ARMENIA'S MARTYRS.

An Appeal to President Cleveland on Behalf of the People.

LIVING UNDER OPPRESSION

In the Turkish Dominions—A Philo-Armenian Society Formed in this Country.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 19.—The Philo-Armenian association of the Northwest, the object of which is to create sympathy for the people of Armenia, has been organized here. Among the members are C. A. Pillsbury, Senator Washburn and other prominent citizens. A letter treating on the recent Armenian horrors was adopted and forwarded to President Cleveland. It says in part: "Your excellency will not need any presenting to express to the powers of the Berlin treaty, and especially to Great Britain, your horror at this foul and heinous crime against the Armenian nation and humanity, and to use all your influence with the said powers for the fulfilment of their violated pledge and the establishment of a regime in the home of our people whereby their life and honor and property may be secured against further outrage at the hands of bloodthirsty oppressors."

Will Go Hard Against Bob.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 19.—District Attorney Shove, who is in Cleveland, has telegraphed his assistant to use every effort to secure evidence against Bob Fitzsimmons on the charge of causing the death of Con Riordan for the bighead Thursday. One of the physicians who was present at the autopsy on Riordan says that instead of only one blood clot on the brain, three were found in different parts.

CANALS ON MARS

Percival Lowell Reports That He Has Seen Them Double Again.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A special to a morning paper from Boston says a dispatch was received last night by Percival Lowell, at the Lowell observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., stating that the canals of Mars, as observed last night, had begun to double, and that Pyrsen and Euphrates were soon geminated. The contention of the canals of the planet Mars is a phenomenon for which astronomers have been watching with a great deal of interest.

Mr. Lowell is of the opinion that it is dependent on the season and has predicted all along that the canals would not be seen in duplicate until some time in November.

ALLEGED INSURANCE SWINDLE.

Parties Indicted by the Grand Jury—Mrs. Pitcet's Confession.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—The grand jury has found a true bill against Herman Mudgett, alias H. H. Holmes, now a prisoner in Boston, Jeptha D. Howe, the St. Louis lawyer who collects the insurance money on H. F. Pitcet's policy for the latter's widow, and Mrs. Pitcet herself. The indictments charge conspiracy to cheat and defraud.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 19.—Late last night an effort was made to see Jeptha D. Howe, and get his statement as to the Hedgpath affair, but he was not at home and could not be found. Aphonso Howe, his brother, reluctantly gave the information that he had left the city soon after being released on bail, but refused to tell where he had gone.

BOSTON, Nov. 19.—Mrs. Carrie Pitcet, it is claimed, has made a full confession of the alleged insurance swindle. It is stated that she has implicated Holmes, at whose suggestion it is claimed she went to Burlington, Vt.

She stated that Holmes substituted the alleged bogus body for that of her husband, and collected the insurance, but she was kept in ignorance of the whereabouts of her husband who disappeared at once. It is the affair she has been moving about from place to place, prompted by Holmes, in search of her husband, and it was through the hope that she would be sent to him that she answered the telegrams of the detectives. Now she fears that the body for which the insurance was paid was not a bogus one, but that of her husband. Mrs. Pitcet also fears that her daughter, Alice, who was the only one besides Holmes to identify the body, has been spirited away, as she has completely disappeared and Holmes is the last one known to have seen her. Holmes secrets he left Alice and two other Pitcet children at their father's home in Detroit a month ago and since then has heard nothing from them. Holmes further stated today that when he came to Boston on Tuesday last he intended to take passage for Berlin but changed his mind and before he could perfect other plans the detectives had him.

The governor of German east Africa, Von Soden, telegraphed from Dare-salam that the Omhier tribe Kurenga, the capital of the Uleba territory, was stormed and captured by the Germans. In the engagement, which lasted several hours, Lieutenants Mane and Kright Achaia were killed. The losses of the Wahesa were heavy. A large number of cattle, much ivory and a number of guns and rifles, lost by the Zelowsky expedition, were recovered.

The Germans also captured large supplies of powder and rescued 1,500 women and children held as prisoners by the Wahesa tribe.

The Temperance Women

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—At the convention of the W. C. T. U. today Mrs. Campbell, of Wisconsin, gave notice that at the next annual convention she would move to amend article I of the constitution by the substitution of the words "vice president at large" after the word "president." Mrs. R. Somerset Peck, of California, announced that Miss Jessie Ackerman, "our round-the-world missionary of the Union," was seated with the California delegation. Miss Ackerman was escorted to the platform. When the escorting party had reached the platform Miss Willard took the valise from Miss Ackerman's hand and said:

"This is the bag that has traveled 15,000 miles the last seven years. It has contained 20,000 pledges from men and 9,000 testimonies have certificates from the women from around the world."

