COMING TO SALT LAKE.

An Officer Will Get the Record of Chas. Perry, Arrested for Murder.

A Pocatello dispatch to the Boise Statesman says that Sheriff Sullivan has received a dispatch that Patrick McNamara, a well known stockman, was brutally murdered Monday night, being struck over the head with a hatchet in the hands of an unknown person at Lava, a station 6 miles east of Pocatello.

Charlie Perry was engaged by McNamara last Friday to herd. McNamara is a cripple, and lives alone and is supposed to be well off. Perry states that about 11 o'clock the night before the murder he went to the door and then pushed it open, rushing in and hitting McNamara over the head with a hatchet several times. They then searched the house, helping up a pocket book and the papers that were in it. He states one of the men had a six-shooter at him, and after McNamara was killed the body was rolled up in a blanket and thrown in a closet. They then carried down the track five or six miles, telling him he leave the country and that if he ever showed up in the valley they would kill him. Perry, after walking several miles, got a conveyance and returned to Lava giving the alarm.

When Sheriff Sullivan, accompanied by Mr. Stanley, went to Lava they find an inquest. Perry was arrested. He says he is innocent, but circumstantial evidence announced with the confiding stories told by Perry was sufficient to arrest. Sheriff Sullivan is confident he has the right man and will visit Utah, where Perry has worked, in hope of getting information regarding Perry's past life. Perry is a small man, dark complexion, with brown eyes and a light moustache. He worked in the California restaurant in Salt Lake about two months ago.

Respectfully yours,
R. F. CLAY,

Resolved, by the Ministers' association, that the heavy thanks and support of the law-abiding, order-loving people of this city are due to Mr. Arthur Pratt, our chief of police, for his earnest efforts in enforcing the law which requires the saloons to be closed on Sunday.

Resolved, second, That the saloon keepers have no more right to break the laws than any other class, and that their persistency in so doing, except when forcibly restrained by force from hand of official power, is one more demonstrative proof that they are engaged in an illegitimate and destructive business which tends to promote lawlessness. And, therefore, the sooner they quit this miserable business which derives the hard-earned wages of the poor and robs little children of needed food and clothing, the better for the city and for the saloonkeepers themselves.
