THE U. S. TREASURY.

Receipts During the Past Month Less Than Expected.

PROBABLE DEFICIT FOR THE YEAR.

Considerable Revenue from the Income Tax Anticipated—Position Far-sighted and Interest.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The money receipts during the month just ended have not met the expectations of the Division, and the indications now are that the deficit at the end of the fiscal year will be little, if any, less than $40,000,000.

The receipts for the month of April amount to $16,000,000, and the expenditures $18,000,000, leaving a deficit for the month of $2,000,000, and for the year to date $94,000,000.

The receipts from internal revenue show a falling off for April as compared with the same month in 1894 of more than $200,000, and a falling off for the months of the fiscal year of about $2,000,000. During the months in the months of the fiscal year there will be extraordinary expenditures. The pension payments will amount to about $100,000,000 and $1,000,000 will be made on account of the Cherokee claims. The net gold in the treasury is not expected to offer very materially from today's figure, and yet in making this estimate a considerable revenue from the income tax is anticipated.

THE "AMERICAN SCHEME."

Denied to Lord William Beresford Today.

LONDON, April 30.—At the fashionable St. George's church, Hanover square, at a quarter past three this afternoon the marriage ceremony of Marlborough, formerly Mrs. Louis Hammersley, of New York, was performed by Lord William Beresford, formerly Colonel of the Ninth Lancers, who gained the great record of all military honors—the Victoria Cross. The Duke of Marlborough, in riding back into the front of the Ritz at Cliveden to wear a green, which he had placed across his saddle and then cut the rule was in order to away. In spite of the request that the wedding was to be kept strictly it was the smartest event in London for a long time. Devonshire was crowded with royalty, to mention of the diplomatic corps, representative of various colonies, those of the army and members of the elite of American and English society of London and Cowes. In every row, from the Mrs. Bryant and the Duke of Cambridge occupied the most prominent place, in the back row of pews and in the gallery, there was a brilliant show of color formed by the elegant silks of ladies' costumes.

Shortly before 1 o'clock the bridegroom, attended by his brother, Lord Rose Beresford, both in fashionable coats, entered the church and unobtrusively. Then Drawers took of the members of the choir until 1 p.m. promptly, before's carriage arrived and there was a general pressing forward again to get of the crowd and a strong cordon the part of the police to keep back the crush. The police succeeded in doing and the "American scheme" as the beautiful dowager, Duchess of Marlborough, knew it, left a strikingly handsome to feel that whose entrance she should take by on the arm of her father, the Duke of Marlborough. Immediately the first they were met Mrs. Bryant and the Duke, who gave the procession to the altar. The bride was dressed in a dove gray coat and skirt of brocaded satin, with white satin waistcoat and a hat with diamond ballons; white feather trimmed with gray chiffon and a magnificent ostrich fan. She carried a large silver light book and wore a lace veil. Her gray in the side of the groom, it was remarked that she was much taller than Lord William Beresford, with, by the way, looks older than he really is. The principals look up their positions, Lord Beresford, the best man, on the right and then the bride and the bridegroom in the middle, and the Duke of Marlborough on the left. Rev. Jesse Edgar Shepard, formerly chaplain to the queen, officiated, assisted by Rev. Canon Ashwell, vicar of St. George's church. The service occupied half an hour. At its conclusion the party went to the vestry to sign the register, and the wedding was pronounced by their friends.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 30.—Senator Morgan, of Alabama, has an interview on the Nicaraguan situation in which he said that he would be "Glad Agent Hatch, "the Russian idea of a spectacle," on the part of Great Britain, and will it a private hint that Russia would use its damages in such a case as would be laughed out of court. He has no objection to joint the administration, as he said, if he presented the administration the most great steps to prevent Great Britain from obtaining a foothold in Nicaraguan territory. "But, if it has not," he added, "the next Congress will, even if it must Britain must be driven off the continent at the point of the bayonet."

The United States and the governments of Nicaragua and Costa Rica have entered into a solemn compact with each other looking to the construction of the great maritime highway, the canal, controlled mainly or guaranteed by the United States, in consideration of which the United States, in consideration of which the United States, in consideration of which
