THE MINING MARKET.

The First Whitewash for the Month On Change Today.

QUOTATIONS REMAIN STATIONARY.

Mining Notes From the Tintic District—Condition of the Gold Queen and Yankee Properties.

To all appearances the brokers tried hard to create business in the city of the exchange today, but their efforts nevertheless proved futile as not a single sale was recorded. For the month of October it is the first cut and out whitewash that the board gives place to. Quotations on the stocks, however, remained in good condition, which is an indication that things are not going backwards at any rate.

Smith Dewsnee made an advance in the asking to $1.15, while bidding for the stock was strong at 95 cents, somewhat reserved bids of $2, but there were no bidders in the pit who cared to sell, thus no offering of the stock was made. Mercur of the listed class remained stationary and was an offering at $8.25 with $8 bid. Silver King was bid for at $13.75 with no offerings.

The closing figures were as follows:

TINTIC MINING NEWS.

What the Mammoth Record says of Work in the Sisters.

Work in the Stock-Ajax tunnel continues right along at the rate of about seven feet every twenty-four hours in unchanging gravel. Friday of last week 1,160 feet on the tape was recorded.

The employes at the large mines on the north side have agreed to contribute one day's work to the cause of silver. We believe the composition should in every instance consent to duplicate the amount from their strong hold.

The Shoebridge Bonanza is developing some wonderful good ground in the lower front of the present workings. The remaining of the level from the bottom of the shaft, and cut into the body of high grade ore that promises great values as soon as opened up.

The Ajax has opened a fine body of silver gold ore in the end of the main drift which increases in extent as it values as work progresses. On Thursday the company began hoisting the old Uppendpole dump which was awarded them in their recent litigation. This dump contains from 1,500 to 2,000 tons of ore and we are told by one to the contrary matter, and it will run to be worth from $8 to $12 per ton net.

The Lower Mammoth subcontract 400 feet since never and making good progress in favorable rock. Several small stringers of quartz cut gave assay values recently were cut, and the management is well satisfied that an additional twenty feet will lay them to the great ore body in question for the couplage. Lumber is being hauled upon the ground to build a hoisting house and assay office, and all necessary preparations are being made for an active winter campaign.

The employes of the Mammoth mine and mill have just made a contribution of about $400 to the Bullionite league of the county, and it is gratifying good literature among the benighted and tuge of the East. Supt. Nesbit and big foreman Mary Boyd caused the hat with $10 cents.

Yesterday the East Tintic railroad company put on their hard ore car. They now move no no excess of about the rate of ore from the Mammoth mine to their mill each day. The facilities for loading the crushed product from the bins at the mine is perfection itself. Three empty cars were backed under the chutes and loaded and started down the grade yesterday in just three minutes. There is a 20,000 tons storage capacity at the mill which is gradually being filled.

Improvements on a large scale continue at the Mammoth mine. The excavation for the foundation of the new hoisting plant is nearing completion, and a tramway for hauling materials and machinery from the new railroad to the site of the new plant on the mountain side will be put in at once, and the building and machinery will all be in place before the winter sets in. The forty-horse power double action engine has been set on the 300 level of the shaft and sinking the winze from the 1,500 is making good headway. While on the surface, excavation is under way to move another 10-ton Blake-Marion tower, making a twin steam capacity of 100 horse power to send ores to the future plant. The Mammoth is a wonderful mine.

SHIPPING ORE AGAIN.

The Sunbeam in Tintic Has Fallen Into Line with the Producers.

Of the Sunbeam mine, a property which is now coming into prominence again, the Inter-Mountain Mining Review says:

The old Sunbeam mine, the oldest one here in Silver City in the Tintic district, which for a number of years has been laid on the shelf with all its neighbors, has again resumed the ore shipper. Its story is identical with all the old tenantes of Silver City which is now claimed by many to be the best district of any of the many camps on the famous Tintic mineral belt. The Sunbeam had an immense body of carbonates near the surface, and when this was exhausted and the sulphides reached operations ceased and the Sunbeam entered the list which for years formed the Ajax, the Swansea, the Shoebridge-Bonanza, the Four Aces, the South Swansea, and many others. Some months ago work was resumed on the Sunbeam, the property having been incorporated by a number of local railroad men who saw in the performance of the Swansea a lesson as to the possibilities. Results to a confirmation of their conjectures, and the one time shunning objection to the sulphide ores being removed the property is again an active producer. Its initial shipment under the new management was made last Friday, and consisted of twenty tons.

The incident may appear trivial but there are many properties in Silver City that have the same past history as the Sunbeam, and only need rejuvenation with capital to again become producers.

The Gold Queen Mine.

In speaking of the Gold Queen mine on Gold mountain, the Hinsdale Advocate says that it at present promises to be one of the best things in that district. There is a tunnel there now 100 feet long on a fourteen ledge of silver carrying rock whose last assays show $8 to the ton in gold and $2 in silver. Values all signs all the way will continue to widen and its value to increase. The Gold Queen is the property of H. W. Hamilton, T. T. Bean and other Hinsdale gentlemen, who also own the Manchester, a very fair proposition in the same district. Some time ago good specimens were found on top of a steep hill. A shaft was sunk a short distance and there this was struck and for a thousand feet at the west level Sam Hess Wilson was given the contract of driving the tunnel. In one end he has just finished the job, having struck the looked-for mine at a distance of eighty-eight feet. The vein is a foot wide and carries five feet wide and seven feet of quartz that has every indication of being rich. Samples of it were taken by Mr. Hamilton to Salt Lake last Friday, and if the expected returns are made the Hamilton will be pushed to no time this year.

