The exports from Finland are for the greater part forest products, half lining of planks, deals, firewood, etc., with 5 per cent. of tar. Farm produce, chiefly butter, forms an additional 15 per cent. of the whole; agricultural products, 3 per cent. more; game and fish, another 5 per cent., and various manufactures—iron, thread and paper—13 per cent. more. On the other hand, the goods brought into the country are fabrics, grain, metals, sugar, cotton, tobacco, wine, oil and beauty. The commercial fleet numbers two vessels.

A LETTER FROM MIDWAY.

The "Deseret News" Appreciated.—Home to the Memory of Brigham Young.—Sickness among the Children.—A Memorable Year.

Editor Deseret News:

It is about time that this quiet but thrifty place up in the fruitful plateau of the Timpanogos River was heard through the lower levels, and wherever the News circulates with its messages of weal and woe, cradle and coffin, wedding and weather.

Among the limited literature which our farmers are granted leave to peruse at the brief leisure of the long days of unremitting toil, the columns of the News occupy the distinction of first choice, especially for the reason that the desiness of the widely scattered habitations and settlements in these valleys of the mountains are enabled through your numerous correspondences from all ends and nooks of the Territory to hear from old friends and acquaintances, former dear neighbors, etc., whom different fates have dispersed in different parts. None but the readers and friends of the News can fully realize the far-reaching power for good wielded by such a vehicle of information. In this central work no place is too remote, no community too small not to be able to contribute to the general interest.

To begin with the immediate, I have to record two very entertaining, no less than instructive meetings held yesterday, in honor of the birthday anniversary of Brigham Young, in our assembly hall. The forenoon was devoted to the Y. L. and M. I. A., and the afternoon, amid a crowded audience, to the Primary Association, when the little ones were both entertained and entertaining, the former by Sisters Howard and Foster from Salt Lake City, the latter by a number of well rendered recitations and songs. Both gatherings were edifying and will be productive of much good—a worthy sequel to the Stake conference held last Friday over at Heber, where much valuable advice was given to the young and rising generation, for most of whom in this county the school doors closed last week for the summer vacation.

The private school in Midway, which was started April 13th, immediately upon the close of the public free school curriculum, with an enrollment at about 65, is still keeping on, with the intention of running till July 3rd. At present the attendance is somewhat lower, owing to the field operations requiring the help of the boys and girls in many families, and also on account of the state of health, which has been bad of late, through the unforeseen and unparalleled rapid fluctuations in the temperature, and consequent changes in the atmosphere. The little ones have been suffering much from the mumps and similar ailments. There was a sore (fortunately not based on fact) as to a more malignant malady, but I am happy to state that Dr. Lindsay, our county quarantine physician, has now perfectly satisfied with our sanitary condition.

One great drawback to the insure quality of the water supply, which, however, is in a good way of being remedied as soon as the inevitable farm works admit of other cares and thoughts. Several weeks ago repeated meetings of the citizens were held to that end, and a provisional committee has been chosen, with Alva J. Alexander as chairman, to devise the ways and ended means of getting the pure and copious water of some springs on the hill sides into the new tanks for general distribution.

This, by the way, reminds me of the almost unanimously signed and universally accepted petition for the incorporation of Midway into a town, a mile and a half by three-quarters of a mile in extent. The precinct or ward already numbers about 1000 souls, almost every head of a family living and thriving on his own ground and supporting the community with his own taxes. With a solid and compact organization into some sort of municipal order and union, we will make rapid strides toward substantial progress, and "posterity" will prove up of the most eventful in its history. Already we have the daily mail, since April 1st, and then the town incorporation, then the waterworks, then not behind improvements in the public school (due to the widewaste enterprise of Trustees Robey, Huber and Bronson and the liberality of the taxpayers), furthermore a new development of a financial character, by the establishment of J. J. Schneider's hotel and bathing resort, a substantial brick-block structure at the foot of the big hot pot near the mouth of Snake creek.

In fact, both the elements and the intellects promote prosperity. There will be certain to abide with us, if we only preserve the peace that we have been enjoying these many years in these sequestered vales. The "shibboleth" and whirlpool of politics have not yet reached up into these rural retreats, fanned by the cool breezes from the snow-crowned canyons of the Wasatch mountains. LEO H. SPEIRS.

"The Spirits in Prison."

Editor Deseret News:

Michael Stanley of Lewiston, Cache county, who has been serving an 18 months' sentence for living with his wives, was released on Saturday last.

Richard Jenkins and Samuel Linton, of Nephi, who have been doing a three months' sentence for violation of the Edmunds-Tucker act, will emerge from the penitentiary, the former today the latter tomorrow. Three more of the brethren will be released this month, leaving only twelve. Charles Vincent, non-"Mormon," who has been serving a one year's sentence for adultery, received a commutation by the Pardon Board to eight months; he will go out today.

The new wall and nails building are nearing completion. The old shops and adobe walls are being razed to the ground. The new structures have an imposing appearance.

Respectfully,
H. W. DRIGGS.

TALES OF WOE.

Newspaper Correspondents Tell Sad Stories.

LONDON, June 4.—The Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent gives a pitiable account of the destitution prevailing in the districts of Kazan, Simbirsk, Samara, Nizhni, Novgorod and Penza. The correspondent says hundreds of persons have died hungry in the past five weeks. Peasants in the Simbirsk and Samara districts have revolted and attacked the corn magazines. Numbers of conflicts occurred between the peasants and troops, and several persons were killed and many injured. The gloomy harvest prospects increase the horror of the situation. The minister of the interior has forbidden any reference to the famine in the newspapers.

The Standard's Buenos Ayres correspondent says the English banks there have exerted themselves to relieve the financial crisis. The excitement is intense and it is feared that disorder will arise.

A Scene of Confusion on Account of a World's Fair Appropriation.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., June 4.—An extraordinary scene of wild confusion and excitement was witnessed in the lower house of the general assembly yesterday, when the world's fair bill which so passed by the Senate, appropriated a million dollars for the Illinois exhibit, came up. Efforts to reduce the appropriation to $500,000 or $300,000 were successfully defeated, but on motion of Daling the amount of $250,000, it was apparent that the vote would be a tie. Then speaker Crafts (Democrat) voted for the amendment, and, leaving the Republican members who without to change his vote, hurriedly announced the debate closed, then the house became a bedlam of shrieking, blaspheming and howling men. Crafts coolly declared the $250,000 amendment adopted. In face of a terrific storm of protest the speaker would only listen to a motion to adjourn and calmly declared it carried. The members were now yelling and running about like wild men. Half a dozen made a rush for the speaker to drag him from the chair, but they were quickly held back by his friends. It is expected that another attempt will take place today, when no attempt will be made to remember the vote.
