LOCAL BRIEFS.

The officers of the primary associations and the quality of the service.—Discussing at 11 o'clock next Saturday, June 3d, at the Tabernacle.

All members of the High school alumni who desire tickets for the senior class day exercises are reminded that they must pay their dues and call at the High school on Monday between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. to secure them.

The speakers at the Sheepmen's mass convention to be held in this city on June 7th will be ex-United States Senator Brown, ex-State Senator George M. Cannon and Hon. George C. Maybey, though others will also probably address the meeting.

It is reported that the friends of Banker Stout will make a determined effort to secure the appointment of Joseph Burton Wightman, whose name appeared frequently in public print during the trial of Cashier Jones on the charge of having attempted to kill Mr. Stout.

When Queen Victoria was a girl of 20, John Brown, her Scotch Horse Guard, married in old England. That was 62 years ago today. Elder Harker is now 70 years old, while his better half is seven years his junior. Both are hale and hearty, and their numerous friends unite in wishing that they may see many happy anniversaries of their wedding day.

The "News" is in receipt of the following from Charles E. Ward, Washington, dated May 24: "The services of a special correspondent of this paper now in Cuba. Mrs. Fannie H. Ward is traveling with Clarence Ward and Red Cross party in interior of Cuba, out of reach of mails and cabled me, her husband, that a week or two must go by without manuscript."

Ob Olsen and W. H. Dyson were too drunk this morning to get in out of the wet, according to Patrolman Tanner, who furnished free transportation to the Kimball Institute. The latter patient had to be assisted by several comrades and gravitated "D. T." to gathering in in the vicinity of the Kenyon hotel and "wrestled over in the tender mercies of the police, who, judging from the well-heard full of miscellaneous bottles at headquarters, runs a hospital as a side issue.

The claim of A. M. Musser for $75 for services at 8th and some warden was presented to the recent Legislature and allowed. Yesterday the gentleman called on the State auditor and requested that a warrant for the amount named be drawn in his favor. Mr. Richards refused to do so giving as a reason that the State board of examiners had not passed upon the claim. Mr. Musser, it is said, was much put out and intimated that there were probably reasons why he ought to get it.

There is a movement on foot to get the city to hire additional sprinkling wagons, as it is thought that the present number will be unable to properly do the work required of them. The recent wind storm stirred up the dust so that business suffered to a great extent. It appears as though there had not been any sprinkling done for months. The probabilities are the matter will be submitted to the Council at its next regular meeting to hire four or five more wagons.

W. F. Noble, who has been visiting through central Nevada looking after his cattle interests, is home again. He says that his cattle are in good condition, and that he will probably take 3,000 of them this year. In spite of the fact that the season is supposed to be backward, Mr. Noble also reports that his 800 best steers are in perfect condition. Mr. Noble is contemplating a trip through Idaho and Wyoming in a day or two.

Hodgkin & Terkins, of Salt Lake City, now superintendent of the Hussar smelter at that city and at present engaged in the construction of a mining engine, arrived at the Window Rock yesterday morning for the purpose of looking over the smelter and mining situation in the State. Mr. Terkins's principal interest is in smelters, and when he is seeking much for public information upon the subject of the trust, he declares that there is not so much call in connection therewith as to pour information upon the subject of the trust. He declares that there is not so much call in connection therewith as to pour information upon the subject of the trust. He says: "I find the smelters of Colorado have a larger volume of business than ever," said he last night, "and I can see no bad influence of the trust as yet. Regarding the right-of-way law in Utah, which I have only learned of since my coming, I am delighted to hear this, as the smelters and mines need relief. I do not know the health of the town not worse."

GENERAL CHARLES KING.

Brigadier General Charles King, who today's dispatches state has landed in San Francisco, is better known to the reading world as Captain Charles King, a rank he held when he wrote the charming stories of military life, which made his name famous. The special dispatch to Gen. King's story, "A Wounded Name," have been purchased by the Mexico and the opening chapters appear in tonight's issue. It is a story of army life in the West, but it deals largely with the social side. It is full of interest and entertainment and is charmingly told. Lovers of its part and helps in the end to unravel the complicated tangle in which the characters find themselves.