Rise and Rumor.

Bumbing ore sold on the market yesterday netted the owners $112.50 a ton.

It is intimated and reported that the building at the Golden Gate mill will commence at an early date.

Several Salt Lakers are interesting themselves in the Mode river gold placers in Idaho. Men who know say it is a good thing.

Rockfield Advocate: James Long was down from Gold Mountain a few days last week. He showed up his property in fine shape. Mr. Long is driving a tunnel towards a vein of gold quartz that he hopes will prove one of the richest propositions on the hill.

CAPTAIN DONOVAN RESIGNS.

Will Leave the Fallon Force October 31 to Go to Other Business.

A ripple of surprise was created in police circles this afternoon when Captain John J. Donovan tendered his resignation to take effect October 31.

The reason given is that his expects to go into other business. The nature of this business was not stated and the captain could not be seen before press time. There is much speculation among the rank and file of the force as to who his successor will be. As yet it is a little too early to prognosticate.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Ogden Street Car Company's Barn Totally Destroyed.

Ogden Standard: Exactly at 1 o'clock this morning fire broke out at the large frame barn just south of the power house of the Ogden street railway company on Washington avenue, the result being the complete destruction of the building and its contents, and considerable damage to the roof of the power house.

The alarm was turned in by Joe Herriman when the fire broke through the roof and was discovered by him, it was at a late hour in the night of the building. The fire department promptly responded to the call, but by the time hose was laid the structure was a seething mass of flame, and all hopes of saving it were abandoned.

The fire was spreading rapidly on the roof of the power house and the department turned their attention to it, and after repeated efforts succeeded in quenching it, but not before damage amounting to $500 or $600 had been done. Three horses were stabled in the barn and they together with three wagons, several sets of harness, fifty-odd sets of oats and some other goods were totally destroyed. The building was occupied by the Water Works company, the contents belonging to them, but owned by the street car company.

The structure was 100x50 feet and it is understood it was not insured. The entire damage is roughly estimated at $2,000. The origin of the fire is unknown.

AMUSEMENTS.

The English version of Hadon's Napoleonic play, Mme. Sans Gene, will be presented for the first time in this city at the Theater this evening. Aside from Napoleon, the chief figure is Catherine Hubscher, the laundry girl who married Lefebvre, soldiered with him his honors when he became marshal of France and Duke of Dantzig. The scene of the prologue is in Catherine's laundry in Paris during the French revolution. The street without is filled with shouting soldiers and revolutionists. Catherine is engaged in laundering, who is a sergeant in the army, and one of her comrades is Napoleon, who is obliged to ask Catherine for credit. Nineteen years later the scene shifts to the palace of Fontainebleau, where the first act, and Napoleon was then at the height of his power. His sisters become angry at Madame Sans Gene, and the emperor orders her husband to divorce her. She pleads her own cause so well that she receives a high place in Napoleon's favor. Kathryn Kidder, who essays the part of Madame Sans Gene was highly honored during her visit to California. General Graham of the Presidio entertaining her at the fort with military honors including a ball honors accorded by the post band. A sumptuous dinner was given in her honor and the evening was spent at the theater where the general and his officers were the guests of Miss Kidder. Mary Anderson is the only other actress who has received a like distinction.

Grand—The same hilarious laughter and applause greet the performance at the Grand that characterized the opening performance of the week. The double bill has taken immensely with numerous visitors and the people have caused a scale of admission to appear on the box of Manager Rogers.

Lyceum. — Prof. Bristol's animal show seems to be brutally revolting upon the people and the attendance at the Lyceum continues very good. The horses are wonderful in their actions and the black mule "Dewey" is a great clown creating an out of amusement. The Saturday matinee will no doubt test the capacity to fine to-day.

BE WORKED IT SLICK.

A Young Man Released from Charges and Gets His Liberty.

George Chewning, who keeps a store on the corner of Fifth East and Ninth South street, was arrested several days ago on the instigation of his wife, on forging and stealing bed.

While Chewning was awaiting a retirement on that charge, Lorenzo Clayton Glass stepped into the small lock and swore to a complaint charging him for opening a mysterious establishment without a license. To both of these the defendant pleaded not guilty and his cases were set for trial. As an alibi to the charge of stealing the bedding Chewning was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

Mr. Chewning apparently made good use of his liberty so when he appeared in court today he informed his honor that he had paid the losses and that the wife that he was related to appear against him. In the light of these circumstances and a strong desire of the court to get rid of the fellow he was discharged, for which he offered his sincere thanks.

A Little Pounding.

A Pike boarding or unknown paintings was seen on the doorstep of Mr. and Mrs. Brig Stone last evening. The Mormon was in the eastern part of the city and have been married for several years. Up to the present they have had no evidence of their own and when they were informed of wedding gifts came to them as it did, they gladly took it in. They will give it a good home. The bride is a girl and apparently not more than two days old.

While thus engaged the Maori became to take an interest in his labors to the Gospel message and the work among the people begun. There were many baptisms to contend with during the days, but they were blessed in their efforts and had the pleasure of seeing the truth thereof.

Said that the experiences of his second mission were more in eating for those who are now within the fold, though the work is spreading and the numbers increasing until now there are upward of 3,000 members. The Elders have been much blessed in their labors, and the mission is improving. Said that it was just quite a work is being done among the Europeans in New Zealand and Australia. This is the complaint of thousands at this season. They have no appetite; food does not relish. Then comes the taking of the nearest red digestive organ, which is some of Hood's Sarsaparilla or Hood's Pills.
