FRAGMENTS.

Home missionary meeting tomorrow evening at 7:30 sharp.

The City Council will meet in regular session tonight.

The Choral society had a very enjoyable and highly entertaining social evening last night.

Between five and six hundred people were entertained at the parade ground Saturday. The next meeting will be in the Assembly Hall, commencing at 7 o'clock, when additional members will be taken.

Marriage licenses have been issued by the county clerk to J. H. Dunford, 21, and Alice M. Gates, 20, both of Ogden; Andrew J. Hudson, 26, and Louisa Johnson, 22, both of Park City; Hyrum Balough, 22, and Priscilla James, 18, both of Salt Lake City.

HE MEANT BUSINESS.

A Bridegroom Who Wanted a Receipt for Cash Paid in Advance.

With an extremely business-like air a young gentleman with matrimony in view appeared before County Clerk Maloy this afternoon and obtained a marriage license, after which he inquired for the probate judge. His errand was in the adjoining court room, and to him the prospective bridegroom put the question:

"Well, judge, what is your fee for marrying a couple?"

"Five dollars," answered Judge Hiatt.

"Very well," promptly replied the visitor, diving down into his pocket and bringing forth the required amount. "Now for a receipt," said he with the same air of business; "and can you marry us at 4 o'clock today?"

The judge, though not accustomed to furnish write-ups of marriages, of course complied with the request and promised to be there at the hour named to tie the matrimonial knot.

With a "good morning" the gentleman vanished as hurriedly as he came, leaving the judge and clerk to enjoy a good laugh together.

For the Plaintiff.

In the case of James Fowler vs Paul Hammer, tried in Judge Bartch's court, the jury awarded the plaintiff $52 and costs. The facts were reported in yesterday's News.

Indian Territory Mission.

Minutes of a conference held in Mazard, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory, October 10th and 11th, 1893. Elder R. M. Harper presiding. The opening address was made by Elder H. J. Holmes, who spoke on the first four principles of the Gospel. Elder Jos. H. Lowe next addressed the meeting on the apostasy from the primitive church. In the afternoon, after the sacrament was administered, Elder R. M. Harper spoke on the sacrament and the second coming of Christ. On Monday morning Alonzo Frost, Cyrus Jeffs, A. N. Watson, Wm. Gardner, Alma Dalbeard and Geo. Arbitle, Fossil missionaries from Utah, bore their testimonies and expressed the hope that they would be able to labor in the Lord's vineyard. The meeting continued with some exceedingly interesting remarks from Elder J. H. Lowe.

In the Fossil district monthly meeting reports were given showing all the different fields of labor.

In the evening the first principles of the Gospel were spoken on by Elder J. H. Lowe.

The Elders were set apart to labor in the following fields:

For the Western party: John A. Lowe, John A. Mason, Arthur Walker and George Arbitle.

For the southern field: H. J. Holmes, Frank Oliver, Jos. Lowe and Alma Davis.

For the old field (the Cherokee and Choctaw nations): Robert M. Harper, Wm. Gardner and Isaac Jennings.

The meetings were mostly well attended. The missionary work in the Indian Territory is in a prosperous condition. Quite a number are being baptized into the Church. The health of the missionaries is improving.

Sunday night a concert was given by the Elders previous to starting for their fields of labor. A large number of people were in attendance, good order was kept throughout the whole entertainment, and all went home well pleased. WM. GARDNER, Clerk.

Y. L. M. I. A. CONFERENCE.

The Young Ladies of Cache County Hold Three Interesting Meetings at Logan.

Special to the Deseret News.

LOGAN, Oct. 23.—The Y. L. M. I. A. of Cache Stake met in conference in the Logan Tabernacle, October 21, 1893.

The day was beautiful and the attendance good. In the afternoon the room being crowded. The choir of young ladies furnished excellent music, and a good spirit prevailed.

At the morning meeting reports were given of twenty-one out of twenty-two associations, showing that there never has been a better work done among the young ladies than during the past six months. Sister E. S. Taylor, president of the general organization of Y. L. M. I. A., spoke to the conference on the of the associations. She gave instructions to officers and members on prayer, reverence for the aged, honor for parents, dress, manners, health and self-respect. Referred to the Association Guide and to organizing the Young Women's Journal. The principal object of our association, said she, is to educate the spiritual nature of our girls.

Sister E. Townsend, president of the mutual organization, stated that all the associations were doing a good work, and those engaged therein felt that they were blessed in their labors. She thanked the sisters who had come from Salt Lake City to attend the conference.

The greater part of the afternoon was given to Prof. J. H. Paul, of the B. Y. college, who delivered a very fine address on "The Beautiful."

Sister Zina D. Young exhorted the girls to attend to their prayers, and strive to be beautiful in the highest sense.

At the evening session the first speaker was sister Carrie M. C. Smith, who commented upon the pleasing and instructive nature of the exercises of the day, and encouraged the young ladies in their labors for self-improvement.

Sister E. S. Taylor next addressed the large congregation in attendance. She referred to the many privileges of obtaining correct knowledge that were enjoyed by the young ladies in Utah, and gave beautiful advice to her young sisters on the duties and responsibilities of womanhood. She noted the improvement that was following the labors of those engaged in the mutual improvement cause, and congratulated the young ladies on the progress.

Sister Zina D. Young then community remarks to the assembly. Her instructions were replete with a spirit of love and kindness, and were listened to with deep interest.

Elder Orson Smith, President of Cache Valley Stake, entreated the sisters to avail themselves of their opportunities for improvement.

He also stated that he had received a telegram announcing the passage by the Senate of the resolution restoring the Church personal property.

The conference then adjourned.

The riksdag, May 12, 1893, requested the government to prepare a bill and present it to the riksdag, uniting the mail and the telegraph services under one department. The government appointed a committee to run the matter under advisement and the committee has not to report to the government March 31, 1893. The government took it up for consideration the other day, and expressed as its opinion that no such radical changes as those proposed by the riksdag were needed.

The "first vacation colonies" of Stockholm were started in the summer of 1893. During that summer 213 poor children were distributed among 15 different colonies in the country around Stockholm. This year there were about 25 colonies with 350 children. In the course of the past eight years the expenses per child have been reduced from 29.42, including traveling expenses, to 20.07. The expenses are borne by subscription contributions, but the different societies in Stockholm begin to look upon the colonies as a permanent and absolutely necessary institution.

"The mistake King," a grandson of Louis Philippe of France, married Paris and the prince left for the court house of France visited Copenhagen the other day. The visit is the most remarkable event of the French republic in Copenhagen at the time when the news of the assassination of the French republic was sweeping at Fredericksberg, causes quite a flurry of excitement at Paris.

The German press of late has been making loose lessons of a proposition to erect a fort at Aggersu, on the west coast of Sjelland. Such a fort, supplied with appliances for arm guns would, of course, command the Sag Bell entry and close up the entrance to the Baltic sea. Only small craft would be able to pass so far from the fort as to be at a safe distance, while large ships would have to pass so close to the fort that they would be exposed to a destructive fire from the fort. This project does not seem to be very adaptive to the Germans, and they hope the Danish parliament will refuse to make the necessary appropriations for the execution of the project.

Experiments are to be made shortly with a new system of the electric current for actually use there. Electric power for light is caused by the pressure of water, and the weight of the water is not yet determined. The bell system is constructed a model and professional electric engineers have an office at a good distance. The inner the situation or situation of the magnet for electric the water, and the stronger the waves the more intense and palpable to the senses they become.
