SCHOOL BOARD MATTERS.

Collector Leonard's Statement for 1892, —Miscellaneous Business.

The city school board met last night, President Nelson in the chair.

Clerk Moreton presented a summons in the case of S. U. Watson, who demands a judgment in the sum of $9.04.05 for a portion of the contract price, and for work and material furnished on the Sixth ward school. Referred to the board's attorney.

Liens were reported as follows: W. S. Simkins, $3056.41; Fisher & Doran, $183; Utah Stove & Hardware Company, $666.55. Committee on sites and buildings.

Architect Carroll sent in a bill for $1055.50 for work on the Hanmer and Ogilvie school buildings, and asked that the amount be credited to C. D. Dart. Committee on sites and buildings.

Collector Leonard sent in his statement as collector for 1892 as follows:

Debits—
To net assessment roll for 1892	$1,336,248 00
All'g mills	1
Credits—
By cash to H. T. Duke, treasurer	$13,922 19
Commissions on First street, cut out by council	24 00
Uncollectable personal accounts, etc	111 41
Double assessments, etc	32 10
Charles Gibson, commissions in lieu of	11 85
Total	$13,902 87

Committee on finance.

The committee on sites and buildings recommended as to the Franklin school building "that the clerk of the board notify the contractor of the Franklin school and his bondsmen that the board of education will insist on the enforcement of the time forfeiture clause in the contract for the erection of the said school building." Adopted.

The same committee recommended that the president and clerk of the board execute the contract with Hesch, Davis & Co. for the heating and ventilation of the Oquirrh school building for $8725, the provision having been omitted when the matter was passed upon at the last meeting. Adopted.

A communication was received from the attorney of the board on the matter of the claim of the Sixty-sixth district against the Twenty-ninth district for an equitable adjustment of the property in the latter district, and to the creation of which the Sixty-sixth district contributed, also covering the taxes for 1892. He stated that it was a matter of serious doubt in his mind whether any recovery could be had with reference to the interests of the property at the time of the division of the Twenty-ninth district. As to the recovery of taxes, he stated that he had not found time as yet to examine the matter carefully. Filed.

The committee on sites and buildings, to whom was referred a former report recommending that the contracts between the board and the Hendy & Meyer Engineering company, for the heating and the ventilating of the Jackson school building, be annulled, recommended that the former report be adopted, and that the board readvertise for bids for the period of five days. They also recommended that the said advertisement should cover all approved systems of heating, so that the bid to be made to include all work necessary for the installation and operation of such system as the board may adopt.

A majority of the members of the same committee reported that they had visited the Hamilton school and examined the heating and ventilating plant and found it satisfactory, and recommended that it be accepted and that a warrant issue for the payment of the same in accordance with the contract. The minority opposed the adoption of the report. A compromise was effected on a motion of Mr. Baldwin that $2560 be paid the contractors on account.

Appropriations to the amount of $5,113.39 were made.

Under the head of new business, President Nelson stated that henceforth a minority report would not be considered as an amendment to the majority report, as had heretofore been done, and would not be acted upon except when a motion is made to substitute it for the majority report.

Health Commissioner Beatty urged the need of strict sanitary and quarantine regulations being observed by the schools of the city, and asked the board to co-operate with him in the matter.

INTERESTING STREET PLAY.

A Company of Workmen from the Waterworks Department Amuse an Audience of Citizens.

A score or more of citizens, most of them business men and taxpayers, witnessed a farcical labor performance on East Temple street yesterday. It has been going on for the last two or three weeks, but critics say that it was never so amusingly rendered as today.

Superintendent of Waterworks Ryan is general manager, and whether always present or not, he is ably assisted by a quartette of foremen. The characters in the cast are said to have been carefully selected, and having undergone a special examination as to political eligibility were at once given employment.

"They are a wonderful company," said one of the citizens who was present at the play. "They consisted of fifteen men, three of whom were shovelers. To the twelve was allotted the difficult task of tamping the dirt thrown into the trench by the three and by taking turns they did the work assigned them. We were particularly interested in one individual who appeared to be suffering from that 'tired feeling' sometimes called spring fever at this season of the year. One of our party took his watch from his pocket and as a result it was noticed that the fellow during fifteen minutes actually raised his tamping rod six times. According to the law of gravitation it fell each time when released by the holder, a fact that he willingly and unmeaningly played. On one of his hands was a kid glove, I suppose covering a bitter which was turned by reason of his laborious duties."

