ORIENTAL ADVICES.

Stories of Chinese Cruelty Circulated in Japanese Papers.

LI HUNG CHANG'S OPPORTUNITY.

General Web Decapitated by Proxy—The Japanese Treaty With the United States.

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 18.—The steamer Empress of India arrived this evening with Yokohama advices to December 11th. All is quiet at Port Arthur. The army is resting from its exertions and the navy is lightly engaged removing torpedoes and other obstructions from the harbor.

Correspondents of Japanese papers tell ghastly and revolting stories of atrocities committed by the Chinese whenever accident had thrown small bodies of Japanese soldiers into their power. Many of these tales are officially corroborated with a minuteness of detail which leaves no room for doubt as to their authenticity.

The winter is cold and is already severely felt in Manchuria. At Hong Kong the temperature averages five degrees below zero. It is reported that orders have been issued by the Japanese marine authorities that the Chinese ships of war are not to be molested hereafter except under circumstances of absolute necessity as they are expected presently to form part of the Japanese navy.

The attitude of the Li family, still the power of the nation of which the viceroy of Chiloa is the center, is regarded with deep interest. The conviction is general that Li Hung Chang had a great opportunity open before him two months ago, and that if he had chosen to act with energy, the destiny of China would now be in his hands, but as on a former occasion, he was let to err much in weighing chances and allowed the enthusiasm of his strongest supporters to grow cold while he was making up his mind to strike a decisive blow.

Tseki Ho and Tung Chow might have been his ransom, but he would not cross it when he could have done so at the head of forces sufficient to simulate the situation, and he dared not venture beyond his quarters in Ten Tsin.

It is stated on official authority in Ten Tsin that General Web, who was recently sentenced to decapitation for cowardice and treachery in Corea, was permitted to escape his fate by paying 1,500 taels for a substitute.

The controversy between Count Inouye and Tai Wen Kun has resulted in the resignation of the aged Corean statesman and his return to private life.

News that a revised treaty between the United States and Japan has been signed was received with great satisfaction throughout the empire.

LABOR TROUBLES.

Riots in British Honduras on Account of the Wage Question.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 18.—The Central America Times of December 14th, published at Belize, British Honduras, received here by mail today, contains a long account of a labor riot which took place here on the 11th inst. The origin of the present disturbance is purely industrial. The men engaged in mahogany and logwood cutting who constitute the bulk of the laborers of the colony demanded higher wages than merchants were inclined to pay, and having failed to obtain relief by application to the authorities, they became exasperated and began to wreck the stores of their employers. When the mob reached Mattrie's store, it was confronted by the clerks armed with revolvers. They fired over the heads of the mob and wounded a man and a woman. The man then rushed into Cramer's store, smashing a number of glass cases, music boxes and musical instruments, and carried off a large number of watches. Several persons were slightly bruised by being struck with clubs. From about 3:00 o'clock, when the rioting began, the town was unprincipled and at the mercy of the mob. The constabulary was not idle, but the rioters were not in a temper to listen to reason, and all efforts of the officers were insufficient to produce a cessation of the disorder. All they could do was to take into custody and confine in the police station a man whom they looked upon as a ringleader.

The rioters then turned their attention to the police station. The windows were broken, and the attitude of the mob was so threatening that the prisoner was released. A few minutes before 5 o'clock forty blue jackets and three files of marines were landed and marched up to the courthouse wharf. On the blue jackets being drawn up in front of the police star on all signs of disorder ceased. From the steps of the council chamber the governor addressed a few remarks to the crowd.

THE WHISKY TRUST.

Its Assets and Liabilities—Re-organization Plans.

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 18.—The circular adopted by the directors of the Distilling & Cattle Feeding company at the meeting held in this city last week was sent out to the stockholders of the company tonight, and it will reach none of them before tomorrow. It is a lengthy document containing a statement of the condition of the company and detailing reorganization necessary, three plans being submitted for the approval of the stockholders.

It states in the outset that in view of the radical changes which have taken place since the annual meeting, the board considers it incumbent to make a clear and concise statement of the affairs of the company and the conditions that confront them at present. The board made every possible preparation to take advantage of the increased tax lately enacted into a law. A large amount of spirits and alcohol in bond had been accumulated.

The circular then reviews the efforts of President Greenhut and other officials to effect a loan and the difficulties they encountered.

