EIGHT HOBOS GIVE BATTLE

Three Escape, But Other Five are Held on Charge of Burglary.

List of Contributors to Benefit of Tabernacle Fund — Local News Notes.

The police seem to be having considerable trouble of late with a gang of hobos that have been disturbing the peace of the community. Tuesday night about 11 o'clock a new hobo row came to the police headquarters report to the effect that a gang of fellows were drinking and making Bedlam noise along the Wall avenue, between the two and 2nd streets. Detective Fitzgerald and Officer John Cooney started out to the scene of the disturbance. They were joined by Hugo Fowler, the three went over to the place and found the fellows in a room and there found the gang of eight hobos with a keg of beer. The officers called on them to surrender and they said they had the hobos cornered good and showed fight. The officers had quite a struggle with them and succeeded in getting the hand cuffs on most of them. Three of the gang made a break and got away, the other eight were marched together. The other five were taken to the city jail and given a room adjoining two cell all well locked up. Later in the night it was discovered that the men had broken a window out of George Tyler's warehouse and had stolen from the by-product of it. The hobos had taken the goods to a place in the following and they were found by Officer Cooney. They were arraigned before Justice Bingham and asked for more time to secure witnesses. Some of the men had the appearance of old jailbirds and tough.
