THE BRYAN MURDER.

Wood, the Alleged Accomplice of Scott Jackson

QUESTIONED AS TO HIS LETTERS.

Walling and Jackson Lay the Murder to One Another—Searching for the Head.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 6.—Wm. Wood was brought here tonight from South Bend, Ind., under arrest as an accomplice of Scott Jackson and Alonzo Walling.

Wood is not yet of age. He has fair complexion, cleanly shaved and cut hair, and was finely dressed. His conversation showed him to be more advanced in the ways of the world than most of the age of 20. He was accompanied by his father, Rev. D. M. Wood, presiding elder of the Methodist church in the district where he resides. Rev. A. A. Gee, pastor of the Methodist church of South Bend; A. N. Grant, an attorney of Indianapolis, who is the counsel of Wood, and A. H. Roberts, a leading merchant of Michigan City, who came to go on the bond of young Wood.

Wood was examined at length by Mayor Caldwell and Chief Dietzen. The prisoner said this was the first time he had ever visited Cincinnati, and denied that he had never been acquainted with Jackson, Walling or anyone else. He said he had never been outside of Indiana except for a trip to Chicago. He was questioned very closely about the letters from him that had been captured with the effects of Scott Jackson in the latter's room. These letters are very obscure. Wood said he was a distant relative of the girl and was doing everything in his power to help him her condition. In one letter Wood referred to matters which the officers considered as requiring him in the tragedy. In these letters Scott Jackson told Wood that Walling, his room-mate, had a friend who was an expert chemist and who would take charge of the operation. It was not that Jackson was referring to himself or Wood and Walling claim, to be expert chemist as well as the surgeon.

WALLING'S STORY.

During the day Jackson made what he called a confession, in which he laid the whole crime on his room-mate, Walling. His confession appeared in the evening papers and was shown to Walling. He prepared a statement in which was given out at midnight in which he said that Scott Jackson had told him about his trouble with Pearl Bryan, and in which he said Wood was interested. Jackson talked about the serious condition and consulted druggists and fellow-students about the best drugs with which to kill. Jackson got drunk a night or two after Pearl came here and told his room-mate that he proposed to get away with her. He had several plans which he outlined. One was to take her to a room and kill her with drugs and leave her as if she had killed herself. Another plan was to kill her with the drug, cut up the body and drop it in sacks, unless he got a good opportunity to cremate it in the furnace in the dental college. His third plan was the sack scale, which Walling explained at length.

Walling denied that he was with Jackson and Pearl Bryan in the cab last Friday night before the murder was committed. A colored porter and a barkeeper who saw the buggy drive away from their saloon testified that Walling got in the back with them. Walling insisted that the last time he saw Pearl was last Wednesday night, and that he did see Jackson on Thursday and Friday nights, and that Jackson went to their room and put on part of Walling's clothes, in order to throw suspicion and blame for himself onto his room mate. In Jackson's statement he said he accounted for the blood on his clothes by saying that Walling had gone to their room and put on his clothes before going out to commit the murder.

Walling says that Jackson told him on Thursday night he intended to drive over to Fort Thomas with the girl and get rid of her, and that he did so on Friday night.

During the time that Walling made his confession, Scott Jackson was present and heard it all, and denied everything as his room-mate proceeded with the story. They called each other liars and were with difficulty prevented from creating a disturbance. Meantime a large crowd surrounded the place, and both men expressed their apprehension for their safety. They are not anxious to be taken to Newport, Ky., for trial, but as soon as the preliminary examination is entered no requisition papers will be issued and the prisoners will be turned over to Sheriff Flanner of Newport, Ky., just opposite this city. The feeling, however, is as strong on this side of the river as it is on the Kentucky side against the men who are believed to be guilty of the murder.

The search for the head of the murdered woman still goes on, but it is believed that Jackson and Walling are the only ones who know where it could be found, and some are of the opinion that Jackson is the only one who could solve this part of the mystery.

William Wood was released on his own recognizance and went to the hotel with Scott Foreman.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Louisa W. Fisher of 75 Central avenue, this city, is the friend whom Miss Bryan intended to visit. Mrs. Fisher said today:

"She was a member of one of the best families in Putnam county and was a queen of state Senator Logan's court. She was a very handsome girl, intelligent, and of inventive disposition. I knew nothing of this sad affair until last night, and I am greatly shocked. Miss Bryan and her family had extended invitations to visit me."

Mrs. Fisher did not know Jackson.

