Involving Some Thousands of Dollars, Comes Before Judge Anderson.

Nothing of importance engaged the time of Chief Justice Zane during the morning, the matters mentioned below comprising all the cases that came under his honor's attention.

[illegible]

In the case of Edward S. Gilbert vs. Harvey Hardy et al., being an action to enjoin the letting of the contract for the proposed city and county building to Mr. Bowman, contractor, Attorney Stephens (Stephens & Schindler) this morning intimated to Judge Zane that he desired to withdraw appearance from the case as counsel for the plaintiff.

EXECUTION STAYED.

John Stucking vs. Peter Clays. In this case a stay of execution and sale was granted on proper showing.

ABOUT A BUILDING CONTRACT.

The trial of the suit of Henry W. Nichols Jr., vs. George Alier was then taken up. [illegible] were for the plaintiff and Pratt & Pratt for the defendant. A jury was waived and the action tried by the judge, by consent.

The claim was for $58, alleged to be due on the building of a cottage for the defendant, who now denied his liability. He alleges that the plaintiff did [illegible]

Emile Zola's much talked of story, the title of which, literally translated, means "The Smash-Up," will be published by the Cassell Publishing Company, who have just closed arrangements with M. Zola's agents to that effect. The author considers this the most important story that he has ever written, and he wishes his literary status to be measured by it. It is a story of the Franco-Prussian war, and is a novel without a heroine. This fact, and also the fact that the story is not at all in the author's usual manner, will pique the curiosity of novel readers on both sides of the ocean.

"The Johnstown Stage, and other Stories," is the title of a fascinating book of Western life by Robert Howe Fletcher, whose work is becoming [illegible]
