CHIEF DEVINE'S BATTLE.

The Way He Succeeded in Winning for Salt Lake.

A Neat Speech Before the Convention of Fire Chiefs in Atlanta Secures Salt Lake the Next One.

There were many offers, and most of them very flattering ones, from other pretentious cities in the United States for the next national convention of fire chiefs; and the claims of each city were ardently pressed by the ambitious chiefs who covered the location of the session of '96. Chief Devine, however, of this city, succeeded in carrying off the plum. He read the invitation of Salt Lake City and then pressed his suit in the following words:

In presenting this invitation, I did not suppose it would be necessary to say anything in regard to the matter. I presume that all of those gentlemen present, a large majority of whom were in Montreal at the last convention, and almost come to the conclusion that without opposition—without question, the next convention would be held in Salt Lake City. This was more forcibly impressed upon my mind when I reached the Southern States in our trip to Augusta. I interviewed some of the Southern chiefs and was met with a response somewhat similar to this: "Why, we understand, in the South, that the next convention will be held in Salt Lake City. We who were at the convention in Montreal, or nearly all of us, feel pledged to Salt Lake City for 1896. We gave you our word upon that occasion that we would use our efforts and votes to have the next convention go to your city, if you wanted it, and we hope you would not seek to impeach the word of a Southern chief."

So far as the other cities striving for this honor are concerned, I have nothing to say, except that some of my opponents in the matter have, as I have been informed, resorted today to tactics which I feel were not exactly honorable.

I assure you our town is large enough, and hospitable enough and generous enough, and has all the accommodations that are required to handle a convention twice the size of this today in Georgia. And I believe, gentlemen, it will almost require this, because when the next convention is held in Salt Lake City we will have 50 per cent more members present than have ever before attended a convention of this association.

Now, in regard to the question as to raise to Salt Lake City. It was stated today that it cost some $98.00 from New York to Salt Lake City. We are not going to pay that kind of rates—not while Mr. Clara and some of our other friends are in New York at one end of the line, Mr. Moore, of Los Angeles, at the other, and myself in the middle. I am assured by the representatives of the Western railroads that we will have less than one-fare rate from Chicago to Salt Lake City, and I assume that my friends in the East will take care of the other end of the line.

The question has been further considered in regard to holding an international meeting. When I heard this report of the committee this evening, it reminded me of the missionaries that go out to try and convert the heathen Chinese into Christendom, when there are so many at their own fireside who need their attention and prayerful consideration. I find, Mr. Chairman, in looking over this old report, that this convention has never been west of the Missouri river. Kansas City is the farthest west that they have ever been. We have have a country of something like 2,000 miles in width, and for twenty-three long years this convention has been held in the eastern half of the United States. How do you expect to gain membership in the West? I don't know that the gentlemen here have ever thought, in looking at the map, in fact, I never thought of it myself with any degree of force until today. There (indicating on a map) is the part of the United States where the twenty-three conventions of this association have been held and here (indicating again) are the eighteen great states and territories of the great West, that have never had the honor of having a convention in one of their cities. I don't ask you to go to the Pacific coast. I ask you to come the Rocky Mountains and come down into the beautiful valley of Utah, and hold one convention, and we will try and get the states east and south of the Missouri river to be represented on such an occasion.

I am pleased to say to you in extending this invitation, that we will get up a special train from New York City. We won't have one car coming along on one train, and one on another. If you have selected the proper officers (and I assume you have), and will place the proper men in charge of this, we will have a train that will come from New York City to Salt Lake City exclusively for the purpose of carrying the Eastern delegation to the "City of Saints." And my friends in Colorado, one of whom is here this evening, have assured me that should the ladies wish to go to Pike's Peak they will carry a train to the top of the mountains for them, and it will not cost them anything for it either. So far as the entertainments there are concerned, I covered that last year, and I don't think it necessary to offer anything additional. I will say, before taking my seat, that if there are any other objections to going to the West, I reserve the right to make a reply.

Salt Lake, Duluth, Reading and Portland were the candidates for favor and the city got a majority of all the votes cast on the first ballot, and it was announced that the convention of '96 would be held here.

Troubled With Periodical Dysentery.

Henry P. Silvera, of Lucea, Jamaica, West India Islands, says: "About my recovery from an attack of dysentery, some ten years ago, it comes on suddenly at times and makes me very weak. A neighbor of mine recommended Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy taken in a little water gives me immediate relief. I could get a dozen testimonials from people in this place who have been cured by this remedy."

Subject to Attacks of Chatres Mochus

While staying in the Delta (Mississippi bottoms) last summer, E. T. Moss, representing Ludlow, Saylor, Wire Co., of St. Louis, suffered from malaria and became subject to attacks of cholera morbus. In every instance when attacked he was relieved at if by magic, by using Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I regard it as the 'ne plus ultra' of medicines."

Human life is held too cheaply when the individual who needs a tonic for his system, seeks to cover his wants by purchasing every new mixture that is recommended to him. Remember that Ayer's Sarsaparilla has a well-earned reputation of fifty years' standing.

Ayer's Hair Vigor, which has outlived and survived hundreds of similar preparations, is undoubtedly the most fashionable as well as economical hair-dressing in the market. By its use, the scurvy head of hair soon becomes luxuriant and beautiful.

Dandruff forms when the glands of the skin are weakened, and if neglected, baldness is sure to follow. Hall's Hair Renewer is the best preventative.

Where did I get this dreadful cough? No matter; the great question is, How could I get rid of it? Use THE PINEOLA BALSAM, a soothing combination of the remedies nature has put in the pine and other balsamic trees. It cures the inflammation and tickling in the throat and if taken in time will prevent the spread of the disease to the lungs. Bip's Pineola Balsam is strongly recommended in cases of asthma. Twenty-five cents is the price. Tell the neighbors about it.

ANOTHER RAMBLER DAY.

The Rambler boys made a great showing in the Cullen races. The first event of the day was the ten mile road race, in which McCauley finished third, taking third prize, and third time prize. They came the track race. Joe Davis taking second in the novice, Fowler first, Waite second, and Chadwick third in the mile novelty, class B, all "Ramblers" you will note. In the half mile class A, May took second, Carter third. Half mile, class B, Taeltner second, Fowler third. Five mile, class B, Fowler second. In this race a mule ran in a yelling and his head and fell. Cornelison and Waite being immediately behind him, the result was a spill for three petitions and the rest had to Evans. The five mile, class A, was another Rambler event, May taking first, Joe Davis second and McCauley third. Fourteen prizes for one day is glory enough for any one.

Points may reach and people may see,
And days may hold of fair prizes,
But Gardner's win races and wins every day,
Regardless of how others rise.

Moral—Buy a Rambler. Ride a winner and you'll be a spinner.
