TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

THE RICKS CASE.

Long Session of the House Judiciary Committee.

THE TWO REPORTS PRESENTED.

The Judge Cannot Escape the Charge of Defrauding the Government, Says the Majority.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18.—The judiciary committee of the House held a long session today over the Ricks case. Representative Bailey, Tex., presented the majority report signed by himself, and Representative Broderick, the minority report. The friends of Ricks are endeavoring to revive the Geddes of the previous meeting, but after three hours there was no sign of a conclusion. Bailey's report says concerning the charge that Ricks had defrauded the government of fees:

"Conceding all Judge Ricks claims and waiving the moral question of exhibiting sufficient justice for himself and leaving the individual case to the government, he does not escape the charge of defrauding the United States. The purpose and only possible purpose in picking out these cases and withholding their fees was to increase the personal compensation, and in doing that he was not only violating the law but practicing deliberate and willful fraud, as will be easily seen by a simple calculation."

THE DECISION.

Finally the committee decided by a vote of 7 to 5 to reopen the case by extending an invitation to Judge Ricks to appear before them, if he so desire, with his witnesses, and to give a like invitation to the other side. This action was taken on motion of Representative Allen, Miss., who retained from voting in the last meeting. The affirmative votes were cast by Hay, N. Y., Powers, Vermont, Boutelle, Me., Lightfoot, Iowa, Cooper, Ind., Broderick, Kan., Lewis and Hartman, Ala., Democrats.

Negatives—Bailey, Tex., Culberson, Ill., Lane, Ill., Stockdale, Miss., and De Armond, Mo., Democrats.

Representative Culberson, chairman, who voted for impeachment at the last session, retained from voting.

Representative Bailey's report was discussed at length and several amendments voted upon. The amendments were voted with Bailey for representative regard the vote as a practical defeat so far as action by this Congress is concerned.

Representative Bailey tried to be relieved as member of the subcommittee, but the committee would not agree to this. Being subsequently told he would be left individual capacity try to get action in the House.

BRUTAL ASSAULT.

A United States Treasury Inspector Attacks an Aged Man.

COLUS, Columbia, Jan. 16.—Colonel E. C. Winderamith, United States treasury inspector here and also the vice-mayor, vigorously pulled the board of Tracy Robinson, formerly the vice mayor, when the two men met a short time ago in the Washington hotel. The affair was kept a secret and no account of it appeared in the local papers.

A letter from Colus printed in a New York paper some time ago suggested that the two special inspectors ships of the business ought to be abolished, as they are useless for any purpose except to provide $3,000 to be divided in salaries for hangers-on in the administration in office. Indeed, it is said the reason why Colonel Winderamith is acting as vice mayor is because he has nothing to do as inspector. As it would be unlawful for him to hold two government offices for pay he does the work of vice mayor for nothing, according to reports, and draws a salary as inspector for it. The account referred to Colus lately from a tour of the West Indies and passed at the latter purchase in New York. He intimated that the author of the letter was Mr. Robinson, who has a fine reputation as a writer and who is reported to be changed as vice mayor. In the first time he met Mr. Robinson, who is elderly and not strong physically, the colonel pulled his hair and banged him against a wall until he was pulled off. According to the report the colonel also kicked Robinson several times with a small pocket knife. Colonel Winderamith was arrested despite his defiance of the authorities as an American citizen and in the Lincoln court, he was compelled to give bonds for appearance, though he was permitted to pay $10 in lieu of going to prison. After sentence was pronounced the colonel told Mr. Robinson he was not done with him yet. Meanwhile the court put him under $500 bonds to keep the peace for six months.

We therefore recommend that the resolutions reported to the House for impeachment be not adopted."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The naval appropriation bill which is to be reported to the full committee of the House today will contain provisions for adding to the navy three battleships and torpedo boats which Secretary Herbert recommended. The cost of the battleships is limited to $4,000,000, and one is to be built on the Pacific coast.

ANNUAL REUNION.

The Fifteenth Anniversary of the Quorum's Organization.

