SCOFIELD EISTEDDFOD.

(Brief Report of the Committee on the Novel Festival.

A grand Eisteddfod was held at Scofield, Carbon county, July 29th and 29th, 1896, under the auspices of the Carbon County Musical association. There was a full attendance of well dressed and respectable people, and the proceedings gave general satisfaction.

TUESDAY, 2 P. M.

The Eisteddfod was opened by singing the chorus star spangled Banner, by the audience, led by Prof. H. E. Giles.

Address by Governor Heber M. Wells, who spoke in favor of the Eisteddfod, and said he considered it an honor to be called to preside over its meetings. His patriotic speech was well received by the audience.

Tenor solo, Ye Hearts that Bow, sung by W. T. Evans, to whom was awarded the $5.

Mr. Fitzgerald of Price was called for a comic song and responded to the solicitation of the audience.

The prize of $5 was awarded to Hugh Hunter, Scofield, for reciting "Pierrot of Dunsie Dim," on the highland military bagpipes.

Contest recitation for adults, "Asleep at the Switch," three contestants; the prize of $3 was awarded to Libby Walton, Scofield.

Soprano and alto duett, "Love was playing Hide and seek" (Hewett), was rendered by the Swingle brothers; no contest. The boys have done well under the circumstances. They are the youngest of the whole camp.

Organ and solo selection by Prof. Giles.

There was no contest on the ballad

Whisky and opium are ruining men of the health and happiness of not brains that any other influences. They are diseases and can be cured. Write to the ethical conference to The Keeley Institute at Salt Lake, 150 west Second South, or Box 888.

chorus, "Hector Mondayo" the prize of $5 was awarded to the Scofield Choral Club, with Mr. Wells.

The afternoon session was closed by singing "The Lord is My Friend," by Wm. T. Evans, the audience joining in the chorus.

EVENING SESSION.

The Tuesday night session was opened by singing "America" by the audience, led by Prof. Giles.

Address by Hon. J. H. Evans, who was the chief, or Governor Wells had kept home. He paid a tribute to the Welsh and the church for their patriotism and love of music and literature. He adjured every musical person, and capital to be present.

Tenor solo (no contestants for the honor), The Mighty Deep; bar prize $5, was awarded to John Wiles, Scofield.

Mr. Hunter played Mrs. McGlew Highland Fling on the bag pipes, Mr. Ferguson dancing in the Highland costume.

Prof. John P. Morgan of Salt Lake (Mr. Gardner Cole), recited The Drunkard; it was very comical, and was encored.

The Winter Garden, male yodel club, sang Invocation to Harmony (Encore); the choir was awarded to William T. Evans, the conductor, but the prize of $20.00 was withheld until the next Eisteddfod.

Singing the national song, The Man that broke the bank of Monte Carlo, by Peter Elliott, Salt Lake city.

Singing, Clustering Over the Hillside, by Swingle brothers; very good and was encored.

Singing, the Pilgrim's Chorus, by the Scofield choir, under the leadership of John Hood, no contest.

WEDNESDAY, 2 P. M.

Adjudication by John J. Davies of the eighty lines of Welsh poetry; subject, Hafod; prize, $5; of the competitors that of James Dalton of Tooele, the best; the poem was read by Prof. Morgan, who recommended it to be printed, for the use of literary meetings, concerts, etc.

Adjudication by John J. Davies of the eighty lines of Welsh poetry; subject, Hafod; prize, $5, which was awarded to Isaac Evans, Castle Dale.

Contest selection, four song of singer's choice; four competing; Peter Elliott and Richard T. Evans equally waiting.

Contest recitation for children, Little Joe; three competing; the prize awarded to Annie Pidgeon, Castle Gate.

Contest selection, Welsh song; two competing, Wm. T. Evans won the prize.

Thomas Giles of Provo took the prize of $7.50 playing the organ solo, Washington Post March.

NIGHT SESSION.

The last session was opened by singing in Welsh, The Lord of My Fathers, by W. T. Evans, the audience joining in the chorus.

Contest in singing the soprano solo My Western Home (Shepherd), Jennie Matson, Winter Quarters, and Alice Browning, Salt Lake, competing; both sang well, the prize awarded to Miss Browning.

Tenor and bass duet, Flow Gentle Deva; prize $5, awarded to Evans Brothers.

Baritone solo contest, Noble Sup of Truth, four contestants; the $5 prize awarded to John R. Evans, Castle Dale.

Comic recitations by Professors Meakin and Giles—encored.

Contest selection of a male song—two competing; the prize of $5 awarded to Prof. Meakin.

Singing the second place in the grand annual contest, "Dagiwrsa," (Hymns,) by the Scofield choir; the second prize of $50 was awarded the choir, and the gold medal to the conductor John Hood.

A vote of thanks was given to Gov. Wells and Hon. J. H. Evans for their good services as president and conductor, and also to the well-behaved Engineers and Davies for their just adjudications during the Eisteddfod.

Mr. John Hood, chairman of the committee, and Levi Jones, secretary, worked like beavers. Mr. Morgan, Hugh Hunter, Thomas Brown, John W. Lloyd, Hector Evans, John L. Price, Wm. Edwards, Frank Mountenkiss, H. H. Earl and others have been commendable work, and labored under unfavorable circumstances to make the musical festival a success. The committee will make their financial short balance even.

They intend to hold it annually and set the one for next year earlier in the season.

The Rio Grande Western round house was well manned and decorated for the occasion. The women turned out to be very favorite and the people enjoyed one of the most interesting and enjoyable Eisteddfods ever held in Utah.

Returned Missionaries.

Elder Peter Swenson of Sugar House ward, this county, called at the News office today and reported his release from the missionary field. On March 16, 1894, he left his home for a mission to Sweden, and has labored while absent in the Goteborg conference, where he met many kind friends and succeeded in awakening an interest among the people in the principles of the Gospel. The work in that part of the world is prospering, and the people are friendly to the Elders and treat them with much hospitality and respect. Elder Swenson has enjoyed good health while away and arrived home on June 21.

Returning with Elder Swenson were Elders Carl A. Johnson of Huntsville and George Freestone of Spanish Fork, together with twenty-eight emigrating Scandinavian Saints and a family of nine English Saints. Elder Johnson labored in the Stockholm conference and Elder Freestone in England.