JACKSON'S SECRETS.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 6.—The Jackson who is under arrest at Cincinnati on suspicion of the murder of Miss Pearl Bryan is the young man who turned state's evidence against his accomplice, Alexander Lotz, in exchange for a term in state's prison for the embezzlement of $22,000 from the Pennsylvania Railway company. Lotz was an assistant auditor, and Jackson started a saloon with the stolen money and gambled on horse races. It has been understood in Jersey City that Jackson went to Greencastle, Ind., to live with his brother.

Democratic Headquarters.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—The Palmer house will be the rallying center of the Democratic politicians during the national convention.

Besides the national committee twenty states will have their headquarters at the hotel. Every available room in the house that can be spared from the regular trade has been assigned. The house has been compelled to refuse quarters to two applying sets of delegations. New York and Washington tried to secure accommodations, but could not be accommodated. Each delegation, however, was given two rooms for the leading men who desire to keep in touch with the national committee.

The following are the states for which rooms have been set aside: Iowa, Mississippi, Oregon, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, South Dakota, Louisiana, Indiana, Colorado, Connecticut, Texas, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Michigan, Alabama, Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Kentucky. Indiana has had set aside for it the largest number of rooms, fifty-one. The total number of rooms set aside for all the delegations, including the two rooms each for New York and Washington, is 653. The number of men to be taken care of will approximate 2,000.

REBELLION AND TREASON.

Charges Against the Reform Committee in Pretoria.

PRETORIA, Feb. 6.—The trial of the members of the reform committee began here today. They are charged with inciting to rebellion and with high treason. The first evidence furnished was that of the mining commissioner. He testified that the men held the town with the avowed intention of opposing the government of Transvaal, and asserted that the committee of the reform committee had said within his hearing, "The country will soon be ours from Cape Town to the Zambesi." Fellow evidence was given alleging that the rebels were armed and drilled and that earthworks were formed outside the city.

John Hays Hammond, charged with the leadership of the late uprising in Johannesburg, was liberated on bail today.

Shea Must Die.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Judge Heyburn has denied the motion for a new trial for Dan Shea. His reasons, he says, for so doing, is that the confession of McGough was not supported by his evidence given before the commission appointed by the government, and so placed in contradiction to the evidence of the witnesses for the people at the trial, was lacking in confirmation in many instances.

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Senator Sherman today presented Foraker's credentials to succeed Senator Brice, March 4, 1897, and the Senate passed a resolution calling for detailed statements concerning the bond bills.

Another resolution offered by Thurston (Rep., Neb.) was agreed to, directing the secretary of state to send to the Senate copies of all laws, regulations and decrees of Germany, France, Belgium and Denmark which discriminate against the introduction of American cattle.

Turpie addressed the Senate in favor of the election of United States senators by popular vote.

Turpie spoke of the vast growth of the corporate influence. It was notorious that the central bureau of this malevolent corporate power is at the capitals of the various states whenever a United States senator is to be chosen. Destroy this rule of the trust by giving to the people the election of senators and the habit of public opinion is restored, unawed and unbought.

During a lull in the proceedings Morgan (Dem., Ala.) offered an amendment to the resolution of Quay relative to recommitting the tariff-silver bill.

Mr. Morgan's amendment instructs the finance committee to add a provision reducing 10 per cent from customs duties on goods imported in vessels of the United States or of the country producing the imported article, provided that the countries exporting such goods shall provide by law that silver bullion, the product of United States mines, shall be admitted to coinage on equal terms with gold.

Shortly before 2 o'clock the Homestill prohibiting prize-fights in the Territories was brought over from the House and within three minutes of the time it was presented to the Senate it was passed.

At 2 o'clock the resolution to distribute the appropriation bills among the various committees of the Senate was taken up, and Allison (Rep., Ia.), chairman of the Senate committee on appropriations, addressed the Senate in opposition to the proposed change.

Proctor (Rep., Vt.) opposed the proposition advanced by Allison, but in doing so he took occasion to compliment Allison in high terms for his ability and for his able argument.

"It furnishes another evidence, if any were needed," said Mr. Proctor, "of his (Allison's) fitness for the highest position in the gift of the people. I can say that in his absence."

The Senate adjourned at 3 o'clock.

THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The Senate free coinage substitute for the bond bill was debated for five hours in the house this afternoon, and five hours at the night session. Nevertheless, the issues from the measure for these two present their views in so great that it seems possible now that the debate may be run over into next week.

The House at 5 o'clock took a recess until 7:30 p.m.

There were only about twenty-five members at the night session of the House. The light attendance gradually awoke away until, when the last speaker closed, there was but a solitary members in the floor.

Among the speakers was Allen (Rep. Utah) against concurrence.