TRIED TO HOLD HIM.

Eugene Lewis Tells How He Outwitted Three Footpads.

Eugene B. Lewis of this city had an exciting experience with three would-be highwaymen on the night of last week. An experience which he says is so firmly stamped upon his memory that it will remain with him for a long time. The account of the affair can best be given in Mr. Lewis's own language, as told to a "News" reporter last evening:

"I had been to a party in the Twenty-first ward," said Lewis, "and was on my way home, as it was too late for me to take a street car, I had to walk. I left the party about 12 o'clock and took the most direct route. When I reached a point about two-third down the block between I and H streets I was somewhat startled to notice three dark figures dodging behind the lamp post a little way down the next block, that is between H and G. Well, I didn't need a brick house to fall on me," continued Mr. Lewis. "I knew at earlier I had an overwhelming idea that those fellows intended to relieve me of whatever spare change they could find or any other valuables that might strike their fancy, without so much as thank-you-ma'am. I thought it over in a flash and the better part of value, I turned abruptly up H street, walking very rapidly. Then somebody whistled! that made me hair stand on end. The fellows started after me commanding me to stop—not exactly politely and phrases found in early literature; also all forms words and phrases now current in the Hoosier vernacular, complete vocabulary of technical and scientific words recently coined, it contains 256,000 words to 50,000 in Webster's, 25,000 in Webster's International, and 10,000 more than Worcester's, 2,000 more than the Century; and this exhaustive list, of course, does not include all the words which now form a secondary part of every Indiana vocabulary.

"It is the best of all encyclopedias, because the most practically useful, as well as the latest and highest in scholarship. The whole range of human knowledge is condensed for convenient use by each work-famous contributors. Hence Dictionary and over a hundred other editions of hardly less honor.

"Not to treate hundreds of recent topics not found in any other encyclopedia. This week alone contains hundreds of new words. The maps and charts of the work are absolutely indispensable to a proper understanding of the recent changes in our knowledge of the surface of the globe. This is especially the case with the various maps of Africa, Australia, etc., as each one has been made, where changes are constantly going on. In all cases, the maps and charts of which there are over three hundred, are of those in Dodge page and in many are up-to-date. A valuable series of maps of the world's great cities, also included. The latest map of Cuba will be found in this great work, also United States authorities, latest statistics of population, etc., etc. Test your old books and look for agreement, liquid air, aluminum, Roentgen rays, Hertzian waves, Dr. Dudley and Nansen Arctic Relics to be visit Salt Lake City. Why? Is the question you ask. Because the Dictionary is up-to-date, included in, and what other facts have you of him? and hundreds of other information, while from your old book number books don't answer.

At one time he was a bookmaker in the German army, and his worker is now in that country. There is a box of his effects here at the Avon on West Temple street belonging to Selmer. WELCOME TO SIXTEENTH.

Part of the Regiment Sprung a Surprise on Friends Here.

Contrary to general expectation two trains of thirteen cars each bearing about 700 members of the Sixteenth Infantry passed through this city yesterday afternoon.

It was announced at the office of the Rio Grande Western and elsewhere that the troops would not arrive here until today, and of course many were surprised when the first train of the boys came in yesterday afternoon. Despite the fact that they came quietly, a small crowd got down to the depot and helped the soldiers welcome.

Great many faces were seen among the officers and men that are familiar to Salt Lakers, and it was also noticeable that some of the faces that have had been discharged, others had died from fevers contracted in the material service, and still others had been killed by the bullets of the enemy, before Santiago. The troops at Ogden as well as those that passed through Salt Lake were given a warm reception all along the route.

The special arrived in this city behind Engine No. 1, and was in charge of Rio Grande Western, Maj. J. T. Rickman was in command of the troops. The following are the names of some of the other officers: Capts. T. C. Woodbury and W. A. Thornton, First Lieuts. L. S. Sarsy, H. D. Chase, E. S. Gaffey, D. Hickman, Final Lieut. M. L. McGrew and Second Lieuts. R. Ridgeport, H. E. M. Stokes and J. McD. Conner.

As the trains pulled out cheer upon cheer greeted the sure of the brave men who are going to represent Uncle Sam in the far away Philippines.
