OGDEN, OCTOBER 4, 1899.

EXCITING TIME IN COURT.

Attorneys Nearly Come to Blows in the Topham Preliminary Hearing.

The examination for trial of the case of the State of Utah vs. Lorenzo Topham, charged with the murder of Charles Wassell, commenced at 10 yesterday morning in the county court before Justice of the Peace J. Lowe Barker. Quite a crowd attended the opening of the [illegible] The State was represented by County Attorney [illegible] and Assistant A. J. Weiber, and Mr. Topham is represented by Attorneys Allison and Bryan. Mr. Topham is at his place in the dock throughout the trial and seeming with great interest to the testimony given by the various witnesses. He does not seem to be feeling so much over the charge placed against him as at first, he shows by his pale face that he has suffered that he now suffers, to realize the seriousness of the crime of which he has been charged. Harry Miner, the man who runs the electric wheel at the club house over the Mint saloon, was the first witness to be called. His testimony was the same as at the coroner's inquest, with the exception that his memory seems to have improved, he remembers now that at one time during the fight between Topham and Wassell he saw both the men down on the floor. Mr. Miner, when asked him a question about an interview he had had with Mr. Allison and Mr. Bryan, stated he was not aware that Mr. Allison subpoenaed the interview and a very heated discussion took place between the two attorneys, Mr. Allison stating that the time of holding back and concealing evidence, that Mr. Allison recorded in his sworn testimony, and that Mr. Bryan stated he did not. Mr. Miner said that if the statement was repeated he would knock the man down. Only question the court would not allow Mr. Allison to put questions in the court or he would be hung for contempt.

The question over which the unveiled for discussion came was overruled by the court. Miller's testimony occupied the entire morning.

During the afternoon Dr. John Driver, Dr. George Baker, C. C. Brown and S. Bailey were examined. Their testimony did not throw any more light on the case than to the contrary, it being to substantiate that the same as they gave at that time.

OGDEN BRIEFS.

Horace Peery and Charles Kimball went to Corinne on business.

Julius Boyle, the cattle dealer in Idaho, is in the city.

Mrs. Ida G. Smith and Maggie Bowman, who have been visiting relatives in Ogden for the past week, returned to their home in Salt Lake.

TRAINING COLTS.

There is no more so valuable or so much appreciated and so practically useful in a horse as a fine, easy walk, and there is nothing that will cause the animal to be driven harder and to do more work on the other gaits as a deficiency in this respect, says the Horse Feeder. Months of patient and careful training, kindness and at times opposition to make the horse a fast trotter, a high action, a perfectly even gait, a free pacer, or a fast walker, can now be so naturally put upon the market as native made him, and hitherto it has been left to the owners, commended by its owner as a wonder if he happens to well foal, and driven at speed and hard, the other if he chances to be lazy or slow. The fast walker is often made so by being kept back and with bridle breaking which happens to be a quick, free walker, and no farmer or breeder can be too careful to see to it that no foal of his is allowed to form a habit of beside a sluggish inactive partner.

However backing a horse may be in this most important point he can be greatly improved by a little time and attention and every effort should be made to perfect him in the gait. The walking chance at our shows are generally measured at, and but few of them are given, and yet there is no performance that ought to receive more encouragement, nothing so generally useful, nothing so pleasant to the eye, the horse's gait being of a way fast-footed, bold-stepping walker, and which a saddle horse should be, or the horse that comes striding along fast-footed, bold foot up under his quick at every step. Not nodding and not swinging in real walking fashion. It is a frequently laid home to forget, and has its case in point in the movement. The trotting horse can are the session shows in the respect and the many trotting-bred animals that but then way who have no natural gait, and who, for want of early education of the gait, it is not written in the rudiment or trotting compared and also are some are a mass of horses asked to walk, while in the "in hand" exhibitions a stallion or mare frequently started off full tilt alongside the judge, and the walk, or shuffle, is passed over as of no consequence. Perhaps horses are particularly inclined to this respect, and so would seem the hundred duty of breeders and handlers to pay attention to their proper education at this point, and the part of all horse show managers to encourage by the affording of prizes the attainment of excellency at this the most practical and the most neglected gait the horse employs for purposes of locomotion.

