PROVO.

PROVO, UTAH, [illegible] 1896.

Fourth District Court.

Yesterday in the Fourth district court the time was mainly taken up with hearing the case of Davis Clark vs H. A. Johns et al. Plaintiff alleges that in 1888 he entered into a agreement with Wm. L. Johns and Allen E. Kennedy of Heber City, Iowa, whereby they should furnish him a certain number of fruit trees of good quality, sufficient to plant about forty acres of land, and set out the trees, near Springville, in this county, and in payment for these trees he agreed to convey to them forty acres of land. The trees were delivered and planted and a deed given to Wm. L. Johns for the land. Wm. L. Johns has since died and the defendants are his heirs. Plaintiff goes to have the deed set aside on the ground that the trees were worthless. Thurman and Wedgewood and D. D. Hoxie represent Mr. Clark and Judge Lucius Lee the defendants.

Joseph Chamberlin vs H. H. Hess et al, demurrer to plaintiff's case.

In the matter of the estate of Peter N. Nielsen, deceased, notice of sale of certain property ordered issued to Jens Hansen, whose home were burned in 1895.

Estate Of vs H. G. Wilson; transferred to Nephi, Juab district.

Estate of Jesse Wright, deceased; order to show cause hearing on petition of Hyrum Wright for letters of administration, for Saturday, Oct. 31.

Estate of Sumner Peck, deceased; time of appointing sole of real estate set for November 25th.

H. Shlesinger et al vs Hercules Mining Co.; by stipulation continued to Nov. 20th, to be tried without a jury.

James L. Kenny et al vs Fabian Gough; summons on motion of plaintiff.

Joseph E. Croft has appealed to the Fourth district court a case from Justice Barnett's court of Payson, where judgment was rendered against appellant for $29.87 in favor of John E. Betts and Joseph E. Betts on an account for merchandise.

City Council.

In the city council last evening the committee on irrigation recommended that Wasatch county and the Provo company, to Wasatch and Upas canals, that the river diverting water into Provo river be turned to resist the day in using the necessary work to most advantageously state and use the water to last water at the head of the canal; the recommendation was adopted.

The question of using slag for grading the streets in preference to gravel, which has been previously used, was discussed; a motion that the council investigate the practicability of obtaining slag for street grading, free of any charge for the time we will to the work was carried.

Notes.

Marriage licenses have been issued by County Clerk Jones to the following couples: George W. Murdock of Lehi, aged 24, and Myrtle Hatch of Springville, aged 19; Clarence L. Maxwell, aged 21, of Lorenzo, Wyoming, and Ada E. Stamp, aged 20, of Provo; Robert H. Davis, aged 22, and Mrs. E. E. Hawn, aged 27, both of Salem; W. H. Shepherd, aged 24, and Ina Morrow, aged 19, both of San Francisco.

The fire engine belonging to Provo City has been hired to Mr. Jones of the Cottonwood Power Plant company, where it will be used for watering a clay bank into a reservoir, for the purpose of puddling the reservoir.

Judge Wilson has returned to Provo, and was around on the streets yesterday shaking hands with his many friends who are pleased to see his health improving.

A BEAUTIFUL HEAD.

Are You a Cow Physiognomist? If so, Look at This.

The following illustration, copied from a picture by Artius Hills in The Breeder's Gazette, shows us this a head of a dairy cow so fat been seen at this stage of the animal kingdom's evolution. Perhaps at some higher stage of cow development a cow-fat head-to look at may be produced, but we doubt it.

The cow is an imported one, and belongs to the Crumleen herd. These animals are regarded in Canadian herds with cameras how closely the head of this imported Holstein Friesian cow resembles the head of an American full blooded Jersey of one of the best families. Across the water in Holland the dairy type holds the same head as it does here in America. With a little experimenting the owner thus can tell by the looks of a heifer whether she will be a good milk cow and one of the most valuable points to judge from is the shape of her head. If it is short, broad, heavy and blocky, she is lazy. If it is long, sharp-muzzled and delicate, she has one of the leading traits of a good milker.

The cow whose head is here shown has given 76 pounds 4 ounces of milk in one day. In one week her milk made 10 pounds 9 ounces of cheese. The given for the advertising record of cow has 20 pounds of butter a day.

Price of Beer.

In the recent breaking full of prices, in the unceasing leveling of values, beer has fully shared. It has been quoted around $6.00 and $7. It has been phenomenally low. The remaining champions of cots and cots and the flesh pottages of early summer account for the low level reached by malt food. The demand has dropped away largely, so the grains and grass supplied cheaply the place usually filled by beer in the fodder rations. Until the return of cool and rain impose beer will continue at a low level, rising a little, perhaps, if the late summer and the early fall shall be distinguished by drought conditions and the fall grass lack the latter value. Beer has been little needed in late mere summer feeding conditions, so farmers have kept pastures reasonably fresh.

Freshended dairymen have been making rye while the sun of low prices has been shining. They have bought beer lower than ever before and hence than some of them ever expect to buy it again. They have filled bins and granaries for future use. The best of the notes indicate like bins in their feed rooms. Dairies dairymen have been liberal purchasers of bran, as the height on corn and rots outward has put the price of these grains relatively higher than that of beer. The cheapness of feed has materially helped the butter maker face the declining values of his product. Fresh grass and low priced grains and bran have saved the butter maker's bacon—if we may borrow a figure of speech from an industry closely related to dairying. Neither wheat nor oats is thinking of something to its promise, and although every prospect pleases at present as to the coming candidate, yet it would seem that those who can afford to lay in a liberal stock of bran at current low rates will save at least the interest on their investment.—Exchange.

Sickness on Modern Butter.

In a speech at an agricultural fair the great Englishman delivered himself as follows on the subject of present day butter:

There is the social article of butter. I suppose we are all more or less familiar with that article. I believe we may hold up our heads in the face of our neighbors in other places and contend that the butter of Hawarden does credit to Hawarden. I understand upon the highest authority that it is very good. It bears a good name and character as to its quality. I am not a judge in any sense of the word, yet I am a consumer, and the consumer has something to do with it, and having been a consumer I venture to take it upon myself to say that we have in our house, and no doubt it is the same in other houses, not better butter now than we did in former years.

Pens.

People who make pens are like warm boys that put coppers on the railroad tracks. They amuse themselves and raise children, but have little trick may upon a freight train of concessions for the sake of a flattened written.—G. W. Dubois.

Which would you rather trust? An old, true friend of twenty years, or a stranger? You may have little health left. Will you risk it with a stranger? If you have a cough, are losing flesh, if weak and pale, if consumption stares you in the face, lean on Scott's Emulsion. It has been a friend to thousands for more than twenty years. They trust it and you can trust it.

Let us send you a book telling you all about it. Free for the asking.
