AT THE JORDAN NARROWS.

Large Party of Business Men Visit the Site of the Latest Electric Power Project.

A party of gentlemen spent yesterday afternoon at Jordan Narrows, as guests of Allen G. Lemon, vice president of the Jordan Narrows Electric Power company.

The party included, besides the host, Cummings Morris, LeRoy Young and Dell of the Council committee on Salt Lake and Jordan canal; Councilmen Stewart, Wilcomb and Allen; W. H. Haigh, president of the North Jordan canal; George C. Lambert, secretary of the Utah and Salt Lake canal; City Engineer Kelsey; A. F. Doremus, chairman of the board of public works; W. H. Wallace, superintendent of the city waterworks; City Engineer Emery; John Dern and E. H. Airie of the Herald office; S. R. Milner of the Deseret Evening company; R. M. Jones, consulting engineer of the Jordan Narrows company; J. P. Hill, R. A. Bender, Peter Reed, C. H. Wilcken, Fred Lockard, H. L. J. Warren of the Engineering and Mining Journal; A. M. Cannon Jr., I. M. Waddell, Reuben I. Clawson and A. Milner.

The purpose of the trip was an examination of the site of the operations projected by the Jordan River Electric Generating company. It is the intention of the company to enlarge the Utah and Salt Lake canal so that it will carry for nearly two miles, all the water now carried by the City canal, the South Jordan canal and the river. All this water, less the regular supply of the Utah and Salt Lake canal will then be arranged down fifty-five feet through the company's power wheels, and returned to the South Jordan canal and the river. The power plant will be situated west of the Jordan river, just opposite the 6 by-eight mile post on the Rio Grande Western.

In case it becomes necessary, the dam at the head of the Jordan river will be raised, and if this be done the company will build levees along the lake shore where practicable to protect the settlers, and where impracticable the lands will be bought.

The company will ask concurrence of the city and the canal companies in the change, planned for the delivery of the water to them. The company will take all the water below the diversion of the Draper and the Utah and Salt Lake canal and deliver it to the canals situated lower down the river, below the power plant, instead of at their present point of diversion.

DECREASE FOR THE YEAR.

Big Falling Off in the Earning Capacity of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Road.

The advance sheets of the annual report of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad company show an interesting comparison between the fiscal year of 1896 and the same period in 1897.

The report shows gross earnings for June last of $916,813, a decrease of $89,232 as compared with the same month of last year, net $277,409, an increase of $103, and surplus $46,291, an increase of $2,456. For the twelve months ending June 30, the gross earnings were $6,893,114, a decrease of $96,052 as compared with the corresponding period of last year; net $2,569,778, a decrease of $382,828, and surplus, after dividend, of $91,195, a decrease of $187,196.

The passenger revenues for the year just closed were $1,176,[illegible] over a million and a half dollars. Last year the receipts were $1,378,931.47; an increase in traffic. Revenues from freight in 1896 were $5,000,000. It is pointed out that while the Rio Grande, as a system, has sustained a large percentage of decrease in gross earnings, Colorado has an area about equal to the states of Illinois and Iowa put together and of the entire territory east of the large territory, the population of which is little less than ten per cent of the two other states named.

In the two-cent comparative balance sheet the cost of the road and improvements are given as over $97,031,003, the cost of the rest never, exclusive of equipment, of $4,007,000, bills receivable, real estate and other property being $8,194,352.96.

In the column of liabilities the capital stock is given at $60,000,000, the funded debt, $35,000,000, and the preferred, $25,000,000. The total funded debt is $43,136,000.

Local taxes for the year earnings were $7,551,[illegible], or $608,[illegible] more than the local year of 1897. The working expenses were $4,324,[illegible].

A MISSOURI CORRESPONDENT.

Tells of Utah in that State's Section and of How Affairs are Going in Missouri.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., August 6, 1897.

To the Editor:

The recent semi-centennial celebration in your State has brought out more favorable comments from the east and the press concerning Utah and her people than were ever known before. Utah, her people and her resources have never stood so high in the popular estimation as at present; why, it can even get so that an article can be written about Utah without the word Mormon or polygamy, which is remarkable.

