DESERET EVENING NEWS.

5 O'clock -EDITION.-

TRUTH AND LIBERTY.

NO. 281. THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1893. SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH. VOL. XXVI

READY TO ADJOURN.

The Work of the Special Session Almost Completed.

UTAH'S ADMISSION FAVORED.

Republicans Want the Next President.—Cards from the C. P. A. to Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Speaker Crisp and General Catchings, of the committee on rules, had a conference this morning, and decided to report a resolution for final adjournment tomorrow at 5 p. m.

The House is ready to adjourn today, but the Senate desires to wait for the Chinese bill to passs and the resolutions sent in by the President before adjourning.

All resolutions which fail of consideration will go over and must be sent in the next session.

In the contested case over which there was the most contention, that of Judge Hendricks, of New York, he will report in the Republican favor, the general idea is that Hill can't have a seat even if he can prove fraud, and that it will be seated.

WILL SOON ADJOURN.

Bills Introduced Surrounded on All Sides.

CATHOUN, Nov. 2.—A special to the Associated Press reports Kelly, Lonegan as flying home. Were intercepted by native citizens in the act of trying to rally Britisers in the vicinity of the Shangan river and Kwan, about a hundred miles from Buluwayo and 150 miles west of Fort Charles. He seems, from anywhere, to have fallen into a complete trap. The British forces under Colonel Zinome have been ordered to use the Lowenly country in the rear and Fort Salisbury to fix their flank, while the British column advancing. It is expected he will be compelled to surrender in a few days. During the march towards the Kwan river the British saw numerous bodies of Matabeles, but they always retreated. On the night of Oct. 30th Major Forbes sent a body of scouts in the direction of the transport train of the Shangan Matabele regiment, and they found the Impigenis had to large to be apparently prepared to make a desperate resistance. When informed of the Major Forbes corps forward a force of several hundred Dragoon Guards by way of two rapid fire guns. They felt there was enough to wipe a short work force of the kraal, placed the remaining guns in a commanding position and then charged. In the subsequent scout of the Dragoons they found not a single foot in the kraal and the Matabeles in full flight in the distance.

On October 25 a small party of British troops, while guarding a lot of prisoners, was attacked by Matabeles, but the latter were repulsed after a sharp engagement in which several were killed. The British lost quite a number including Colonel Leaver. The British column crossed the Tangwe river.

On Oct. 31 the Matabeles, 5000 strong, made a furious attack on the Britons from several sides at once. They showed admirable discipline and the greatest bravery. The British received their fire until the Matabeles came in close range and then opened fire on them with Martini rifles and Maxim rapid fire guns. The Matabeles came on desperately for a time but finally withdrew in the heat of slaughter. Finally they broke and fled, leaving five hundred killed and wounded on the field and carrying with them numerous of other wounded besides those able to stagger away in the retreat. Many of these have since died. British loss is only two killed and six wounded. From there to Buluwayo the British found the way unobstructed, the Matabele evidently being too disheartened to attempt further resistance.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Information received from Matabeles, says the steamer City of Alexandria, of the New York and China line, is burned. She was an iron vessel of 1384 tons.

To Tax Paper Money.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Cooper, of Indiana, now introduced a bill in the House authorizing the states to tax national bank notes, greenbacks and all other notes circulating as money.

POPULISTS FRATER

They Want the Next President, Becoming Allies.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Populists in Congress are elated over the prospective result of the fight for unconditional repeal and claim it will make the advocates of free silver in the South and West under their banner. They say they expect to capture the Presidency in 1896 and are already discussing candidates. There is a strong sentiment in favor of Jerry Simpson, and Kansas has a following of Allen, (Nebraska), who leads the house for fifteen years, seems to have control the members of the party in the House, to which an extent that he is now entertaining a Presidential team. Watson (Ga.) is spoken of for vice President.

