TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

NO. 70. TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1894. SALT LAKE CITY UTAH. VOL. XXVII.

THE UTAH INDIANS.

Rawlins' Bill Before the Committee on Indian Affairs.

HOW TO SOLVE THE PROBLEM.

Four Million Acres of Land Now Held by the Utahs and Uncompahgres.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The problem of settling the Utahs and Uncompahgre Indians of Utah has engaged the attention of the House committee on Indian affairs for some time.

Rawlins, Utah, has a bill before the committee by which the Indians will be given lands in severalty, eighty acres for each head of family, and forty acres each for the others. He proposes that the remainder of the land be thrown open to settlement, the settler to be allowed 160 acres at $1.25. Mineral lands and lands containing timber of commercial value, will be excluded from the plan and governed by existing laws. The Utahs hold 2,000,000 acres, and the Uncompahgres 1,700,000, or 1,600 acres for each Indian.

Out in the Storm.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 12.—The Milwaukee steamer Kamoke, from Milwaukee for Grand Haven, Mich., was out in yesterday's storm, and for her safety grave fears were entertained. She had thirty persons on board and has arrived safely.

A Scientific Expedition.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 12.—Dr. Merz, of Harvard College observatory will start an expedition to Arizona to locate a new observatory station. A. E. Douglas, assistant in the Cambridge observatory, will leave before the other members of the expedition, in order to make experiments. It will first stop at Prescott and at Phoenix. The station will be for a national investigation.

The New Sub.

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 12.—There were anxious watchers all night on the light on the Crib at the lake end of the new water works tunnel on which twenty men would be at the mercy of the wind and waves, should the structure give way. When daylight came it showed the crib still intact and warmth brought a sigh of relief. A boat will be sent out as soon as the sea subsides.

A boat with three men came ashore this morning. They are now on the way to the city to report the condition of the others.

They report that the men suffered no inconvenience.

IN VAILLANT'S FOOTSTEPS.

Bretonc, the New Hero of Bandemonium Anarchists.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—Leon Bretonc, the anarchist waiter who threw the bomb in the cafe of the Hotel Terminus last night, appeared in the police court this morning. He carried himself with the almost efficiency. When asked if he had ever appeared in a police court before, he replied: "It is not my custom to frequent such places." In answer to further questions he said he fired at the police, because they chased him with drawn swords. One of the police interrupted him by saying the police was trying to save him from being torn to pieces by the mob when he fired. "That proves," retorted Bretonc, "that the people are a wretched lot. In any case, whether I die now or two months later does not matter a straw to me." The prisoner then assumed a coarse, chaffing tone and seemed to glory in the notoriety achieved. He wounded twenty or more with the bomb and hit five with revolver shots. Among the injured are Bech, the architect of the chamber of deputies, wounded in arms and legs; Van Hver, eight wounds in legs, and Michael, wounded by a shell.

Crowds surround the cafe, the interior of which looks as if swept by a cyclone.

GOOD NEWS.

Sure signs of Increased Business Activity.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The reports of the internal revenue the first ten days of the present month show $1,[illegible], against $4,014,804 the corresponding period last year. Treasury officials regard this as a sure sign of returning business activity. Its significance is increased by the fact that since the beginning of the fiscal year till now the internal revenue has constantly decreased.

SEVENTEEN MEN ENTOMBED.

But Little Hope of Getting Them Out Alive.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 12.—An extensive cave-in occurred at Gaylord Slope of the Kingston Coal company, at Plymouth, this morning. Seventeen men were entombed. Rescuers are hard at work; but there is little hope of getting them out alive.

Nearly all the men entombed have large families and there are congregated round the pit's mouth piteous and distressing cries. One man who escaped by a hair's breadth reports that after the fall of the roof he heard the men groaning. Then all was still. It is believed that all that were caught in the fall are dead. The following are the names of the men cut off: Thomas Leyshon, Allen Welsh, Pete McLoughlin, John Arnot, Dan Morgan, Joe Orda, Thomas Fisher, Thos. Jones, Richard Davis, John Morris, Jas. Kingdon, T. Morrison.

THE BRIDGE DEAD.

CAEN, Feb. 12.—Von Bulow, the distinguished German pianist, is dead, aged 64.

Escaped From Jail.

RICHMOND, Ind., Feb. 12.—Calvin Armstrong, the Union county deputy treasurer, convicted of embezzling $42,000 of the county's funds, escaped jail here last night. He was not missed till this morning. He was to have been taken to the penitentiary this morning. He had accomplices outside.

Conference Adjourned.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The conference of Pacific road men and Interstate commerce commission has adjourned for thirty days pending the presentation of forms of schedules to the roads not represented in the meeting.

Its Work.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Fifty workmen imprisoned in a foot temporary waterworks crib, four miles out in the lake, through the blizzard all day yesterday and last night, were reached by a tug this morning. The crib connection being carried away by the waves. The men got out the lines and the men suffered severely from cold.

WIND, RAIN, SNOW AND ICE.

Further Reports of the Damage from Various Places.

