TELEGRAPHIC.

ONCE RICH, NOW DESTITUTE.

Mrs. Alexander Majors Applies for a Place in a Poor House.

Her Husband at One Time Among the Wealthiest Citizens of Jackson County.

KANSAS CITY, March 26.—One rich and one not many years ago, married a wealthy and prominent citizen of Jackson county, recently made, traveling in Europe in another methodical, Mrs. Alexander Majors and her daughter were finally in Kansas City, where, on their departure in years, not many months ago, they were in the greatest luxury, they supposed the greatest luxury, they supposed in Jackson county of the country. Mr. Majors died, and his widow was left, not many weeks ago, to find herself in the world. She had spent her money, and was destitute, and was left to the county for her support.

The wife of the family of Alexander Majors, one prominent citizen, the wealthiest citizen of Jackson county, he was one of the richest men in the country. In 1860 he left his home, Mrs. Majors, to the Salt Lake City, and was one of the richest men in the country. He was a great friend of Brigham Young, and was one of the richest men in the country. He was a great friend of Brigham Young, and was one of the richest men in the country. He was a great friend of Brigham Young