In addition to the capital required by the company heretofore for the conduct of its business, it will be necessary to provide additional capital for the distribution of its product in the eastern territory, as the American Distilling company through which we distribute our product in that territory has violated its agreement with this company, and has made alliances for purchase of its supplies through other channels which would practically bar this company from selling goods in the eastern territory (where we have been unable to obtain nearly one half of our product), unless this company is placed in a position to open its own distributing houses in that territory.

Your directors consider it imperative that provisions for obtaining this additional capital be made with as little delay as possible. Assets and liabilities on December 1, 1894, were as follows:

Assets—Stock of spirits, alcohol and whiskey, $[illegible], stock of grain, coverage and other materials, $[illegible], good book accounts, $[illegible], value of five breweries, $[illegible], cash in the treasurer's hands, $[illegible], cash in stocks, $[illegible], making a total of $[illegible].

Liabilities—Bills payable, $[illegible]; notes due to the trade, $1,011,[illegible]; expense bills and other debts to January 1, 1895, $[illegible]; surplus cash and cash assets, $[illegible]. Total, $[illegible].

These plans for reorganizing the interests now in that are presented. The first provides for the formation of a new company, capitalized at $10,000,000, $5,000,000 preferred and $5,000,000 common, and old stock shares to be taken with the new stock.

Plan No. 2 is substantially the same as plan No. 1, excepting as to the manner of subscribing for the stock.

Plan No. 3 reduces the present capital stock of $10,000,000, each stockholder to be asked to surrender his stock and accept one share of paid up stock for every five shares he now holds, that $5,000,000 new common stock be issued and that two shares of paid up stock be issued to each subscriber for $100 paid up.

This plan would provide for the adjustment of the original amount of the stockholders subscribe for the stock, but leaves the question of the cancellation of leases of the plants and the reduction of the fixed charges to be settled.

BOSACK AND HIS PRIESTS.

The Trouble Between Them Reaches the Supreme Court.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 18.—A special to the Bee from Lincoln, Neb., says:

The trouble between Bishop Bosacken and his priests has finally reached the supreme court. The appeal of Father Cornell from the decision of the district court reinstating him from exercising his priestly function in the Bonanza diocese because the bishop declared he refused to be disciplined, now comes up on a motion of Cornell for an extension of the time for filing a transcript of the evidence adduced on the trial of the said action in the court below and for an order upon the official stenographer to prepare and furnish to the defendant such transcript with all convenient speed.

HUNTINGTON INNOCENT.

Probable Cause of the Shooting in the Bank.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Dec. 18.—The theory that Huntington, the bank clerk who shot the two bond company attorneys and then committed suicide, was shot by other hands than his own is now generally accepted here. The inquest Sunday, was adjourned today and the jury so decided.

The jury went to the hotel to hear the testimony of Hayden and Cromwell. The former seemed to be in good spirits, but the latter was just recovering so easily as on Monday. Both described the conversation that took place in the private office of the bank. Both said they were unarmed and did no shooting.

Cromwell's testimony did much to strengthen the belief in Huntington's innocence of any financial crookedness. He said that he could not specify any particular check that was missing, and so far as he could see the bank had not lost the $500, excepting so far as the bookkeeping was concerned.

The mystery surrounding a note about which the inspectors questioned Huntington Sunday morning was cleared up this afternoon. The note was for $50 and was paid late month, although Huntington could not tell where he got the money with which to pay it.

Judge Bennett, the cashier of the State Savings bank, testified that on the same day when the note fell due, Huntington borrowed at his bank. There is now no doubt that the whole miserable affair resulted from Huntington getting his accounts mixed and that no was not a thief, but thought he was to be so branded.

Will Adjourn on Saturday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Speaker Crisp and the House leaders have reached a tacit agreement by which the adjournment for the holiday recess will be taken at the close of the session next Saturday, and the remembering will be at noon January 3rd.

LANGDON IN THE NAVY.

A Nephew of Rockefeller Enlists at Mare Island.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 18.—J. N. Langdon, of Philadelphia, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, the oil king, has enlisted in the navy and is to take a clerkship aboard the old ship Independence at Mare Island. Langdon seems to have caused his rich relatives a good deal of trouble. He arrived here some weeks ago from Japan, contracted a big bill at the Palace and California houses and scattered checks about, but all came back dishonored. He was a guest at the University club, where he left a large wine room account for his spinner to settle and engaged in various financial operations, including a $2,000 equipment from Studebaker's carriage house, for which he did not pay. Langdon's eastern friends came to his rescue on the understanding, it is said, that he enter the navy, securing an easy berth with a very small salary.