While Ex-Governor Waite of Colorado was making in Texas (rich farm episode in the court house a few days ago) he took occasion to describe the wanderings of the Pioneers, and the great leadership of Brigham Young, and their entrance to the Salt Lake Valley, and did it in such an honorable way that it was a relief to hear him. The fact is dawning upon the majority of the people of this country that Utah is a great State, and that there is a spirit of progress and advancement found there that is seldom met with in any other community, all of which is a great extent has overcome prejudice and religious intolerance and paved her to her true light.

A splendid rain has fallen and the drought has been broken. When the earth is as dry as ashes, and the mercury registers 100 in the shade we feel our helplessness in not being able to turn water on our crops as they do in the West, but rain cannot be done here, so we are entirely at the mercy of the weather elves.

Crops are good here, and the times are getting better from the farmers' standpoint, better prices prevailing than for the last three years. Corn is the staple product, and for miles on the prairie south of here the whole country is one vast corn field.

A test made of it about two past two years proves that it will do well here. On July 20th it had been cut three times this season. Timothy and clover is the standard here, besides a vast quantity of prairie hay which is brought in by the railroads.

The business of this city has almost vanished, as the facilities for transportation are so good and cheap that the people do their shopping at Kansas City and their goods are delivered free of charge to any part of the city, consequently this is mainly a residence town. A great many who do business in Kansas City live here with their families.

The Klondike fever has struck this town, but so far few have gone away. M. st of them are preparing to go in the spring. E. PETERSON.

BANNOCK SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Interesting Report of Proceedings and Progress Made.

BLACKFOOT, August 2, 1897.

To the Editor:

The fourth annual Sunday school conference of the Bannock Stake convened in the Blackfoot opera house, Saturday and Sunday, July 31 and Aug. 1.

A very large representation of the Sunday school workers of this Stake were present, and the reports of the superintendents showed that the great Sunday school work was steadily on the increase. Four very interesting sessions were held (besides an officers' and teachers' meeting), at which some valuable instructions were given by Elders Goddard and Griggs of your city. The outpouring of the spirit upon were the word of wisdom, punctuality, order and cleanliness in our school rooms, the attendance of faithful and fast attending, the great benefits that schools would derive by following out the plan of instruction as mapped out in the Sunday school treatise, the law of tithing, etc. The remarks of all who addressed the conference were full of timely advice and counsel, such as is suitable for gatherings of this kind, and were highly appreciated by all who were present.

Our venerable leader and champion worker in the great Sunday school cause, Elder Goddard, addressed his remarks principally to the younger portion of the audience, and was so pleasantly entertaining, as shown by the strict attention which the children paid to him, and the hearty manner in which they assented him to sing the choicest of those good and appropriate songs—which we are all so pleased to hear, and which are always such a welcome portion of Brother Goddard's remarks. The children as well as the older portion of the audience highly appreciated his presence and remarks.

Elder Griggs' remarks were also very instructive and entertaining, being addressed principally to the Sunday school workers, on the importance and magnitude of the great work in which they were engaged.

The remarks of the Stake superintendency, as also of the Stake president, were very appropriate and instructive.

A excellent lecture of the conference was the exercises rendered by the seniors in concert, of the Lord's Prayer, Ten Commandments and the Articles of Faith.

The review of the primary department of the Bearing Second and Sunday school is especially worthy of note, and reflects great credit on the workers of the primary, assisted by Sisters Dora Clegg and Stella Cluff.

A chorus which was rendered by the same class, under the superintendency of Sister Ida Clegg, consisting of an enrollment of 160 at least, 140 were present and sang in a beautiful and pleasing manner, "The Thanksgiving Hymn."