BANNACK, Utah, January 15, 1895.

Editor Deseret News:

The Fifteenth quorum of Seventies holded at Santaquin and Goshen held their yearly reunion here in the Social Hall on the 12th inst., to which they invited a number of other members of this ward. At one o'clock in the afternoon after a well rendered selection by our silver band, the assembly was called to order by the senior president of the quorum, President Well, and after singing and prayer the secretary, Charles A. Tietjen, read the minutes of the first meeting of the quorum at which it was organized in the city of Nauvoo, on the 15th day of January, 1845, the name of the senior president at that date being John Lytle, and the name of the secretary William Spencer.

Remarks were then made by the president of the quorum and also by our Bishop, O. D. Crowson, on the duties of the Seventies, whether at home or abroad, which were interspersed with singing, recitations, dancing and selections by the silver band, continuing till cast 11 o'clock. Then all retired to their homes, having spent one of the most enjoyable days of their lives, nothing having occurred to mar the pleasure of any person present.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon a most splendid dinner was served in the Relief Society house, just across the street from the hall, to one part of the company at a time, it being too small to seat the whole company at once, and looking at the tables loaded to their utmost capacity with the choicest of viands, one could not help feeling thankful for the blessings of the Lord to us.

Our good sisters served lunch to us during the evening, and made the hearts of the poor glad with the results.

GOING TO A NEW HOME

Telephone Exchange to Be Moved to State Street Tomorrow.

ELEGANT AND MODERN QUARTERS.

Important Announcement and Instructions to Patrons of the Exchange Made Today.

The Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company will, tomorrow evening at 5 o'clock, remove from its present quarters in the Deseret National bank to its elegant and modern home on State street, just south of the Theater.

For seventeen years or since 1878 the exchange has been located in the building which it now, in keeping with the progress and improvement of the age, proceeds to vacate. The change of location will be a private and public benefit. Private for the reason that the company gave into its new quarters—public for the reason that it will be in a position to give its patrons better service, as from this time forward it will be surrounded by electrical appliances and devices of the latest and most approved patterns. The new building is a model of its kind, and among the very best in the land. It is a credit to the projectors and to the city in which it stands.

Said the officers of the company today: "Tomorrow at 5 o'clock tomorrow we bid farewell to our friends without regret, for we know we are going to a better home, and we feel that we are equipped to do our subscribers." In this connection they have sent out the following circular to their patrons:

A new system of ringing will be inaugurated simultaneously with the change. Hereafter subscribers have been accustomed to ring up the party wanted, after the operator has made the connection. In the new system, the operator will do this ringing, the only thing to be made by the subscriber being one to call the "central," and one to signal for disconnection. The system will be: The subscriber will ring once for the operator, give the number wanted, and stand with the telephone to the ear until the party wanted answers, or the operator reports the line busy. Subscribers will please bear in mind that any rings made by them, other than one to call the operator, will mean a signal for disconnection; and so attempt to ring the party when, by the old method, will therefore only create confusion. The first ring made from a telephone displays the number of the telephone to the operator; any subsequent ring displays only the signal for disconnection.

Subscribers are requested to post this circular temporarily by the side of the telephone, and to notify all persons authorized to use their telephone that after 5 o'clock tomorrow, January 19, the above method will be used. For the time being the operators will be instructed to say to each "Call?"—"Do as I ring, I will ring for you!" but this formula will be done away with as soon as subscribers accustom themselves to the new method.

There will be no interruption of service, and each person so may be talking at the time of transfer will continue their conversation through the new switchboard without knowledge that they have been "switched over."

A new switchboard equipped with all of the latest improvements, and with the most approved auxiliary apparatus, has been placed in service, and we present to our patrons an exchange equipment, equalling, if not surpassing, any yet constructed.

The new switchboard increases our facilities for metallic circuits and long distance telephone, so that we are now able to supply them to all subscribers who may desire such an equipment.

Patrons of the company, and the public, will be welcomed, and the officials of the company will have pleasure in showing them through the Exchange.