The convention applauded rapturously and Miss Willard rapped vigorously with her gavel.

"Not for order," she explained, "but for applause."

Various reports were presented.

Mrs. Clara Hoffman was unanimously elected recording secretary; Mrs. Helen M. Barker was re-elected treasurer by a rising vote.

It is not thought that either Handy's or Patrick's injuries will prove fatal, although they suffered severely from loss of blood.

SIX WILSON'S MISSION.

He Explains His Intentions in Behalf of the C. P. Stockholders.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, ex-commissioner of the national debt, who was said by New York from Liverpool on the Majestic as a representative of the stockholders of the Central Pacific road, said today:

"I do not go to the United States with a legal power to take action in case Mr. Huntington and his friends refuse to carry out my recommendations. It is difficult to get the whole scattered shareholders to act in concert; but I am within the mark in saying that nearly one-half of the stock held in England, Holland and the United States are behind me. These holders of stock bought at 15 and upwards and for several year dividends were declared. Now their stock is quoted about 10 and there are no dividends. These shareholders read me to the United States to ascertain why this is the case.

"To the outline question, why do the shareholders not elect their own representatives? The reply is that the company is a California corporation and is required to register its shares in San Francisco, which the interests are generally unavailable to do. The shares, therefore, are in the relative minority of Mr. Huntington's friends. He desires to remain and will no doubt receive me in the most friendly manner.

"Upon arriving in New York I shall see Huntington and Messrs. Brotherton and Hubbard, and inquire fully into the situation. I shall then go to Washington and stay at Sir Julian Pauncefote's and have an interview with the United States government, if I can get it to receive me, since the extensive government sales to January next. Naturally the shareholders can only appear in the form of proxies and may be shown the law, but I am told the President Cleveland and his cabinet are inclined to take the place of the company in the control of the road and they may perhaps receive me in a friendly manner to protect the interests of the large body of people who are the sufferers through no fault of their own. The friendly action of the government would perhaps bring about a renewal of the maturing bonds for a long time at a lower interest and would produce the best influence abroad and materially assist in the popularity of American securities.

"I shall go from Washington to San Francisco, as my mission has two sides. I shall inquire into the condition of the Central Pacific and then to its relations with the Southern Pacific. After I am fully informed I shall decide what I think is the best course for the shareholders to pursue."

Fought With a Broken Arm.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 20.—Mary Gibson and Jerry Arnold fought a bloody battle of nine rounds last night. Gibson's arm was broken in dealing his opponent a heavy swinging blow, but he continued the fight and won.

Secretary and Treasurer Hayes was re-elected, although there was some opposition. The expenses of the delegates to the convention, amounting to about $2,000, were ordered paid.

A Chicago Fire.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—A fire in the fashionable Victoria flats, at Forty-fourth street and Greenwood boulevard this afternoon communicated to the Kong and Depew flats, causing a loss of $10,000.

The Victoria building, five stories high, was filled with smoke before the tenants realized their danger. Some rushed to the lower windows and jumped to the ground without serious injury. Others in the upper stories were rescued by firemen. Several women were carried out, who had been rescued, unconscious by the smoke. The Y. M. C. A. building was somewhat damaged by the smoke. The high wind made the work of the firemen difficult and it was feared the fire would spread to the business district, possibly destroying them. The business offices of D. N. Dunshee, and Cyrenus Cole, are badly damaged.

Killed in an Explosion.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Nov. 20.—An explosion in the Hillside coal mine in Logan, W. Va., killed one man and injured a number. Half a dozen men are missing.

COUNTING THE VOTES.

It is Begun by the Utah Commission and Canvassing Board Full Afternoon.

Today, Nov. 20, was the date set for beginning the canvass of the returns of the election of Nov. 6th last, and the Utah Commission opened the work by commencing on the war for Delegate to Congress. It took the greater part of the morning today to arrange the returns for the canvassing board, so that by the time the board went to press the attorneys the Commission had received only the five county to be taken up, Beaver, and were commencing to review the abstracts sent in by the judges of election.