CONGRESSMEN HONORED

With Cards from the American Free Coinage Association.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Many congressmen today received cards from the American Free coinage association, whose mottoes is mottoes in Michigan and elsewhere were so severely affected in Congress a few days ago, selling cards be adopted.

The card says the "it is non-sectarian, nonpartisan, and recognizes only of true Americans, regardless of nationality, and it is for the purpose of restoring rights, extending to mankind religion as long as he does not make it an excuse to be idlest, feel he also to be property, government protection and the Declaration of Independence against the secret secrets of all foreign influence. That it regards all differences of opinions as excuses to evil and religious prejudice and that it is course to give political or military power to those who owe supreme allegiance to any foreign power, political or ecclesiastical, that it favors the general, universal, impartial suffrage, and that it favors the free of people lands for actual purposes, favors the enactment of laws to exclude American citizens from the influences of power and criminal and social laws by foreigners convicted, that it and opposed to school, sectarian institutions and the party to welcome genuine American citizens.

FROM OVER THE OCEAN.

Letter From the Parnellites to British Liberals.

The Letter are Accused of Patronizing With Home Rule and Forgetting Their Promises.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—On October 30, T. P. O'Connor, president of the Irish National League, sent a letter to the general manager of the Associated Press, criticising the Parnellites as being of the Irish party and accusing them of deserting Gladstone. Today John Redmond, the leader of the Parnellites, wrote to the general manager of the Associated Press in reply. He says the alliance of the Parnellites has been misrepresented, that it is not the promulgation of a new policy, and that the policy of the Parnellites towards the liberal party is precisely as it has been all along. The Parnellites are willing to support the liberals so long as they remain true to their pledges to Ireland, but they are absolutely independent, and mean to let them know that in pointing with home rule they convert Parnellites from supporters into opponents. It is not the intention of the Parnellites to throw Gladstone out of power and restore Salisbury. What they intend is to give the present government to understand that their existence depends on the Irish votes and that the price to be paid therefor is adherence to their pledges on the question of home rule.

The reason for calling attention to this fact now is that the attitude of the liberal party toward home rule has entirely changed since Parnell's death. Gladstone then declared that Ireland forfeited the best friend, and that the only way to get legislation for British interests was to first pass the home rule bill. But now it is proposed to hang up home rule and take up a long list of British reforms, forgetting the promises of a strong fight, if the score of Irish reported the measure, in order as they claim to be able to carry the next elections.

Redmond admits the truth of this claim but says it is the intention of the party to see that only the proper kind of British reforms are connected with, and that the centuries are no indefinitely postponed, otherwise home rule would be hung up indefinitely. He declares if the Newcastle program is carried out home rule will not be reached for years to come. He points out that Gladstone is an old man and to put home rule off so long would be to relegate it to the mercy of some one infinitely or less able to effect half the desire than Gladstone, therefore, Ireland must continue to block the way.

Killed by a Boiler Explosion.

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

Reception Given by Miss Ward M. Babcock and Assistants.

The Social Hall was the scene of very pleasant attractions last evening, the occasion being the opening of the Gymnasium of the Utah School of Physical Culture and Elocution. At an early hour invited guests began to assemble, and were shown through the hall by Miss Babcock, and each piece of apparatus and the principle to which it was thoroughly explained to the satisfaction and profit of all assembled. The apparatus is of the most approved pattern and design, and the interior and equipments a great credit to the city and to its proprietors. In the various parts of the apparatus are those most extensively used in Sweden, Germany and the United States, so that the city's new institution will be equipped with the best models of the time. The program of exercises consisted of an address by Dr. Babcock, in which the benefits accruing from systematic training were clearly set forth, followed by the rendition of Robert of Sicily by Miss Babcock, which was rapturously encored, a classical exercise on the piano by Mr. Willy Dougal, and the singing of two selections by Misses Mary and Kate Romney, both of which were heartily received. The News congratulates Miss Babcock upon the nearly appreciation with which her new enterprise is received, and bespeaks for her eminent success.

From the Sandwich Islands.

