Washington, Feb. 15 .- An agreement to vote tomorrow on the conference report on the immigration bill, which includes the provision intended to settie the California Japanese question, was reached in the senate today as the result of an entire day of discussion upon that measure.

upon that measure. The principal speeches were deliv-reed by Senators Bacon and Tillman in opposition to what they regarded as an effort to prevent the south from getting a desirable class of immigrants. Senator Tillman's remarks on the Jap-anese situation brought a warning from Senator Lodge that if continued ne-should move that the discussion pro-ceed behind closed doors. International references were not made afterward by Senator Tillman. Senator Gailinger expressed surprises that the conference should contend that they had not injected "new" matter-int the conference report, and Sena-tor Carter said he should vote against the report entirely on that ground, and predicted its defeat. SPECIAL SESSION PREDICTED. Senator Lodge made free predictions of a special session of Congress in onse of the failure of immigration legis-lation. When asked if the president had recommended an extra session, Mr. Lodge replied that he had not made such a statement to him. Mr. Lodge maintained that if the such a statement to a state which call the session of a state and cooling system was to be ex-tended, there was not a state which cagney, with funds provided by the railroads and manufacturers, introduce any number of contract laborers. The present bill stemgthened the contract labor law, he was glad of it. He had no doubt that many states would be quick to take advantage of the South Carolina ruling. Mr. Bacon disclaimed any intention other than to make a legitlimate dis-cussion of the question, but indicated the deemed necessary. He expressed re-spice that the Pacific coast provision amendments. It was not necessary to have resorted to this expedient. He believed a separate measure could have received a unanimous vote in the sen-tion. MIMPATHY FOR THE SOUTH.

SYMPATHY FOR THE SOUTH.

Senator Gallinger expressed sym-athy for the situation in the south and sustained Mr. Bacon's contention hat the situation was one of embar-rassment, as he should feel compelled to vote for the report because of the Pacific coast provision. Mr. Bacon hen entered upon a detailed discussion of the amendment to which he object-t, saying that it utterly nullified the resent construction of the law. Mr. Bacon concluded shortly before o'clock and Mr. Tillman at once took e floor. He began a discussion of the uth Carolina system, but indicated this main purpose was to review other part of the conference report. TILLMAN TAKES FLOOR. Senator Gallinger expressed sym-

"I will vote for an exclusion act to-morrow which will keep the Japanese out," he added. "I do not see why there should be a prejudice against them, yet I am willing to keep them out if it brings war."

Senator Lodge arose at this. "If," he said, in a low tone, "we are going to discuss that question, I think we ought to do so behind closed doors."

to do so behind closed doors." "I am perfectly willing to go behind closed doors," Mr. Tillman responded. "Perhaps I can get a heart-to-heart talk with some people who will not stay here and listen, but who have got or-ders from the White House that this report has got to go through." Mr. Rayner asked if a discussion of the legal phases would not be permit-ted in open session. There was not the slightest objection to this consideration, Mr. Lodge an-swered. "But," he continued, "there are certain phases which all senators will see ought not to be discussed in public."

PIGEON-TOEING AROUND.

"If we have got to pigeon-toe around here," asserted Mr. Tillman, "and can-not discuss our national issues, we have got to a desperate pass." "I don't desire to go into secret ses-sion on any other phases of the bill, as the senator well knows," said Mr. Lodge. "But the two are involved." insisted

"A vote taken on this question." continued Mr. Carter, "will in my judgment, result in the defeat of the conference report." He had reached this conclusion after consult-ing with many of his colleagues. While it might be extremely important to enact the desired clause regarding passports, he said, he deemed it of vitally more importance that the pro-cedure of the senate in enacting the laws of the country should be preserv-ed. To do otherwise would be to es-tablish a precedent which would be extremely dangerous in the future. This statement brought Mr. Tillman to the conclusion of his speech ab-ruptly with this statement: "After such a clear, forceful, unanswerable presentation of what I have been try-ing to say, I quit." Senator Culberson endeavored to get the vice president to submit to the senate for a vote the point of order made yesterday by Mr. Tillman against the passport amendment, but this the chair declined to do. Mr. Patterson then secured unani-mous consent for a vote on the con-ference report before adjournment to-morrow, the discussion to be resumed

During the debate a member of the cabinet who was on the floor told cer-tain senators that the subject of state immigration had received the atten-tion of the cabinet at its meeting to-day, and that there had been a gen-eral conclusion that the terms of the bill would not require a new ruling in the South Carolina case.

encouragement to desirable immigrants to the south, and he believed the gov-erhment would do well to spend one hundred million dollars for that pur-pose. The south was to be discrimin-ated against, he maintained, because the senator from Massachusetts had a large number of highly respectable con-stituents, who were opposed to the arge number of nighty respectable con-stituents who were opposed to the southern states getting immigrants un-less they got them from the slums of the northern cities. The south did not want this sort of "scum and riff-raff." Mr. Lodge was questioned closely to ascertain just what he construed to be the effect of the bill.

"Does it mean that a state agent cannot go abroad and secure immigra-tion?" asked Mr. Tillman. "It means he cannot use other than state funds for that purpose," an-

"Suppose the state should pay the passage of an immigrant and then some one should come along and reimburse the state?" asked Mr. Tillman, who added: "There are more ways than on-to beat the devil around the stump, and the senator from Massachusetts knows just as well as anybody else how to do it." "That might be one way." answered Mr. Lodge, who added that he did not think it ought to be done. Mr. Tillman, discussing the Japanese proposition, maintained that in plac-ing the proposition in the report the conferees had exceeded their authority. conferees had exceeded their authority. He had been informed that the con-ferees themselves had not drawn the Japanese amendment, but it was the work of Secy. Root. Of course, he add-ed, the conferees could deny if it was not correct. Senator Culberson interrupted Mr. Tillman to present the following resolu-