The Storm Telegraphed by Delighted Readers in Nebraska—The Traffic Resumed.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 12.—Advices to the Associated Press from various points of Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama report very severe wind and rain storms. Houses, fences and barns are blown down, the streams are swollen, carrying away bridges and doing other damage.

EVILE SNOWING.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 12.—The snowstorm here continues, with a bitter, biting wind from the northeast. The snow is nearly a foot deep on the level and it has drifted to many feet in places. The trains are moving with the utmost difficulty.

CLEAR AND COLD.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 12.—Advices from all parts of Missouri, Southern Illinois, Northern Arkansas and contiguous territory say that yesterday's storm has been replaced by clear, cold weather. The traffic is rapidly resuming a normal condition.

DESCRIPTIVELY WARM.

OMAHA, Feb. 12.—The big storm has passed and the weather is delightfully warm; all suspended traffic has been resumed.

AT AN END.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—The blizzard is at an end in this region and the traffic is being rapidly resumed, though the trains from the East are considerably delayed still.

FIFTEEN INCHES DEEP.

GLOVERSVILLE, N.Y., Feb. 12.—The storm continues, and the snow is fifteen inches deep.

IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—The blizzard is still raging. It reached its height at 3 o'clock this morning and has slightly abated since. It was the severest in years. The snow is seven inches deep and the street car lines are blockaded, telegraph and telephone wires are down. Many schools are closed and general traffic is impossible. The railroads south and east are blocked or more or less badly delayed. Many steamers are out and are anxiously looked for. The storm was severest in southern New England.

SNOWING WORSE.

ASHBURY PARK, N. J., Feb. 12.—Heavy wind and snow have nearly paralyzed all traffic. It is growing worse.

NOT A BLIZZARD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—While the storm here is quite severe, it is not a blizzard and no serious damage is reported. The trains are very much delayed.

THE STORM OVER.

The passenger and freight traffic has gradually resumed its normal condition. Most of the trains are running about on time, but on the central branches of the Santa Fe the snow plows have not been able to force a passage.

WORK FOR THE UNEMPLOYED.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 12.—The storm is over. Five hundred men are at work removing the snow from the streets.

MORE FATALITIES.

GETTIER, O. T., Feb. 12.—The worst of the blizzard is over and business is being resumed. Besides the two families reported frozen near Cross, an unknown man was found dead. Near the Pawnee agency and south of Cleveland a family of three perished. Two Tonquawa Indians were found dead in a hut and three Indian children perished near Anadarko. Many other fatalities are rumored. Thousands of cattle perished.

A Johnstown Hero Dead.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 12.—Hon. James B. Scott, dictator at Johnstown after the flood, and one of the most prominent iron manufacturers of Pittsburg died this afternoon.

NO CHANGE.

England's Silver Policy Will Continue Hostile.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The house of commons was thronged today in anticipation of an important movement against the house of lords.

Herbert, replying to a question by Goschen, said there was no intention of reopening the India mints or returning to the minimum rate for council bills. There was also no intention to place a tax on the importation of silver or to change in the present Indian policy was contemplated.

Meeting of Newspaper Men.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—A special car attached to the Pennsylvania limited left this afternoon with a distinguished party of newspaper proprietors and publishers, who were bound the annual meeting of the Associated Press in Chicago tomorrow. The party embraces representatives of the leading papers in Philadelphia, New York, Baltimore and Washington. Others from New York and New England will go West by other routes. The meeting will unquestionably be the largest and most representative gathering of newspaper owners and editors ever assembled in the United States.

IN CONGRESS.

Resumption of the Debate on Hawaiian Matters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The Speaker laid before the House the Hawaiian message from the President, communicated yesterday. It was read and referred to the foreign affairs committee.

The debate on the Bland silver seigniorage bill was then resumed.

THE SENATE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The bill making the first Monday of September, Labor day, a legal holiday was reported from the committee on executive and passed on Mr. Gray (Del.) moved his argument on the Hawaiian question.

He reiterated the statements of yesterday that the revolutionary leaders were not willing to carry out their plans until assured of support from the United States forces, and read an affidavit in which it was deposed that John H. Soper, now commander of the national military at Honolulu, had at first declined to accept the command, but afterwards accepted, saying, "I have had satisfactory assurances from the old man himself, Minister Stevens, that the American forces will give their support and I intend to take a hand." The Senator proceeded to argue that the provisional government could not have stood one hour without the support of the United States forces.

Its Guns Wounded.

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 12.—Admiral De Gama, commander of the rebel fleet, was wounded in the neck and arm by bullets during the battle of the Armacoes on Friday, and is now in a critical condition. Every effort is being made to save his life.

In Favor of Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The House committee on judiciary has decided to report favoring a resolution for investigation into the course of Judge Jackson in restraining the employes of the Northern Pacific from quitting work. The vote in the committee stood 7 to 6. Senator Vilas, Wis., appeared before the committee and urged that the matter was so important that it should not be considered without legal advice, because of the apparent conflict between the legislative and judicial branches of the government.

On a Strike.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 12.—Three thousand river coal miners are on strike against the reduction of half a cent per bushel in their pay.