Elders John J. Johnson and J. T. Giles of Provo, Irvin F. Fisher of Beaverdam, and Joseph B. Hawkes of Franklin, Idaho, returned today from a mission to the Sandwich Islands, for which they started November 15, 1890. The missionaries met with encouraging success while laboring in various parts of the islands and speak highly of the treatment received from the people wherever they went. Their report of the work which is being carried on by the Elders there is a most gratifying one. The brethren named came back in the best of health and spirits.

THE DEFENSE OPENS.

Harry Hammond's Side of the Case Is Being Ventilated

TESTIMONY AS TO CHARACTER.

Depositions of Nebraska Witnesses Admitted on that Head.—The Evidence This Day.

Further evidence was adduced by the prosecution in the Hammond murder case on trial in Judge Zane's court, after the News report closed yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Lewis Walling said the boys had the pistol or a gun and were hopping north on East Temple street before the shot was fired. He recognized Harry Hammond as the boy who had the gun. The shot sounded as if it came from the shed in Wright's yard.

Thomas Quayle testified that Harry Hammond stated to him any knowledge of firing the gun at the time of the killing, saying that he had not discharged it since he left the bridge.

The testimony given by Hammond at the preliminary hearing was then submitted to the jury by mutual consent.

Judge Hawat then announced that the prosecution would rest now, and Attorney Walle made an opening statement for the defense. He took the position that Hammond fired the gun off on East Temple street, a little south of the entrance to Walling's yard, and that he did not go into the Walling boy further, that it was when first by Hammond, killed Clyde. It seems it was quite some dental, as he did not see the child at the time, and had no reason to doubt as injure him in any way.

J. D. H. McAllister, called by the defense, identified a drawing made by himself of the locality where the tragedy occurred.

Mrs. Anna M. Ryan, grandmother of Hammond, testified that she was in the alleyway of the Hammond house all the morning of June 19th. Harry and Clyde were playing around the house. She did not hear any quarreling among the children, but didn't hear any threats made against Clyde Robertson. About 12:30 a rock was thrown into the house. Harry went to the door and said, "Old Bob has whipped Clyde." Then afternoon Harry went out with a gun, and she did not see him again until after the killing. She heard the shot, and soon after Harry came in and said, "Grandma, I shot Clyde little Clyde Robertson, and I'm going to see about it."

Attorney Walle—"What is your experience or the character of Harry, as to peace and quietness and obedience?"

The question was objected to by the prosecution. Both sides cited a number of authorities, after which court adjourned till today, with the understanding that the point should then be argued.

Upon the re-assembling of the court this morning the point which was in controversy at the time of adjournment last evening was again taken up. Attorney Walle cited additional authorities on the question, after which, to save time, the prosecution withdrew their objection.

Mrs. Ryan, the boy's grandmother, was recalled and said Harry was of a kind and peaceable disposition. He was "yielding and kind" to his sister, but it was soon over, and he was not at all vindictive.

"What was his disposition toward smaller children with whom he came in contact?" asked Attorney Walle.

The witness replied that he always seemed willing to amuse smaller children; he was kind to them, and they always appeared to take to him. About a couple of weeks before the "accident" she saw Harry Hammond and Clyde Robertson together, and she saw them most extensively used in Sweden, Germany and the United States, so that the city's new institution will be equipped with the best models of the time. The program of exercises consisted of an address by Dr. Babcock, in which the benefits accruing from systematic training were clearly set forth, followed by the rendition of Robert of Sicily by Miss Babcock, which was rapturously encored, a classical exercise on the piano by Mr. Willy Dougal, and the singing of two selections by Misses Mary and Kate Romney, both of which were heartily received. The News congratulates Miss Babcock upon the nearly appreciation with which her new enterprise is received, and bespeaks for her eminent success.

Mrs. Ryan testified that Harry and Clyde were playing together on the morning of June 19th. Harry was dressed in a white shirt and Clyde was in a color suited to