"In His Steps. What would Jesus Do?" Sheldon's popular book, which have been sold in England and the United States, will be commenced in the Saturday "News."

DWARF PEARS.

Dwarf pears are to be recommended chiefly because they bear early, being grafted on the quince stock does this, and they do not grow nearly so large as the standard pear, and there are many varieties which bear better fruit on the quince than on the pear. The well known Angoulême (Duchess) is one of these. Longue Romis is another and so is Akkor. Of these the Angoulême is the most well known and the most attractive are the results. Other good ones as dwarfs are Beurre wine, Bellefontaine, Napoleon, Bosbel, French Clare's Favorite, Lawrence and Josephine of Malines. The quince, however, is a very uncertain stock, being subject to the boring pests earlier, and the fruit of each good one so grafted and tried has left off bearing several years earlier when grown on this stock than on the pear. But beyond these two pests, the quince seems and thrive a root, in June and August or September, they must be hunted for. If little holes with sawdust appear are seen the grub is there and must be punctured and destroyed by a glow of wire, or cut out with a sharp knife.

COMMERCIAL PEAR ORCHARD.

In planting a commercial pear orchard of 10 acres, Marvin Greek, an experienced grower suggests the following quantities of trees: Twenty Bilder Early, three hundred Bartlett, three hundred and eighty Anjou, one hundred Clairgeau, one hundred Seckel, twenty-five Kieffer, fifty Howell, and twenty-five Clapp's Favorite. In planting one thousand dwarf pears, plant three hundred Duchess, two hundred Howell, three hundred Anjou, one hundred Bartlett and one hundred Winter.

As a basket of pears can be produced as cheaply as a basket of apples, and as they bring better prices the wide-spread adaptability of extensive pear culture must be conceded.

COFEEE HEART.

Many People Think They Have Heart Disease.

"My husband and I used to drink Horlick and Java coffee all day, and it kept us up all night and sleepy and it for breakfast, sometimes in cold weather for luncheon and dinner. A form of heart disease came on to back of us. Bothered complained of his heart, missing a beat sometimes, and that he would get dizzy after drinking coffee for the six o'clock dinner. I had pains in the heart, and very painfully subjective symptoms, generally commenced with new headache. My physician forbid the use of coffee, and we were put on Postum Food Coffee with the result that both husband and myself have fully recovered our health and our hearts are all right and perfectly free.

"I have reached such perfection in making Postum that hardly anyone can tell the difference between it and coffee. We drink it for breakfast and dinner, and it never pails on our taste.

"A good many people make Postum in a very slovenly manner; that is, they put a little into the coffee pot and use it in place of a little tea, and serve it hot that makes the flavor kind of a [illegible] on the contrary, when you boil Postum twenty minutes in the pot it will not be the Postum allowed to boil fifty or twenty minutes after the boiling begins, but commencing after it is put on the stove but after the real boiling begins then you obtain a beverage that is so rich and good.

"I have no objections to your using my name." Mrs. J. M. Chandler, 800 Chicago Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn. Postum is sold by all first-class grocers.

Hoffer says he has no intention of retiring from the diamond to an inactive business. He claims he is as good and strong as ever he was, and his works shows it.

Of the twenty-one leading league batsmen three are left-handers. This demonstrates the advantage the runner has who starts from the right side of the plate.

Daly is the only member of the necessary club who has played in every game. Of New York, Van Haltren and O'Brien has participated in every game.

Arthur Hinchcliffe, captain of last year's Princeton football team, has been elected captain of the Princeton baseball team, to succeed F. W. Kafer, resigned.

The young pitchers have taken off the honors this year. Hughes, Donahue, Howell, Frank, Hahn, Platt, Lewis, McGinnity and Bernhardt leading the bunch.

The said that Ted Sullivan declined a liberal offer from the new American Association to act as traveling manager, which he supposes means surrender for pennants.

Boston cities are now telling the world what a figure "Jack" cuts in pennant winning. Quite different from the song of previous years, when Boston was wont to sing "Tommy Dee," according to those same Boston partisans.
