ILLINOIS TRAGEDY VIVIDLY RETOLD

Tabernacle Speakers Dwell Upon The Martyrdom of Joseph And Hyrum Smith.

STRONG PARALLELS DRAWN.

Elders Seymour B. Young and Joseph W. McMurrin Address a Large Congregation.

The large congregation that assembled at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon was addressed by President Seymour B. Young and Joseph W. McMurrin, of the First council of seventy. The former dwelt principally upon the events leading up to and culminating in the marttyrdom of the Prophet Joseph Simth and Patriarch Hyrum Smith, while Elder McMurrin drew a parallel between the manner in which the message of the Redeemer was received, and that of the restoration of the gospel in latter times.

The services were conducted by President John R. Winder. Patriarch Angus M. Cannon offered the invocation and Elder John Henry Smith, of the council of the apostles, pronounced the benediction. The selections rendered by the choir were "Awake ye saints awake," "Though deep'ning trials throng your way," and "O come let us sing unto the Lord."

ELDER SEYMOUR B. YOUNG.

Sixty-three years ago, on Thursday last, said Elder Young, the Prophet Joseph Smith and his brother, Hyrum the patriarch, were slain by a wicked band of men. The event should be kept green in the memory of the Latter Saints, because of the great sacrifices made by the martyrs in behalf of their people. The speaker recited briefly the incidents leading up to the founding of the city of Nauvoo, the peace that prevailed for a time and the terrible scenes that followed. In 1844 Joseph Smith was mayor of the city, and upon instruction of the municipal authorities a libelous publication known as the Nauvoo Expositor was abated as a nuisance. The mayor was arrested for disturbing the peace in connection with the matter, was tried before two different justices of the peace, one a non-Mormon, and found not guilty by both. He was again placed under arrest upon the same charge, but after going to Carthage, a new complaint, was sworn to, charging Joseph and Hyrum Smith with treason.

It was while awaiting trial upon the last named complaint that the brothers were foully murdered. The prophet had known what would be the result of his going to Carthage, and had expressed a wish that his brother should not be a victim of the tragedy, but the patriarch was determined to remain with the prophet, even unto death.

Elder Young said that he well remembered the bringing home to Nauvoo of the bodies of the martyrs, the incidents of the funeral and the grief of the people being indelibly stamped upon his memory. The two leaders had given their lives for their friends, and "greater love hath no man than that he should lay down his life for his friend."

Elder Young then told the story of the first visions of the boy Joseph Smith and explained some of the principles that he gave forth to the world. The Book of Mormon was revealed by an angel and its truth-inspiring words confirmed the teachings of the Old and New Testaments. Salvation both for the living and the dead was again taught among men and temporal laws as well as spiritual laws were given for man's welfare. The truth in its fullness was proclaimed by the Prophet Joseph Smith, and those who believe in the divinity of his mission should by word, thought and deed live up to their professions.

ELDER JOSEPH W. M'MURRIN.

The theme of the previous speaker's remarks was taken up and followed by Elder McMurrin. It is appropriate, he said, especially at this period of the year, to have brought fresh to mind the tragedy at Carthage. The scenes there and at Calvary were in many respects much the same. In both instances priest and people alike reviled and gloated over the bloody deeds, while few were the mourners and sympathizers with the hapless victims. But as the blood of the Master had proved to be the seed of the Church, so history had repeated itself, and though Joseph Smith was put to death, his doctrines did not die.

Mormonism is not a myth, but a soul-saving work, declared the speaker. The divine message is to all the world, and it cannot be stayed. The glad tidings are being carried to the ends of the earth, and the honest of the nations are being gathered. In conclusion, Elder McMurrin bore testimony of the divinity of the gospel and urged upon all adherence to the same.

The daily routine is, rise at 6.30 a. m., calesthenics in front of the tents, flag raising at 7 a. m., Bible study until 7.45 a. m., breakfast at 8 a. m., and camp fire in the evening, before turning in.
