NEWS OF THE WEST.

Shocking and Fatal Accident in a Colorado Gold Mine.

A TOAD FIFTEEN INCHES HIGH.

Re-Arrest of a Jail Breaker—Parker, the "Sun-Eater"—Heavy Shipment of Wool, Etc.

The remarkable alone Fruita, Colo., have organized a Fruit Growers' association with a capital stock of $50,000, divided into 5,000 shares of $10 each.

The sheriff sales, Cripple Creek, Colo., has been income for $70,000, all of it payable in forty days. Four veins of good ore have been cut in the mine, which will soon be a large producer.

James Callahan lost the very part of his right leg, cut off by a freight train at the Rio Grande depot in Pueblo recently. He was on Friday night. He had just got in from Omaha and was heading his way to Pueblo.

The Fruita (Nevada) Gazette says the mining industry of the southern portion of the county is beginning to the front. New strikes are being made and old properties are looking more promising.

Forty acres of land in the Payette valley is a diversity of full and ample to support land for any one man, and he can make a better living on it than he can labor than any place on the face of the earth. This writes Joe Emmett (Idaho) Index.

Twenty-two carloads of Washington county beef cattle were shipped from Weiser last Tuesday by John Meyers, of Caldwell, and the Weiser (Idaho) Signal. They came from the upper ranges and will be feed for the South Omaha stock yards, where they will bring from $18 to $22 a head.

McMahon Brothers shipped 19,000 pounds of wool to Boston one day this week, says the Pocatello, Idaho, Journal. The wool has been laying on the depot platform several days awaiting the shipment, but it is to be a pile one, there is no doubt that industry will be but a thing of the past in Idaho.

Gustav Mooney, who broke jail at Colorado Springs a few days ago while under charge of grand larceny, was traced to Manitou and arrested. He was only in Manitou half a little while when he again broke out. He took to the hills, but after dark came down to something to eat. Marshal Kimball was waiting and had Mooney until a detective arrived for him.

The Colorado board of pardons will hold a meeting on July 5th to consider a long list of applications for release from the penitentiary. The name of Alfred Packer, the man-eater, heads the list, but at this meeting there is some chance of his case being acted upon, says the Denver News. Packer is well known in Salt Lake and vicinity. He is under a life sentence.

Twenty new tenement houses are being erected by the Steelworker Coal company at Hopkins, Colorado. Rock Springs (Wyo.) Independent. Work is being pushed on them to city and a majority of them will be ready for occupancy within the coming thirty days. They will be neat, comfortable little houses of modern architecture, and are being constructed with a view to warmth and convenience.

The fruit growers are having a hard time of it this year, says the Butte (Mont.) Inter-Mountain. The recent floods covered the top of some of small fruits. Now it comes hard on the farmers of the Gallatin and Bitter Root valleys. Their strawberry crop is just coming out and ready for shipment, but while the Northern Pacific strike lasts they cannot be shipped. In a day or two Butte will be out of strawberries again.

A fatal accident occurred on Friday at the Thursen C. one mine, St. Elmo, Colo. While going up the shaft to dinner George Coleman was hit by a piece of rock, knocking him against J. P. Cooper, who fell to the bottom of the shaft and was instantly killed. Several men who were on the ladder at the same time narrowly escaped sharing Cooper's fate. Coleman when falling became tangled in the bell cord, which broke his fall and saved him going into the sump, 250 feet below. He is in a critical condition.

The Nebraska supreme court has rendered a decision in the case of John Fitzgerald to be all of the stockholders in the Fitzgerald Mining Consolidation company against the Illinois Central Railroad. The plaintiffs sued for $1,400,000, balance alleged to be due on the construction of the Denver, Memphis and Atlantic and Rio Pueblo State Line railways. The Ruling was in behalf of the plaintiffs for $204,262.50, with interest at the rate of 7 per cent from December 15, 1887, until date. The case was a complicated one and involved a variety of issues by means of which the millionaires of the Jay Gould and Russell Sage variety are in the habit of squeezing the profits out of railroad building.

The following item from the Casper (Wyo.) Tribune, reveals the mentality of an enthusiastic lord of an excessive imagination that will rival Baron Munchausen: In a certain part of Casper consolidated there is a spring which has its resultation in a cave. It was in the vicinity of this cave that a party of Casper people last Sunday discovered a horse load. It was a member of the kind, measuring fully two feet in length, and stood fourty fifteen inches high. In length, it covered more than ten feet at a jump. Some members of the party succeeded in capture the monstrosity, and placed it in the mouth of the cave, where it disappeared. The cave has never been fully explored, but it is said to be of enormous size, and to persons to successfully explore its complete depths. The party in pursuit of the load entered the cave as far as it was possible without the aid of torches and ropes, and from the character of the sounds issuing from its depths there eternally large lions must exist in great numbers. A searching party is being organized to explore the cave, and secure one of the animals.