Owing to the train on Wales Elders Goddard and Griggs traveling but a few hours late, they did not arrive until after the opening exercises of the afternoon session. As soon as they arrived, I moved to enter the doxology in the hall, the entire congregation rose to their feet and remained standing until our venerable manifestants and his traveling companions had taken their seats upon the stand. This mark of respect visibly affected our visiting brethren, both of whom made suitable acknowledgement of the same.

The Sunday schools of this Stake are in a very vigorous and healthy condition; increasing their numbers and enlarging their boundaries, until today we have 23 schools, with a total enrollment of about 3,000, and an average attendance of about 60 per cent. We have 17 Sunday school normals in our Stake, and have graduated from the B. Y. Academy at Provo, and the Bannock Stake Academy, some of whom are actively engaged as Sunday school home missionaries, and others as teachers and officers throughout the Stake. Together with a live and energetic Stake superintendency keep our standard of excellency and improvement abreast of our sister Stakes. When it is considered that we are but 14 years old; that two years ago we were cut in two by making another stake (Bingham) out of us, to whom we give 18 schools, and over 1,000 of our enrollment, and that today more are lost than we take with more schools than we have, and that like Stakes with a larger enrollment, and that from a Counties standpoint there are but five Stakes that have collected and enhanced more to the interest of Sunday school work than we have; there is every reason to feel justly proud of the progress made in the Sunday School Work by hardy pioneers of the Bannock Stake of Zion.

Elder Goddard will remain with us till Friday the 6th inst. He will address meetings in the interest of Sunday school work, as follows: Monday, 7:30 p.m., at Wound; Tuesday, 7:30 p.m., at Parker; Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at Ecin; Thursday, 2:30 p.m., at Bell-h. On Friday he will be Lewiston to a whole day's session of the annual Sunday school conference of Bingham Stake.

Elder Griggs leaves for Teton Basin where he will meet with the Sunday schools in district conference on the 15th inst. IN LOVE.

Utah Law School.

A school of law in this city has been established by Dr. Whitney, who with the assistance of a number of prominent city lawyers will conduct a collegiate course of law studies.

The institution is now fairly on its feet and has the cordial approval of the Governor and of the members of the supreme court; and through their kindness the attending students will have access to the law library. There are three courses offered: a preparatory of one year, a college course of two years, and a political science course. The college course is intended to qualify for the Utah bar or to prepare for advance study at Columbia, Michigan or Harvard.

Death of J. J. McClellan.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. There is no more authentic or reliable medicine than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Dr. H. E. Bonney, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Ill. 2. Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.
In 1862, when I served my country as a member of Company A, 107th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doc ors without any permanent relief. Not long ago I read and saw a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and used a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If the doubt this let them write to me. Yours truly, HENRY STEINGROVER, Allentown, Pa. Repairing and Re-upholstering.
You doubtless have pieces of furniture that need to be repaired, chairs that need new cane seats or re-covering; perhaps a sofa that needs re-upholstering. Nearly all furniture needs to be treated occasionally to a little furniture polish.
Why not have these things done now.
When we can give most time to it? In the fall we have almost more than we can do. If you can wait with us now, we quote a low figure on it, simply to keep our men employed.

For 15 Days Only.
RESERVOIR HOLDS 3½ QUARTS.
The Puritan Blue Flame, Oil Cook Stoves burn ordinary Coal Oil or Kerosene, and make a blue flame like the Gas or Gasoline. Anyone can operate them; and they will not get out of order. Each Burner is provided with two sets of flat wicks, which make a powerful flame, and are easy to trim and keep in order. The advantages are that there is no danger as with gasoline. It is impossible to have an accident.
A blue flame will not smoke or produce soot or odor; any utensil may be placed directly in the flame without a particle of soot being deposited upon it. Cooking and Baking can be done as well as on Gasoline Stoves.
The expense of operating these stoves is less than that of Gasoline Stoves.
A simple but ingenious device prevents the wick from being turned up too high.
The reservoir is kept cool by means of a complementary tube, which disconnects the wick tube from the burner, therefore the oil does not become heated as in the ordinary Oil Stove.
They are made of Best Material, Enameled and Decorated, and provided with Brass Reservoirs.
