the cables as they passed through the power-house, over the big pulleys known as winders, and if there were any broken strands or other fractures in them to repair them. By some means he was caught by the machinery he was employed to watch and was carried through half a revolution by one of the winders, being crushed between the flange and the masonry in which the winders are set. His body was horribly mangled. Almost every bone in his body was broken and his clothes were literally torn to shreds. He was about 25 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

In a fit of jealous rage, John Schafer, a saloon-keeper in San Francisco, shot and mortally wounded his wife Thursday night. According to the wounded woman's statement, her husband went home drunk and accused her of being too friendly with Robert Gittlen, a friend of the family. He then exhibited a letter signed by Gittlen, in which he refuted the accusation of the jealous saloon-keeper. Schafer accuses his wife of writing the letter for the purpose of deceiving him, and, catching her by the arm, he fired three shots into her body. Either wound is regarded as fatal. There does not seem to be any good reason for the shooting. After it was done, Schafer begged his wife to forgive him, and she said she would.

The chances for Clifton E. Mayne to avoid serving the twenty-five years' sentence for criminal assault on Elsie Stephen are said to be improving. He is at the present time almost a physical wreck. He has been subject to hemorrhages of the lungs and has had several attacks since his confinement in the county jail. The worst attacks occurred Monday night and Thursday, when he lost nearly a gallon of blood. This has left him very weak, and should it recur in the next few days, may prove fatal. Mayne realizes that he may not have long to live, and has arranged certain of his financial affairs with one of the trustees at the jail. The terrible strain of the trial was great and told on him severely. Delia Shipman has written him a letter from Tulara in which she calls him "Dear Jim," and repeats the assertion in her affidavit that she was coerced into giving perjured testimony.

No people suffer so much from physical disabilities as those whose occupations require little or no muscular exertion. The lack of exercise causes the liver to become sluggish and the result is constant Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness and Sick Headache. To prevent this take Simmons Liver Regulator; it keeps the liver active and makes one's condition as comfortable as those who have much exercise.

Mrs. Hiram Yeager of Acadia, Salt Lake City, Happy.

"My little boy when three years old," writes Mrs. Hiram Yeager of Acadia, Salt Lake City, Utah, "suffered from some unknown trouble and symptoms of the base of the stomach and bladder, the attending physicians performed an operation upon him but it did not produce the desired effect and found the patient in severer recovery than before.
