NEWS OF THE WEST.

E. S. Crocker's Trial for Killing Harvey Booth Set for June 22.

UNDER THE ASPHYXIATION RULE.

Sick Women in Kansas—Sudden Death—Boy Killed by a Steam Jet.

Washington are using chloroform to stupefy the unwieldy steps in Congress.

Jack Adams, a bicyclist, committed suicide at San Francisco Saturday night, by gas asphyxiation.

The new trial of E. S. Crocker, for the murder of Harvey Booth, at Evanston, Wyoming, is to commence on June 22.

Evanston, Wyo., News-Register: Jas. Graham, agent at Aspen, has recovered a few weeks' vacation and together with his wife and son will spend a few days in Evanston, Ogden and Salt Lake.

William P. Johnson, aged nearly 60, was found dead, lying on his bed, Monday morning in San Francisco. He has occupied the room for about three months, and had been laboring under depressed and hopeless. His death is believed to have been accidental.

Some time Friday night or early Saturday morning Francisco W. Schneider turned the gas jets out in his room in the New Western hotel, San Francisco, and then laying down on the bed lit the jets. His dead body was taken from the room Saturday.

St. John, Kansas, News: Elder Heber C. Anderson, who has been out on an extended southern mission, returned to this city the latter part of last week. We understand that Mr. Anderson has completed the circuit to own and will return to his home in Salt Lake City shortly.

Boise, Idaho, Statesman: Next Wednesday night at 8, A. H. Berry, Mrs. Hyrum C. Lewis, formerly of Kuchum but now of Salt Lake, will deliver a lecture on the subject of woman suffrage. Mrs. Ray Rudkin, the popular Salt Lake vocalist, will sing for Mrs. Lewis's lecture.

The body of John Hoch, an aged German, was found Monday evening in the house of the Electric Light and Power company at Anaconda, Mont. The electrician discovered the water being on all, and on investigating the cause saw the terrible fact that the man's body was obstructing the gates. Hoch has been missing since Saturday. It is supposed that he threw himself in the reservoir with suicidal intent.

News brought in from Quigley, Mont., is to the effect that a Chinaman known as Big Hank was killed here Sunday by a gang of masked men, says a Billings special. His body was found in a ditch. Attempts to drive him out of the camp has taken place for about two weeks ago. Ed. Moore protected the Chinaman, standing off the operators with a Winchester. Sheriff Babcock discharged the leaders of the mob at that time, and trouble was brought to an end. Big Hank built a cabin and started a laundry. Quigley is the mining camp where the works of the Golden Sceptre mining company is located.

George H. Wallace, who for many years has filled one of the chief clerkships in the office of the freight auditor's department of the Southern Pacific company at San Francisco, died suddenly Saturday afternoon at Fairfax Park, near San Rafael. Wallace and his wife went across the bay on a picnic Saturday morning with a party of friends, and late in the afternoon were preparing to depart, for home when Wallace was taken ill. He became unconscious and died before medical aid could be summoned. The deceased was quite a fleshy man, and it is believed that his sudden death was the result of an attack of apoplexy.

A Tribune special from Anaconda, Montana, says a distressing accident about 8 o'clock Monday evening resulted in the instant death at Robert Nickel, the three-year-old son of Robert Nickel. With last a dozen playmates the boy had constructed a steam boiler out of a plumber's gasoline tank and built a fire under it. Hiram was blowing from it when the boy ran to turn off an escape valve. The can exploded and a piece of it struck him between the eyes, killing him instantly. His comrades had fled and escaped injury. The prostrate mother carried him into the house in her arms. The boy died without speaking. Fragments of the can, which were made of heavy tin, were found 100 feet from the spot.

Armstrong, Stimson.

Mr. A. L. Armstrong, an old druggist, and a prominent citizen of the enterprising town, says: "I sell some forty different kinds of cough remedies, but have never in my experience sold as much of any one article as I have of Bullard's Horehound Syrup. All who use it say it is the most perfect remedy for Cough, Cold, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, they have ever tried." It is a specific for Croup and Whooping Cough.