The canvassing board appointed to receive the returns for county officers proceeded to the same point as the Commission, so that no figures were available for the press up to the time of going to press. When the board received today, the resignation of Mr. W. H. Dee was received, and the Utah Commission appointed Judge C. S. Dye, of Salt Lake city, to fill the vacancy thus created on the board of canvassing officers.

It is probable that several months will be consumed moreover, but the work of canvassing the entire returns is not likely to be finished until the end of the week.

WHAT'S A BULLDOZER

County Recorder Lippman Endeavors to Enlighten Court and Jury.

ALL ABOUT THAT ADVERTISEMENT.

The "Tribune's" "Slashing" of Arthur Brown, and Why the Attorney Was Withdrawn—Today's Proceedings.

The taking of additional evidence in the Brown-Tribune libel suit has been the great feature in Chief Justice Merritt's court again today.

The attendance was not so large today as during yesterday afternoon, but those who were present were amply entertained. Thousands assumed appearance for the respective witnesses as on the previous days of the trial.

When the News went to press yesterday after the Judge Henderson, editor of the Tribune, was much examined by Judge Henderson. The witness could not define as a definite legal term or any one of the libels. Attorney Brown took that he would not consider profane. It was recollected that some of the words which were called in did not take the matter into account was basis.

"Would a man, according to your view, be justified in using an expression which was refused to register his vote?"

"I did not say so; but he would be justified by many of the voters in so doing."

"Did you mean to say that the community would have justified the killing of Brown?"

"Yes, I believe they would."

"Do you not recognize that there are properly constituted officers to decide these legal matters?"

"Yes."

"Are there such officers are to decide who are entitled to vote?"

"The voters are identified, and I never heard that Arthur Brown was acting the circle." (Laughter.)

"You stated yesterday that the party who had committed this crime is injuring votes should be sent to the penitentiary for five years?"

"Yes, that would be being sent off easily."

"And yet you had no malice towards Arthur Brown?"

"No; I had a duty to perform to the public, and that was to let them know what had been done."

"Why did you write this editorial, then?"

"To slash Arthur." (Laughter.)

"And yet you had no malice towards him?"

"No, I don't think I had. If any one who thinks he has libelled Mr. Arthur Brown was a good lawyer, I would have said to him, said I, ——— had malice I would have advised the client to get somebody else."

"Do you think you have a right to slash people who differ from you in opinion?"

"A newspaper has a public duty to perform."

"What remedy do you think a person who is slandered by a newspaper should have?"

"There are two, either personal satisfaction or damage in the courts."

"Do you think the latter is equally [illegible]?"

"I think it would recommend the courts."

"Are you taken the better element of the community would have handled the libelling of Arthur Brown in his behalf, instead of the Tribune?"

"If slashed in that it would, but I did not say so in the editorial." It was not better that Mr. Brown knew he had no case on which he could recover damages, but had and the "tribune" took up his cause of getting that payment of $1,000 of $1 but law was taken out that was what caused the "slashing" editorial.

Patrick Hagerty, sworn, when he moved into Brown's lands in connection with the case, next assigned upon the witness stand. He said that he had been a resident of this Territory for four years and was a qualified voter of the Fourth precinct. He went to the Tribune office and gave the information to Mr. Brown. As it appeared to the Tribune it was substantially correct. Also the witness he did a man of medium height, dressed in a suit of clothes and some shavings, who had blue eyes and red hair. He would not positively swear that this man was Arthur Brown, but his best impression was that it was Brown. He did not know, drawn that, but he was afterwards pointed out to him. He was not able to get the man on that day although he tried three times.

In cross-examination by Judge Henderson, witness said that his right to vote was challenged, but he did not know what it was one. Henderson said. It might have been Brown or it might have been somebody else; witness could not tell who it was.

"Do you think it was Brown?" asked Judge Henderson.

"I couldn't say," replied the witness.

"Did you ever pay any taxes in this city?"

"Nothing but poll tax."

"Will you swear you paid poll tax in this city?"

"It is a long time ago."

"Did you at any time pay poll tax in this city?"

"I paid poll tax in Nevada."

"I didn't ask you about Nevada; did you pay poll tax or any other tax in this city?"

"No."

Hagerty was shown the article in the Tribune, but said he could neither read nor write anything but his name. The article, however, has been read to him several times. He admitted that he lied to the man William he met in the street and was he thought was Arthur Brown. He told him that he intended with Mr. Brown on the street. He did board there for a while, but not at the time in question and that he was boarding there. The witness said he positively told the man as William because he thought it was one of his boarders where he boarded.

H. F. Taylor was next called. He
