Pickpockets dis-purse a crowd.

Keeping fans for hire is a new trade in Paris.

Truth finds loss where it makes none.

A spacious piece of furniture—a table of distances.

Stage-driver's motto—Jam forte in omnibus.

The head cook at Astor House has a salary of over $4,000 a year.

John Allen, Esq., the greatest in the wickedness man in New York.

Fuse—The genus of the lamp that burns the midnight oil.

A young man advertises in a Boston paper for a book-keeper's position, and adds that he "is willing to black boots."

"Hallo, Bill, lend me five dollars!" "You are mistaken in the man, sir, I'm not a five dollar Bill."

A sign on a Bowery corner in New York reads: "Persons standing here will consider themselves loafers."

A young Missourian, eulogising his girl's beauty, said, "I'll be doggoned if she ain't as purty as a red wagon."

Mrs. Partington told the one she had her preacher had preached about the "Parody of the Probable Son."

Pennsylvania, New York and Alabama are of the same size, that is, the area of each is 46,000 square miles.

Never open oysters with your fingers. It is apt to tickle the oyster and put it into convulsions. An oyster in convulsions will generally collapse, and in this condition is unfit for food.

A sailor, in attempting to kiss a pretty girl, got a violent box on the ear. "There," he exclaimed, "just my luck; always wrecked on the coral reefs."

The difference between an Indian and an Irishman is, one smokes the pipe of peace, the other the piece of a pipe.

Life is made up of joys and sorrows—the former should be treasured to enable us to pass successfully through the latter.

A notice of a recent steamboat explosion in a Western paper ends as follows: "The Captain swam ashore. So did the chambermaid, she was insured for $15,000 and loaded with iron."

A Boston apothecary's assistant recently put up a prescription, and found that his customer had passed on him a bad twenty-five cent piece and a five cent bit. He told his employer. "Never mind," said the philosophic Yankee, "if the five cent bit is good, there's a clean profit of three cents."

Howe Wheeler, of Calais, Vermont, was ninety years old last December, and his wife will be ninety next month, and they have lived together seventy-one years. They have eight living children, the oldest, aged seventy years, and the youngest forty-two—forty-two grandchildren and forty-five great grandchildren.

Many years ago when lives were condemned to suffer by the law had more choice than they have now for the particular tree upon which they should be hanged, a Highlander was sentenced to death for some crime or other, of which he had been found guilty. The judge, after passing the sentence, said, addressing the prisoner, "Donald, it only remains for you to chose the tree upon which you are to be hanged." "Well, well," said Donald, "if her ainsel maun be hanged, she be in no way particular, but for a' that her ainsel will just choose a groose-bush." (goose-berry bush). The judge whereupon remonstrated with him, saying, "it would not be large enough." "Och," said Donald, "she be in no hurry; she will just wait till it grows."

A Dutchman related his adventure with a bear as follows: "You see I vas plowing mit der field, unt I saw a pig black bear a gooming for me out mit a beace of woods. Vas I agairt? Vell I hope to never die to touch as I done git agairt ven I saw that bear. You see I had nodthing to defend mineself with all 'e vile, unt though I peest a prave man, I turn and run like as der devil. The tam bear he runned after me, unt just as I climbed der fence all over me der bear he clinch me mit his fore hint paws around der pody. Den der Dutch gone up, all the wils unt I vas put in dander unt blitzen. I pulled out der long powee knife vot I always vears in mine breeches pocket, unt I—"

"But, hold on!" said a listener. "I thought you said you had no weapon?"

Dutchman scratched his head a moment, a little puzzled, and then added: "Vell, it's all right, don't it? That makes no tifference. It's a tam lie anyhow."

Rev. Bidney Smith said: "When you rise in the morning form the resolution to make the day a happy one to a fellow creature. It is easily done; a left-off garment to the man who needs it, a kind word to the sorrowful, an encouraging expression to the striving—trifles in themselves light as air—will do the business, at least for the twenty-four hours; and, if you are young, depend upon it it will tell when you are old; and, if you are old, rest assured it will send you gently and happily down the stream of human time to eternity. By the most simple arithmetical sum, look at the result; you send one person, only one, happily through the day, that is three hundred [illegible] and supposing you live thirty years, [illegible] after you commence that course of medicine, you have made 14,600 human beings happy, at all events for a time. No, [illegible] This too short for a sermon, too homely for ethics, and too [illegible] for anything else." "I would if I could."