An ex-county officer says he had the curiosity to wander up and down the trench where the workmen are engaged. He peered into their faces in vain and declares that he could not find a property owner or taxpayer among them. To the man, he says, who can find one is allotted a task as difficult as the one undertaken by Diogenes when with his lamp he made an unsuccessful attempt to find an honest man.

Turkeys.

As compared with chickens, few turkeys are reared by the average farmer. The usual mortality in turkey chicks is, under average treatment, large—so large as to eat up all the profits. A correspondent of the New York World writes:

My object is to tell how a large per cent of each brood hatched may be reared. In the first place, as turkey chicks, up to nearly or quite 2 months old, are very delicate, it is absolutely essential to provide special shelter for the young brood during this critical period. Wet and dampness must be avoided. The turkey hen, as a rule, lays about 18 eggs. The best time to hatch turkey chicks by the old time method is in the months of May and June. As the turkey hen sits very constantly, it is needful in most cases to remove her daily from her nest to be fed. Care should be taken that she is returned to it inside of 20 minutes. Besides this daily food it is well to keep water and soft food always within her reach.

The turkey chick breaks the shell from the 26th to the 29th day. The day but one before the hatching is expected the hen ought to be plentifully fed and an ample supply of water and food placed where she can reach it. Then do not disturb her again until the chicks are out. Do not take the chicks away from the nest until all are out. Turkey chicks are very stupid about learning how to eat, so considerable patience is required at the first in this matter. The very best feeding for the first week is hard boiled eggs chopped fine, in which is mixed a little minced dandelion, when the latter can be obtained. After this I feed bread crumbs and a little meal in which is also some egg.

At the end of three weeks, small grain, boiled potato—in fact, the diet usually given to other poultry—may be fed. By judicious feeding, the first great danger, which is a tendency to diarrhea, is overcome. The second danger to be guarded against, as I have already remarked, is cold and damp. A wetting is fatal to young turkey chicks. So fully convinced am I of this fact that I supply their drinking water in such a way that they cannot wet themselves in it. I never let the chicks out on a grass run until all danger from dew is past. Their exercise is taken most of the time on a small run nicely sanded.

At 6 weeks to 2 months old the chicks become youths, when the red, naked protuberances about the throat have fairly developed. From this time they are hardy and may be left to their natural inclination with safety, so far as their general health is concerned. Since I have made up my mind to give the extra care and attention described in the foregoing, during the first two months after hatching I have had fairly remunerative returns from my turkeys. To readers who are willing to do the same I would say, add a small flock of turkeys to your poultry yard. Where, however, special provisions cannot or will not be made for turkey chicks I cannot advise turkeys as profitable fowls.

Our best experienced beekeepers confess they have been sometimes disappointed in their efforts to confine swarming within reasonable limits. G. M. Doolittle and other well known apiarists practice cutting out all queen cells but one eight days after the first swarm has issued.

Gold is a necessary ingredient to character food. It is also a necessary ingredient in successful men and women.

A low writer makes a bad break. He remarks, "Newly hatched incubator chicks are very perceptible to cold." This is sad.

The first month of the year started in in fine style, bringing pork to the highest point it had reached in the market in 10 years.

Hood's Cures

Saved My Wife's Life

Weakness, Nervousness, Salt Rheum.

John W. Jones
Kalama, Wash.

"Of my own free will and accord, unbiased by anyone, and wishing only to do good to the afflicted, I write to tell of the good qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills. I think there are no medicines equal to them, and have recommended them to many persons. My wife was very much benefited by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Her weakness, nervousness and rheumatism left her, and she gained in her own health. My wife, Rachel, has been afflicted with troublesome salt rheum for years, and I have never yet found a cure of it that would equal Hood's Sarsaparilla. Hood's Sarsaparilla is my family medicine and I can recommend it to all who need a good blood purifier."

Being Beautiful

is the least of being—that's all right for us hardware folk; we only think of being good and of how many nails we can give for a dollar. But with the women it is important to be too, sweet for anything, and the MAJESTIC RANGE or RELIABLE GASOLINE STOVE will sweeten the temper of any woman. They too have wound their way into the hearts of many a housekeeper solely on their own merits.

They may not be as beautiful as some, but who looks for beauty in a range? It is quality and price that are looked for, and the Majestic Ranges and Reliable Gasoline Stoves possess both, something never before found.

When not too busy drop in on us and we will tell you the little we know about steel ranges and gasoline stoves.