BLAND'S COINAGE PLAN.

He Will Present a Substitute for Secretary Carlisle's Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Representative Bland, of Missouri, will move to strike out all after the enacting clause in the Carlisle currency bill now before the House of Representatives and substitute a measure he has prepared for a currency system based on coin and coin notes. Mr. Bland's plan does not interfere with the existing national bank system, but instead of allowing banks to issue notes, as the Carlisle plan proposes, Mr. Bland proposes that the government issue the notes, calling them coin notes. These are to be redeemed in gold and silver coin and the government is to coin both metals.

The Bland bill provides for the free coinage of silver and for the deposit of gold and silver bullion and the issuance of legal tender notes upon it. The bullion is to be subsequently coined and the coin notes are to be released in gold and silver without discrimination as may be most advantageous to the government. Provision is also made for issuing coin notes on standard silver coin. All the outstanding gold and silver certificates are to be retired and coin notes are to be substituted therefor.

Provision is also made for the redemption of outstanding greenbacks and treasury notes in gold or silver coin without discrimination. An emergency fund is created so that in case of panic or money stringency the secretary of the treasury may, on deposit of United States interest-bearing bonds issue to depositors of the bonds coin notes. Interest on such bonds is to go to the government while they are on deposit, and should they mature while on deposit they are to be canceled.

EDISON BOXING.

The "Biograph" Shows on Exhibitions of That Sort.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Thomas A. Edison has put his foot down on the scheme of the kinetoscope exhibiting company to pull the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight off in Mexico. The company may save the fight but it cannot have the use of Mr. Edison's kinetographs, without which it would be impossible to reproduce the battle. Ever since Corbett and Courtney fought at the Edison laboratory, the "wizard" has opposed such exhibitions. Still the exhibiting company does not propose to withdraw its offer just yet.

Suit Against San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—John W. Mackay and Herbert V. Gay, executors of the will of the late Mrs. Theresa Fair, have commenced suit against the city and county of San Francisco for $25,[illegible], which they paid under protest to the tax collector. The taxes paid were upon the Northern Railway Company of California, and the executors maintain that the bonds are uncollectable because the property of the corporation, upon which the bonds are secured by mortgages is situated in the state of California. They make the further point that the assessment is void because it does not clearly specify the character of the property assessed, that the par value of the bonds actually assessed is $2,[illegible], whereas in the property of the estate are represented bonds of the par value of $4,000,000 and the bonds possessed are not enumerated in the assessments.

TWO STORM SAILORS LOST.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 19.—The general opinion among the shipping men is that the steamer Queen Mamie merrat and Kaowera will never be seen again. The only hope is that the sailors were driven north by the storm and that they are now in some sheltered cove along the British Columbia coast. Their loss being considered inquiries, anxiety is now transferred to the bark Columbia, which left Port Blakely 14 days ago for this port with a cargo of lumber; the Germania, a bark, 16 days out from Seattle, and bound for San Francisco; the ship J. B. Brown, 15 days out from Nanaimo with coal for this port, and bark Sea King, which sailed a day later than the J. B. Brown from the same port and for the same destination. All four would be in the worst of the storm between Cape Flattery and Cape Blanco.

COAL LAND DEAL.

Names of the People Comprising the Syndicate Not Given.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—With reference to a dispatch from Cheyenne, Wyo., that a Chicago syndicate had bought up all the coal properties at Rock Springs, Wyo., not controlled by the Union Pacific company, it is learned that E. F. Lawrence, of the First National bank, has conducted the negotiations for the property. The purchase price, he said last night, was not $12,000,000 nor anything near it. Mr. Lawrence declined to give the names of the people who comprise the syndicate. He said, however, they were not all Chicagoans, and, in fact, he did not know all their names.

Parkhurst Goes to Chicago.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—The Marquette club has arranged with Dr. Charles Parkhurst, the fearless leader of the crusade against vice in New York, to deliver a lecture in the Auditorium, January 24, on the subject of "Municipal Reform."