Mr. Kirkpatrick (Rep. Kan.) said he would vote against both the motion to concur and that to non-concur.

At 10 o'clock the House took a recess until 10:30 tomorrow morning.

A Crew Deemed to Death.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The British steamer Lessington, which went ashore on Tuesday night off Long Island life-saving station, Long Island, is threatened with destruction. Fifteen men are on board. At midnight the men on board took to the rigging. The vessel appears to be going to pieces. The life-saving crew made an prompt attempt to reach the vessel with a line, but failed. The men in the rigging are evidently too exhausted to attempt the lines. The life-savers have given up all hope of saving them.

SETTLEMENT EXPECTED.

Secretary Olney Said to Have Changed His Views on Venezuela.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The Chronicle this morning announces that it learns on good authority that a partial settlement of the Venezuelan difficulty has been effected, or, the Chronicle adds, "if not actually effected, it is on the very point of settlement. We believe that the settlement refers to the Uruan outrage."

The Chronicle then gives a long letter from a well informed foreign correspondent, stating that since the boundary question has assumed an acute phase Secretary Olney has carefully examined all the facts relating to the Cayuni incident (the seizure by the Venezuelan authorities of British policemen on territory claimed by Venezuela), and has arrived at the conclusion that it is a matter entirely capable from boundary questions.

A City Inundated.

MONTMORENCY, N. J., Feb. 6.—The dam at Pasaloonta lake broke tonight and all the lower part of the city was inundated. So far as known no lives have been lost, although twenty-five persons are missing. Their disappearance is creating intense excitement.

WENT DOWN WITH THE RAIDER.

Twenty Workmen Precipitated Into the River Below.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Feb. 6.—A bridge on the New England road over the Pequabuck river near Bristol, collapsed about 8 o'clock tonight, carrying with it twenty workmen, of whom thirteen are believed to have perished. At midnight two bodies had been recovered, and eleven more were missing. Among the dead is John O'Brien, foreman, of East Hartford, the names of the missing are unknown.

The fierce storm which swept over the state played havoc with New England railroad bridges, and the swollen waters of the Pequonock threatened to carry the bridge away. At 5 o'clock a special wrecking train with forty men left East Hartford and was put to work on the new bridge which the company is building over the river, and which is almost completed. It was intended to put the new bridge in shape so that the train could cross the river. The old bridge was declared unsafe about 4 o'clock, and alone then no train has crossed the river.

Twenty workmen were put on each bridge. About 8 o'clock one of the foremen, John Barry, called the twenty men on the old structure toward the center to assist in tearing up the ties, which were wedged for the other bridge. The weight of the men was too great for the bridge, and without a moment's warning it collapsed with a loud noise, precipitating sixteen or seventeen of the men into the raging waters of the river. Three or four were caught by falling timbers and seriously injured. Three managed to cling to fragments of the bridge and were rescued by a number of their comrades, who rushed over from the new bridge as soon as they realized the extent of the disaster.

EL PASO EXCITED.

Feeling Against Preachers Very Bitter.

DENVER, Col., Feb. 6.—A special to the Rocky Mountain News from El Paso, Tex., says: The whole city was thrown into a state of wild excitement this afternoon at 2 o'clock, when it was announced from Washington that the anti-pass fight bill had passed the Senate. Dan Stuart had a lengthy caucus with the newspaper representatives and station men, and it results in his telegraphing James J. Quinn to bring in Maher and party from Las Cruces on the evening train, and orders were given for the immediate finishing of the fighting ring. It is to be completed and ready for entrance at 12 o'clock tonight.

The ministers' union, composed of four ministers out of nine in the city, was universally blamed and cursed on all sides by everybody. Their congregations are composed of the business men of the city, who put up the money to bring the carnival here, and as a consequence their action the feeling against them was bitter.

At 4 o'clock, after a conference between Julian and Stuart, it was announced that the fight would occur if Quinn would consent; but soon after it was given out that the hurry was unnecessary, as a question for the fight where there would be no violation of the law had been ascertained, and consequently the regular program was posted up again. Quinn and Maher and party will return to Las Cruces tonight and continue training as usual.

Farmers' Alliance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The National Farmers' Alliance and Industrial union, which has been in session here three days, adjourned this afternoon. Important action was taken during the meeting, and among these the sub-treasury plan, to which the alliance has been committed for a number of years, and the demand for an increase of the circulating medium to $50 per capita, were eliminated from the platform. Resolutions were adopted opposing the refunding of the Pacific railway debt, and agreeing to meet next year at Dallas, Texas, if that city will make suitable offers.
