DESERET EVENING NEWS.

TUESDAY, JULY 30, 1895.

POLITICAL POINTERS.

George M. Cannon Succeeds Crane as Chairman of the Territorial Republican Committee.

As stated in last evening's NEWS would be the case, Chairman Charles Crane and Secretary Percy S. Stearns, of the Republican Territorial committee, resigned their positions, and the committee decided that August 20th would be the date for the Territorial convention. The apportionment in the convention is to be one delegate to each forty Republican votes, or major fraction thereof, cast in the various precincts at the last election.

The committee accepted the resignations of the chairman and secretary, which were submitted a few minutes before 8 o'clock, and immediately adjourned until 8:30, to meet at the Opera House, in the Atlas Block, as the right fixtures in the room at the Walsh block were not in proper repair.

At the evening session the committee passed resolutions touching the chairman and secretary for their services. The question of proxies for Iron, Uintah, Garfield, Washington and San Juan counties, which had been sent to preserve and revoking in those counties, came on. The former delegates here to represent these precincts, but in a prolonged discussion it was the expressed opinion of most of the holders as well as others that the rule was not a good one, and the question was debated as to whether it was advisable to change it at the present time. The change was finally agreed to.

The matter of electing a chairman to succeed Mr. Crane then came up. Mention had been made of W. J. Lynch, O. M. Hanson, H. S. McCallum and others as candidates. It was given out before the meeting that Mr. McCallum was not a candidate, and Mr. Lynch's views were not expressed. Mr. Hanson withdrew. At the meeting the name of George M. Cannon was presented. Of the eighteen members present it had been figured out that eleven were for Mr. Cannon and the remaining seven for Mr. Lynch. The vote for Mr. Cannon was made unanimous. Col. Stearns was re-elected secretary, with the understanding that if he declined to accept the chairman would appoint a secretary. Mr. Crane was made a member of the executive committee, and after some other business the committee adjourned, close to midnight.

Republican Women Meet.

At the meeting of the First precinct Republicans, held last night in the Ninth ward, to which the ladies had been especially invited, there was a large and enthusiastic turnout. The meeting was called to order by J. J. Greenewald, with George Buckle as secretary. The ladies being the guests of the evening Mrs. H. C. Wallace, of the Ninth ward, was made permanent chairman, a position which she filled with grace and dignity, the calling upon the following named ladies for speeches: Mrs. Lillie R. Pardee, Mrs. Johanna Melton and Mrs. E. H. Wells. They responded, giving their reasons why they thought the women of Utah should be Republicans.

The following ladies were elected to represent the different wards of the precinct, as members of the Republican First precinct committee: The annex, Mrs. L. Hawkhurst; First ward, Mrs. Henry Saddler; Second ward, Mrs. Catherine Paterson; Third ward, Mrs. Eardley; Eighth ward, Mrs. Rudert; Ninth ward, Mrs. A. Hall; Tenth ward, Miss Hattie Foster. In conclusion speeches were made by D. C. Eichner and Charles W. Symons, members of the late Constitutional Convention, and Messrs. C. S. Kinney and Sam J. Kenyon.

The cream of tartar factory which supplies Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder works, is the largest in the world.

Painful Sawmill Accident.

An accident of a very peculiar nature occurred at Butler's sawmill, a little east of Fairview yesterday. Several men were handling a tree and the end of it was placed on a stump, while Joseph Jones was holding it in place by means of a hand spike. The other end of the tree was moved around, causing Jones' end to slipped, knocking the hand spike down upon his head with great force. The result was that he was in now suffering from concussion of the brain and paralysis of the right side. He is, however, young and robust and it is thought he has a fair chance for recovery.

A Police Find.

A bundle of clothes was found by Officers Shannon and Pratt in the woods on Tenth South and Tenth East, and they believed they had recovered stolen property. The articles are old and almost worthless, however, and it is probable will never be called for.

Golden Wedding.

A few friends of Mr. and Mrs. Herridge met at their residence yesterday, at No. 357 west Second North street, to celebrate with them their fiftieth or golden wedding day. Among the gathering, which numbered about thirty, were members of the family and relatives—old country friends and a few of later years. All spent a happy time and did justice to the good things prepared, disposing of the hours given late, leaving with the worthy couple the best of wishes, hoping their remaining years together may be peaceful and happy.

The thrifty farmer's wife knows the value of Dr. Price's Baking Powder. No other suits her.

A PLEASING PARADOX.

Clever Exhibition by Professor Gentry's Finely Trained Ponies and Dogs.—Witnessed by a Large Audience.

To say the least, Prof. Gentry's equine and canine paradox which exhibited under canvas last evening on Fourth South between East Temple and State streets, was the best show of the kind ever given in this city. The spacious tent was nearly filled to its capacity and for an hour and a half those present indeed on with wonder and admiration, astounded at the feats that were performed by the beautiful educated dogs and ponies at the bidding of their master. The program was varied and of such a nature as to interest all those assembled, the monotony generally characteristic of such performances being largely conspicuous by its absence. It opened with the ponies coming out at their respective names were called and forming in line; then they marched around the ring in position as though they were an army of trained soldiers that had become thoroughly acquainted with all the military tactics. They all showed great obedience but Eureka, the tough, who felt inclined to kick up his heels and amuse himself in a sort of a go-as-you-please way. The professor threatened to hang weights to his hind quarters unless he behaved himself. The ponies then dashed out, and the professor was looking for company, when in walked Mr. and Mrs. Snyder. Mr. Snyder was wheeling baby Budge in the carriage, while Mrs. Snyder followed behind, with the air and activity characteristic of the "new woman." After giving them a most cordial welcome, the professor requested them to join in the waltz, when the band played and they stepped the light fantastic to a given's tune. Mr. Duke then made his appearance and jumped the rope as nimbly and gracefully as a school girl during recess. The professor asked for a canine to walk on his front feet, one responded but on showing his lameness he was willingly excused. Objects were called, but all had caught on and were suffering the same complaint as the first—that of being lame. When the professor announced that he would have to give it up, in jumped little Topsy and walked on his front feet in fine style. The hounds were next, in their game of leaping and they did it to perfection. The ponies, Romeo and Juliet then appeared and went through the drill, after which they played leader and Dog Ha Ross and Grover Cleveland, clever puppies, joined in the fun. The revolving pyramid of pretty dogs was a beautiful sight, the ponies and hound appeared at the same time. Finally, the dog, walked the tight rope and Grover Cleveland rode Eureka notwithstanding the pony's protest, showing that he was a stayer from away back. The dogs ran races for meat, and Barney did a most wonderful feat, that of turning back and somersaulting. The bounce showed great ability in high leaping and jumping, the monkey also participating and causing outbursts of laughter at his funny capers. The show terminated with a revolving living picture of horses and dogs, after which those present went into the ring and admired and earnest the fixed animals for the intelligence and acuity which they had displayed.

Prof. Gentry is to be quite a young man and must have taken a great deal of pains in training the animals to attain such a degree of sagacity as they evidence but age.