This will be the first public appearance of Dr. Parkhurst in this city and it was for the purpose of conferring with him that the president of the club and the late John Worthy were in New York.

Speechless Orators.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19.—Adolph B. Spreckles has resigned from the vice presidency of the California theater club, because of what he considers the unfair weight put upon his horse Centinela in a handicap race where Carlisle had to carry 126 pounds against Senator Irby's 115 pounds and less weight by other horses, and the race, over a very heavy track. So Spreckles snatched the horse and withdrew from the club, his office being filled by Dan Burns.

A KING FEARS ASSASSINATION.

Precautions Taken to Preserve the Life of Humbert of Italy.

In his recent hunting expedition on the royal estate near Turin King Humbert of Italy for the first time took precautions against the possible attempt on his life. Owing to the silence and seclusion of Signor Crispi his majesty was accompanied by a trustworthy guard, who slept in front of the king's door. No one could approach the royal without being discovered by this man.

After the murder of President Carnot the Italian premier became alarmed for the safety of his chief and persuaded him to choose a man of resolute faith to accompany him at all times to serve as a shield, if necessary, in case of sudden attack. Search was made throughout the army for a man who should cover all hazards made by the king and Crispi. He was at last found in the person of a member of carbineers, a man of extraordinary nerve and resolution. He is a fellow of majestic appearance, much more so than the king, and is appreciative of the high trust placed in him. He accompanies Humbert every place and stops so that no one can possibly enter the king's chamber without passing over his body. He is armed as an Italian brigand might wish to be and would, unless surprised, look off a dozen assassins.

Similar precautions have been taken for many years for the security of the lives of the rulers of Spain. There is a village in Spain—Espinosa by name—which has long had the honor of furnishing a certain number of courtiers, known as "Montanos de Espinosa," whose duty it is to answer for the safety of the king when he sleeps. They stand guard before the door of the royal bedchamber in the night time, so that no one can approach the door without being seen. The men of Espinosa are the only people in the kingdom because of this lightly paired honor. No one has ever proved unworthy of the trust.—Rome Correspondent.

Selling Its Four Years Old.

It is stated by Portland ale dealers that this has been the best year for business on the Kennebec since the great season of 1890. One man says that since his 4 years old has been sold. This is very unusual. For that to 4 years old seem come to get out of the houses that it goes to and it is the free place, for it is the set that is at the bottom of the house and has been consolidated into a solid mass by the water flowing down from the melting mass above and freezing these underlying mass together. To run out a block from this is very difficult, for it is like quarrying stone from the solid ledge. It is a good thing that it can be sold if only for the cost of handling it, because it must be got out of the building sometime. Generally they have helps in it with an auger, put in a stick of dynamite and blow the ice into fragments, which are then shoveled out.—Portland (Me.) Press.

Valuable "Material."

"They are more than mere puppets—they are the material for the social history of a great monarch and not a little of her home life." It would be difficult for an ordinary American citizen to guess what is referred to in the context, which occurs in an editorial article recently published in the London Standard, the principal organ of the Conservative and Unionist parties. The "material for the social history" of Queen Victoria and her times is nothing else than a collection of wooden dolls used by her majesty when she was a child.—New York Tribune.

IS IT ADVERTISING?

The Question Asked and Frankly and Plainly Answered.

Here are Certain Well-Defined Reasons for the Success of the Genuine and Skilled Specialist—Do First a Specialist Then an Advertiser—Reverse the Order and You Have a Hunting.

"Why is it that such unknown men and such physicians as the writer can do but work, "Here every month we expose certain impostors who discover from patents who hardly that these frauds have called them. These statements and names are charged personally. Doctor Shores must be treating hundreds of people. Is it advertising that does this?

"No, it is not advertising that does it. There is something back of the advertising. That something is skill, experience, personal attention and honesty.

"The cause success is due into a combination. Training, skill, experience and will when combined, have advertising will have the most of success. Without them it will be a failure. There are scores of men who cannot. There is no other way to secure permanent success. Advertising alone will do it. Skill without any other way always fail. The public may be misled for a time by exaggerated "cures" claimed under the guise of testimonials, but the public will finally find it out and the man who has relied on advertising will be left behind and another will take his place.

"What was? Have you had the energy to go to Lake and the people know who what trouble you have had?
