REVENGED ON A CHINAMAN.

Wallace's Circus Men Batter Deputy Sheriffs—California, Oregon and Idaho Railway, Etc.

An Ellensburg (Wash.) dispatch says the examination of three men charged with lynching Charles and Fred Vinson a week ago was concluded Thursday. Frank Dobslaeger, Frank Fiegel and William Kennedy were held for trial without bail.

Lock Wan, a Chinaman, was clubbed to death at The Dalles, Oregon, Wednesday by three of his countrymen. Two of them held him while the third drove a long bayonet clear into his body just below the heart. They then ran away, leaving the knife in the body. The wounded Chinaman died shortly afterward. The killing was an act of revenge growing out of a highbinder row.

Subscriptions to the bonds of $500,000 for a branch of the Gulfer to Oregon and Idaho railway, from Boise to Bell Bluff, to connect with the Chicago and Northwestern at Casey, Oregon, are still coming in and the project is gaining so gratifyingly that Oscar G. Stafford, the mayor of Fresno, Cal., guarantees, as the president of the Elk River Mill and Lumber company, $5,000, with a further personal guarantee of $1,000.

A dispatch from Echo Mountain Observatory, Cal., says that on Wednesday at 2 o'clock, Lewis Swift, the astronomer, discovered a new comet in the constellation Pisces. Its place was in right ascension 30 hours, 27 minutes, 40 seconds; declination 5 degrees, 20 minutes. It is very faint and has no tail. It is moving slowly northeast, parallel with the Ecliptic Periodic. Nothing is known as to what comet it is or whether it has been seen before.

Dr. O. W. Searing, an aged physician, dropped dead on San Francisco Thursday evening from heart disease. A few minutes prior to his death he had become greatly worked up over the arrest of an incendiary individual. Searing happened along and took exception to the way the man was being handled by the policemen. Searing thought he was being abused. He remonstrated, and before the trouble was ended the old man was greatly agitated. He had been troubled with heart disease for some time. The unusual excitement overcome him and he succumbed after he had walked two blocks.

Sunday evening, Eddie, a 13-year-old son of Ted Smith, in company with one of Mons Anderson's boys, started for Murdock's pasture after some cows, says the Lehi, Utah county, Sunster. They were riding at a rapid rate and when turning Gosh's corner the Smith boy's horse was crowded into a wire fence on the right. In attempting to keep from being injured by the wire the boy leaned too far over to the left and was thrown from his horse and dragged about ten yards before he released his hold on the bridle reins. The boy was in a fainting condition and his companion summoned assistance, the injured boy was conveyed to the home and Dr. Hesbright summoned. Upon investigation a cut three inches long and one half inch deep was found on the inner side of the thigh. The wounded part was considerably bruised and was painfully made by a kick from the horse. The wound was dressed and the boy is getting along nicely.

Deputy Sheriffs Lane and Hugh Smith were roughly handled at Oakland, Cal., by a crowd of canvassers belonging to Wallace's circus on Tuesday night. The officers had gone to the tent to serve summons upon the Powers brothers, trick bareback riders, who were among the performers. Wallace and Smith managed to reach the performers as they left the ring twenty-five circus hands surrounded them with clubs and drove the officers back. Smith was struck a heavy blow with a club on the back of his head. The officers beat a retreat for their pistols, as they were afraid that some innocent person might be hurt. The fight occurred in the main tent during the performance. It caused great excitement among the audience. The summons was in a suit brought by a local bill collector, who held an accepted claim against the Powers for $111.50, which was a balance alleged to be due upon a promissory note made by them to Fay Butler two years ago, when they were in business together in the East. Butler has been trying to locate the Powers ever since, to learn if they were with the Wallace circus and had cash enough to pay vacation Oakland.

Hemon C. Cosie, a painter of San Diego, Cal., has discovered an ancient wagon road on San Mige Cooperative near San Diego, and has been searching it, believe g that it leads to a gold mine. Cook learned that a road had been discovered nearly from the river level on the north side to a point near San Miguel's ranch. He decided to investigate, and by an entirely independent trail. He took a pick and shovel, and after a long search succeeded in making a thorough job of it. As he progressed, his interest increased, for he soon discovered that below the shifting surface of the mountain side was a solid roadway, well defined and thoroughly built. In places there were trees over inches in diameter, indicating the age of the work. The road was followed well up in the mountains, and on the way he found several fresh tracks, having U. A. Long, Frank Cook Cook taken a piece of cinnabar, with have given what he believes to be the course of the ancient road. He has also found a stone chisel, and they showed it to good men in Jacal to the left. Key for Impression of Hatchet, by which he has traced the road to the east, and a flat point has Long found which he believes is the same. Cook's discovery is satisfactory, as he proposes to hold for a claim, and he has secured Hubbard to a position there of about 200 feet square. The construction is that this is an ancient and valuable, or the road was not here for nothing.