Destroyed by Fire.

BATH, Maine, Feb. 12.—A fire destroyed the Bath iron works this morning. The loss is $120,000, partly insured.

Indians for the Fair.

Special Telegram to the NEWS.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 12.—Dan Hogan, editor of the Omaha Sunday News, passed through Cheyenne today in charge of nine Brule Sioux Indians, consisting of eight bucks and a squaw, which he was taking to the Midwinter Fair. These Indians will be placed on exhibition in connection with Mauvaly's famous painting, "Custer's Last Raid."

Silver in London.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Bar silver 29⅞ d.

Chicago Wheat Market.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—Without any special bearish influences except a heavy covering of snow in the winter wheat belt, wheat made a new low record today. May opened at 58½ or ⅛ lower than at close on Saturday. It soon sold off to 58¼, the lowest point ever touched in the market. Later, on some buying the price rose to 58⅝.

Mint Superintendent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The President has nominated Eugene Townsend superintendent of the Philadelphia mint.

Crushed in a Falling Barn.

DEBLER, Feb. 12.—A barn near the Fraser Alley, in which a number of school children sought shelter during a hurricane today, was blown down. Five children were killed and a number injured.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE ENGINE.—That very excellent, patriotic, and sensational play, The Knight, came back to Salt Lake last night, and the company of hard working and capable players most have opened their eyes at the difference; they beheld in theatrical patronage now and that which greeted them on their last appearance here. Then they happened to run into a Conference week, and the treasury of the business office was overflowing, though the seats in a buggy. Lines called when the man to hail, but he did not heed him, and Lione fired. He held his gun in an elevated position and was shot from Rilmer at twenty yards distant from Leonard. Lione followed Leonard and fired the second time.

In cross-examination, witness stated that Lione, when under arrest, said he was sorry it he hit Leonard, and that he did not mean to do so. A very short time intervened between the discharge of the revolvers.

Coroner Mont G. Taylor stated that he had had considerable experience in the use of firearms. A bullet discharged from a rifle coming in contact with any object would be easily deflected from its course.

The next witness to be called was Private Sheffield, who is jointly indicted with Lione for the killing of Leonard, but as Judge Powers (who has been retained to defend him) was not present, his examination was temporarily deferred, and C. Crosier, clerk at Fort Douglas, was upon the stand. He testified that he was in the Midwinter Fair. These Indians will be placed on exhibition in connection with Mauvaly's famous painting, "Custer's Last Raid."

Then they happened to run into a Conference week, and the treasury of the business office was overflowing, though the seats cost no more than half as much as dollar prices of admission. Last night they had only a fair audience, with the heaviest patronage and of course the most enthusiastic enthusiasm in the upper regions. The show is as strong as it ever was with the single exception of the President Lincoln, who this time is not nearly as effective as Logan Paul was before. Mr. Edwards is the hero and the lady who assumed the heroine, were the best members of the company, which was quite good throughout. The scenery, and especially the ship scene, was excellent. The Knight goes for the second time tonight.

THE MONDAY night club entertained a large audience in the basement of the Congregational church last night, where a Bohemian theater has been fitted up. Two of Howell's pieces, A Letter Story and Evening Dress were done in a way that created much laughter, the polar for acting was called "B" Miss Therese in one piece and by Miss Kate in the other, while all the characters vied with each other in their charming and natural delineating.

LINSE'S TRIAL TODAY

For the Alleged Murder of Joseph W. Leonard Last June.

SHEFFIELD'S TURN COMES NEXT.

Case for the Prosecution—Taylor's Bonds.—The Morning in Judge Rolich's Court.

The trial of Sergeant Frederick Lione on a charge of murder in the first degree, viz., the killing of Joseph W. Leonard, at Fort Douglas, on June 11th, 1893, was resumed this morning in Chief Justice Merritt's court. The prosecution is represented by Assistant District Attorney Howell; Attorneys C. S. Varian and Robert W. Young appear for the defendant.

It was nearly four o'clock yesterday afternoon when a jury had been secured, as follows: Robert Walters, A. H. Parker, R. T. Vanzier, Davis Pack, John Duncan, H. A. Ferguson, Geo. S. Bailey, F. J. Johnson, A. C. Boyle, John Lees, Willard Allen and John Hart.

Several witnesses had been called by the prosecution up to the time of the ruling of the court for one day.

The first witnesses called this morning were Sergeant Wm. Grell and Private Edward Daniels. The latter said that on the day of the tragedy he heard Lieut. Rock order Lione to shoot Leonard, who was driving through the Fort in a buggy. Lione called after the man to halt, but he did not heed him, and Lione fired. He held his gun in an elevated position and was shot from Rilmer at twenty yards distant from Leonard. Lione followed Leonard and fired the second time.

In cross-examination, witness stated that Lione, when under arrest, said he was sorry it he hit Leonard, and that he did not mean to do so. A very short time intervened between the discharge of the revolvers.

Coroner Mont G. Taylor stated that he had had considerable experience in the use of firearms. A bullet discharged from a rifle coming in contact with any object would be easily deflected from its course.
